I now hand the conference over to Vidhi Shah from Antique Stock Broking. Thank you, and over to you, ma'am.

Vidhi Shah: Thank you, Kathy. Good evening, everyone. Today, we have with us the entire management team of Share India Securities represented by; Mr. Parveen Gupta, who is the Chairman; Mr. Kamlesh Shah, who is the Managing Director; Mr. Rajesh Gupta, the Non-Executive Director; Mr. Sachin Gupta, who is the CEO and Whole Time Director and Mr. Abhinav Gupta, who is the President.

Without further ado, now I shall hand over to Mr. Kamlesh Shah for opening remarks. Over to you, sir.

Kamlesh Shah: Thank you very much. On behalf of Share India management, I welcome all of you to the earnings call for Q2 and half year ended on 30th September. Greetings of the season, Happy New Year and wish you all a very prosperous investing year. 'Trade me invest karo' that's our new the slogan of Share India. We believe that the best investment is to start trade. Once you start trade, you learn a lot of things and that is how the things get developed.

Coming on the financial performance for Q2, the profit after tax, you must have all seen the financials. Still, I would like to highlight the key figures. Q2, we have profit after tax of INR 72 crores against INR 42 crores last year. So year-on-year basis, we have 68% growth and on quarter-on-quarter also, we have 22% growth. The revenue also jumped to INR 243 crores from INR 212 crores last year. Our PAT margin is at all-time high at 30.9%, against 20% last year. Our EBITDA margin is 47% against 31.5% last year.

For the last three years, we have recorded more than 100% growth in profitability and revenues. I would like to take you to the journey of Share India. It's a 26-year-old company, October 2017, the journey was very humble, but with clear focus on technology. Technology, we believed firmly would be a key growth driver. We took two important steps to transform the company. The first was listing on SME platform on 5th of October 2017, exactly five years before. And that time the market cap was around INR 100 crores for the company. After spending two years in SME, we shifted to the main board of BSE on 2nd of December, with market cap of INR 266 crores.

The second important step that we took was to acquire and merge Total Securities Limited a Bombay-based company. And it is now two years and nine months almost of the successful merger, and from that the growth has taken a priority. And the market cap has gone up from that INR 266 crores to close to INR 4,400 crores as of today. So that's a significant achievement, and it is all because of the vision and the steps taken by the management at the appropriate time. We fully believe that the consolidation is the way forward and we have to develop sustainable business model, which has many verticals like equity, derivative, commodity, currency, distribution, wealth management, merchant banking, insurance booking, NBFC, strategy-wise trading, market-making and trading in international markets.

Now we have all these verticals active and profitable for the company. That is how, we could derive to such a magnificent figures on a continuous basis. All this has been achieved by our 12 subsidiary, including the holding company as for the regulatory requirement and we command

market share, on commodity we have 5% to 7% market share, currency we have 8% to 10% market share, and in ISFC, we are market makers, and we hold 20% market share.
The unique business model, we focus on technology, we have HNI, FPI, brokers and large group is out clients and strategic trading using artificial intelligence and machine learning is our key strength area. It is to be noted that during last two years, during the COVID period, there were many-many challenges, but we could overcome all those challenges with the help of technology. And during the last two years, we have seen many regulatory reforms. Now all those reforms have worked in favor of your company. And this has helped us to aggregate more clients because we are the most cost effective because of our market share. So whatever steps we took and the market also has favored us and that has created a formidable and sustainable business model. Stages set for Indian capital market to take off, and we are ready to meet the challenges. In the major development, I would like to say that the acquisition of two large technology companies has worked in favor of the company. It is now, the operations have been stabilized, we are rolling out new products, we introduced IDT based product, on 22nd of September, and we are all set to launch algo-based product in the month of February or March, once we get the regulatory approval.
And the retail initiative is our key focus area going forward. So with these two initiatives, we should be able to achieve that growth as well. The other development is SGX connector started operating from Gift City, and we expect that to be fully operational by month of March 23. So that will also add a lot of value to the business of our company. We have made operational second membership in the name of Share India Algo Plus, it was formerly known as Total Commodities. Now it is -- the name has been changed to Share India Algo Plus, so that membership -- that company is 100% subsidiary of the company, and that will provide another major milestone for us to increase our visibility, increase our turnover, increase our client base and solve our clients in the most appropriate manner, meeting their individual requirements. We are here to adopt disruptive strategies to maintain leadership in the market.

India has seen best of the best time. We have client base all over India, going -- I mean, the investor base of India has grown from 4 crores demat accounts to 10 crores demat account, around INR 40 lakh crores is the AUM of mutual fund, we have INR 12,000 crores of SIP on a monthly basis, all these things will further boost the growth prospect of the company. We feel that year 2017 -- 1970 was the decade for Japan, 1980 was decade for USA, 1990 was decade for China. The next 10 years belongs to India.
Recently, Morgan Stanley has released a report, which says that India will transform from next India to new India and it will become third largest economy with GDP of 7.5 trillion and market cap of around 10 trillion. India will become factory to the world, India will become office to the world, and India will become consumer to the world. So, we see a very good prospect for your company. This year's, growth already has picked up, we have clocked INR 131 crores for half year ended September. And we feel confident that this year also we will achieve better than what market -- other our peers have performed, and with your support and trust and confidence we will do better.
I would like to thank all our employees, bankers, all our associates, who have supported us whole-heartedly. And with your support, we will tend to deliver our best. Thank you.
Moderator: So we open the floor for questions. Ladies and gentlemen, we will now begin the question-and-answer-session. Anyone, who wishes to ask a question may press star and one on their touchtone telephone. If you wish to remove yourself from the question queue, you may press star and two. Participants are requested to use handsets while asking a question. Ladies and gentlemen, we will wait for a moment while the question queue assembles. Thank you. Participants to ask a question you may press star and one. The first question is from the line of Nitin Bhalla, individual investor. Go ahead.

Nitin Bhalla: Good evening, sir, hi. I would like to ask Share India is -- what the target for Share India is CAGR quarter-to-quarter you are expecting? Quarter-to-quarter growth of Share India, expectations of quarter-to-quarter growth of Share India?
Kamlesh Shah: Sachinji, you are there on the line?
Sachin Gupta: If you see from last five year, every quarter we are growing and approximately annual PAT grow more than 100%, right? So but the point is, the company is focusing ahead, the company is doing best in the terms of utilization of capital, the company is doing best in diversifying the product base and slowly and gradually company is going into the retail side. So the quarter-to-quarter number -- I don't want to comment on every quarter but yes if you compare these two quarters' results with last year's two quarters in annual growth number, so we saw good growth. And we believe that same kind of growth should continue, and we're very positive with the environment there in India. As sir has explained, this widget belongs to India. So that generational change in users, in traders, in public. In India professional traders one big perception has been is opened.

So earlier when we used to talk to US people, they were proudly saying that we are professional traders.

Nitin Bhalla: Okay, Sachinji, one more question I would -- Sachinji, in your uTrade tech company you are going to launch new product, which is your dream. So when we'll see its launch? And secondly, how many clients you are targeting in one year?

Moderator: Excuse me, this is the operator. Mr. Sachin Gupta your voice is breaking, so can you please check you connection? Thank you.

Sachin Gupta: So we launched trade platform on 22 September which we promised in early calls. On which company was working on and on 22 September we launched our IBD platform, on which we registered 3,000 clients in one month. Which is the highest in the history Share India and we were not expecting this kind of response from the market, but market itself is so bullish that we got the double number registered in first month.

On the same line we have our dream project Algo for retail on which development is working. I hope internally product will be available by December. And after stress test in March with the regulatory approvals, we're very hopeful that by end of February or March, we'll be able to launch the product. So as far as retail number is concerned, we going very conservatively not expecting very high numbers. Whatever number we take, we're more focused on active client rather than just opening an account. Once the Algo product will be on, all our strategies will be push aggressively in the market. And we believe in the next two to three years, a sizable number of retails you will see in Share India.

Moderator: Thank you. Reminder to all the participants to ask a question you may please press star and one. The next question is from the line of Rahul. Please go ahead.

Rahul: Hi, everyone. So my question would be what is the company's segment-wise revenue breakup? And what's the Share India current clients spend, with they're working on?

Sachin Gupta: Abhinav, if you can answer, please?

Abhinav Gupta: Sure. So as far as revenue breakup is concerned, currently, around 50% of our revenue would be coming from PROP, around rest 50 wou ld be fairly distributed across the client segments.

And of which around 35% would be from brokerage broking clients and others from other segments, which include NBFC, insurance and technology. As far as client strength is concerned, we clot as of and as sir said that we have launched a product in September. So post October, we had a total client spend of 23,309.

Rahul: My one more question would be, we talked about Algo a lot. So when would we -- it would be available for the retail customer? What would be the future plan of the Algo trading?

Abhinav Gupta: As Sachin sir has already explained, we are planning to launch the expanded CUG launch in Q4 of this year-- this financial year, that is February and March ending. We are very hopeful for the product that is the entire product that we have there -- So that is the product that we have based most of our customer acquisition strategy on. So from Q4 of this year, the product should come to the market, and we'll be very receptive to any changes that might be required by the clientele basis their feedback. And not only that, once the product is launched, every six months, post this, we would continue to bring out new products, so as to cater to the growing demand of the derivative traders in India.

Sachin Gupta: I want to add one point here, Abhinav. I may?

Abhinav Gupta: Sure sir, please.

Sachin Gupta: Sir see, I just want to clear my investors one thing, the people generally get confused that Share India is also looking for targeting discounted broking clients like, we'll be in competition people like Zerodha and Angel. So I just want to make clear that Share India is not targeting that particular vertical. So the idea is that we want to have maximum possible active plans within Share India rather than only account opening. So, the idea is we are putting more effort on technology and value addition in terms of products, in terms of where we can help clients in understanding market and trading market.

So we are not only push plan for the investment, but for trading. That's why our slogan is 'trade me invest kar'. So our competition will be like with the tech guys, where we'll be giving Algos, where we'll be giving back testing, we'll be giving APIs and some more advanced technologies.

So we are not here for IBD only, but IBD is just a platform, leveraging on we will be focusing on technology-based product, where we'll have more active customers rather than only account opening.

So you might see that customer acquisition is a bit slow, but the acquisition will be 100% based on the active participation by the customer. So don't get confused that Share India will compete with Zerodha and Angel. We are not trying to do that. But yes, we'll try to project ourselves as tech broker for the trader.

Moderator: Thank you. The next question is from the line of Darshan Chauhan an Individual Investor. Please go ahead.

Darshan Chauhan: Hello. Good evening. First of all, congratulations on excellent set of numbers. I have like two questions. My first question is, I see like a good amount of improvement in profit margin. So can you elaborate a little bit on that? And is this sustainable going forward? And second question is, I have seen that you have already launched a trading application for iOS and Android, right? So congratulation on that as well. I want to know if you had any numbers around that weekly active users from that. That's it. Thank you.

Kamlesh Shah: Abhinav, you can take the question.

Abhinav Gupta: Sure, sir. So I'll take the second question first. Essentially for the weekly active users that you have mentioned. So as I said, we have launched the product in September end only and we have added around 3,000-odd customers and those both platforms that you mentioned on iOS an

Android. So as of right now, all of them are active customers. I think usually what happens whenever the new account is open, active customer segment spikes and then it suddenly starts stopping after a period of time. So, we still have to take a call of how much the drop rate out of this for active and non-active would be.

But as I said, we have current strength of around 23,000 total clients and of them the active client would be around 8,000, but most of it from the legacy business that we continue to. And can you please repeat your first question? There was some disturbance in the line, which I couldn't hear properly.

Darshan Chauhan: So my first question was around profit margin. So I see there has been a good improvement in profit margin. So I want to understand like where did the improvement came from? And is it going to be sustainable?

Abhinav Gupta: So, if you look at the consolidated profit statement -- P&L statement, the improvement in profit margin is essentially both the elements of increment in revenue and decrease in costs. The decrease in cost is primarily attributable to two facts that: number one, the second membership that Kamlesh sir, has already mentioned about got active. Because of which there were certain working capital advantages that we were able to achieve. And hence, we were able to reduce cost over there.

Number two, in next last quarter, we moved from PCM base pairing to self-pairing base model, which has helped us save certain cost elements. Because of which the cost associated has been comparatively lower. Having said that, we are ask as a cognizance of the fact that the improvement operating margin has been very significant, though there would be continue to be improvement in the operating margin from year-on-year basis. But it is to seen how sustainable they are. We believe that it would be higher than what is was quarter.

I mean, our best case exemption would be that operating margin would remain between what happed last quarter and in this quarter. But of course, the effect of working capital advantages and the cost reduction mechanism of self-pairing and everything. Need to be seen for at least on the couple of quarter.

Moderator: Thank you. The next question is from the line of Bhavik an Individual Investor. Please go ahead.

Bhavik: First of all, thank you for this opportunity and congratulation for a great set of numbers. So I have couple of questions like, my first question is around the launch of the IBD product and I understand it has been only a month. But I was a progress like has been pretty slow on that front leg, we have approached to 1,000 plus downloads App Store. I wanted to understand like, is there any plan in peers to reach out with the larger retail audience. Like any budget that we have set for advertising. Because I have been observing that now our YouTube channel is become quite active. But again reach is quite limited. So is there any plan going forward so that we can reach to the larger retail audience, and we can put our message forward to them?

Sachin Gupta: Abhinav should I take this?
Abhinav Gupta: Yes. So I'll start with it. So thank for the question, I think it's a very valid question from your side. I'll try an answer it in multiple path. And please do let me know or please to come back if certain part of [Inaudible 0:25:29]. First of all, as for the download is concern so what we have done is we have essentially launched two apps on Play Store. It's not only on -- even on iOS and Android, we have two on each of this platform. What we have done is, we've reduced distributed our segment amongst a prime group broking client and the normal retail client. And each of them has more than 1,000 plus downloads. So even within a month. So number of downloads that have happened is essentially what we're expecting it to be.
So 1,000 -- downlo aded it on each of this app on both Android and iOS. So that were the number is comparatively higher that what we are all expecting it to be, number one. Number two, as far as the reach is concern, we have just launched our platform. There are certain marketing initiative that are currently in the pipeline. But we wanted to test our feasibility and do the dry runs earlier before going to the full throttle on the marketing exercises. So of course, you would continue to see just everyone pointed at yourself that we've become quite active on the YouTube. But there would certain marketing initiative to expand that reach and over the course of next few quarters, you will continue to do -- get that, number two.

Number three, as Sachin sir has already explained to you that we're not in the race to expand or get the market share in the number of clients that we are looking at. Because we are trying to target very niche segment with a particular product profile that we want to offer. People who are looking Algo specifically and who are looking for strategy-based trading should identify Share India as preferred broker. So we are not in the race to get the most customer traction in terms of number of clientele's on our app. So that is not the agenda neither that is the marketing objective that we are trying to cater.
And number fourth, as far as the budget is concerned, we do have earmarked certain budget, but most of our marketing budget would be coming into play once we launch our Algo product as far as the IBD product is concerned, that is only a stepping stone before we launch our Algo base product. So, most of the marketing initiatives and the most of the budgets that we have earmarked internally and got the approval for, would be spent once the Algo product is launched. So before that, the progress would be very internally very surgical and target-based customer targeting approach.

Bhavik: I wanted to know like, do we have any internal target like the contribution the retail business will have in the overall pie like maybe in a couple of years?
Abhinav Gupta: Yes. So as I said, we have consistently maintained in our earlier con calls as well that we want to get the client denominated market share -- revenue share of our P&L to a very large extent. Currently, they constitute around 35%, which has been continuously progressing for the last few quarters. So it has progressed from around 25% to 35% in the last six quarters or so. We believe that there is huge potential. So when I said client-dominated income, there will be essentially three elements to it.
One is the institutional business, that we are very hopeful that will continue to bring us more revenue. Number two is the [ultra-cheap 0:28:46] segment that we continue to cater in the prime broking app that we have launched essentially to cater to that segment. And number three is the retail. So when we talk about the entire clientele business, all these three elements form part of it -- over the course of next two quarters, we believe the entire client dominated piece should constitute more than 60% of our overall revenue. So that is the kind of internal target that we are working.
Sachin Gupta: And I want to add one more point. See, as I explained, as Abhinav has explained, that IBD is not a full-fledged play where Share India is targeting. So IBD is just a stepping stone, but the main idea is the Algo-based trader and having active traders, active clients with us. So I tell you the reason behind, the reason is that this customer acquisition cost is super high. And lifetime revenue from the total number of customers is fairly low because a lot of brokers are offering discount-based broking platform.
So there is no value for the company if we burn a lot of money on customer acquisition in IBD side. So what we thought the new idea is that why not to add value in customers like in terms of why not to provide them a sophisticated technology, which we guys are using or HNIs are using why not to give them API, back test, forward test. Forward test I haven't seen very few companies are there, so all these four products in one package and at a very reasonable price. So that's the whole idea of acquiring uTrade was. So once the product will be out, then we'll be open with the aggressive marketing strategies and customer acquisition.

There is customer acquisition cost versus the revenue from a customer is pretty much in our favor. So that's why we are not putting hard on effort on acquiring customers or marketing at this stage. Secondly, YouTube, so please try to understand YouTube is a journey. The idea of creating a YouTube channel is very simple if you may have checked our channel, it just speaks about the education knowledge and views on base of the today's market close. And traders like Bhavaya, traders like Aman, they both are active there.
So the whole idea is to create a follower, create a team of retailers with us over a period of five years, if we have our internal collateral where we can have 5 to 10 lakh subscribers to whom we can showcase our products, to whom we can talk about changes in regulatory system and everything. So that's a whole idea of YouTube and it's a pretty new child. It's hardly a month old, and we have 1,500 subscribers. We believe, over the period of time, slowly or gradually, it will also catch up with the other channels.

Bhavik: Correct. No, my only worry was that we are probably not advertising it enough, because with the kind of other broking companies spending a lot on advertising probably that we will not be visible to the retail public. That was one of the worry I had regarding the product.
Sachin Gupta: You are 100% right, but we are not very aggressive, because we want to save now so that we can spend at the time of launch of Algo products. So, but you see what gives me thrills that entire team is so pushed up, so motivated that they are doing YouTube, they are doing multiple ways they are engaging with the retail customer, which we earlier we were not.
So you can see the physical change in behavior of the team where we are trying to reach to the retail customers. So that real is there. It's a matter of time that will be a customer-facing company. And as we talk on, speak on previous calls that idea is to go to retail with tech. So I'm feeling that will in my team, and we believe in the next two years, you will feel that Share India is a sizable player in retail business.
Abhinav Gupta: And I would just like to say though, I mean, I would just like to add. So I mean though we internally track month-on-month progress for internal targets. But from an investor point of view, we would like to be very clear on this that month-on-month, approach is not the best approach as far as this transformation of our digital journey is concerned, we are looking at the bigger picture from a two year perspective. We are not going to go full throttle or marketing or neither are we targeting the kind of customers to go to the mass level as and into the very expanded base.
We believe that we are bringing out a very niche product for which there is already an audience, which is looking for it. And hence, it should be a full approach that we are targeting our product on rather than the push approach basis, media spend, advertising marketing because the customer acquisition cost in that kind of a scenario is too high for us.
Bhavik: So my last question is, could you just also provide me with the market share that we currently have in the auction segment, Kamlesh sir, indicated in the opening remarks, it is close to 6%, right?
Abhinav Gupta: Correct.
Bhavik: So why are we like losing market share on a quarter-on-quarter basis? I believe that we use command a market share of close to 9%, I think, a year back. And we've been losing market share on that. So could you also provide me with what exactly is going on in the broking business?

Sachin Gupta: Abhinav, let me comment on this. For a minute and then you take it up. As I mentioned to you, we have taken a new membership in the name of Total Commodities, which is now named as Share India Algo-plus. So part of the business will diverted to that company also. So when I speak about Share India, -- if it is a group, we have better share. But naturally, I was speaking about Share India, where we have 6% market share.
And you're right. I mean, to some extent, the volume in the market has grown -- and we have certain specific scale to use and the profitability we maintain. So we are not into rate or we are not in to achieve turnover at the cost of efficiency. So that -- these two reasons are primary reason for us to be very conservative on the market share, but still, it is -- we are among the top five in terms of turnover as a group in auction. Abhinav you can add.
Abhinav Gupta: Yes, sure. So I think sir as, very beautifully and very articulately explained it to you that our second membership has already started. So we are cognizant of the fact that the market share has been -- has seen a slight drop, but -- so if you add the market share is comparatively higher in our investor presentation, you get to put the numbers.

Number two, we have always maintained over the last few calls that we have had with investors that our focus is to improve the efficiency of the strategy that itself, we are kind of trading internally. So our main focus was not on the EDTO or I mean EDTO is an element which we very closely track and we have kind of similarly maintained the kind of EDTO that we have essentially earlier is just that the market scale has improved so much on the kind of turnover at the market level has increased so much, that we have not kept pace because we have always been now focused because the kind of strategies that we were trading earlier has been in the marketplace for the last four, five years, and we wanted to make them more efficient and that was the focus was for the last 6-odd quarters.
And because of which we are seeing a continuous improvement in our operating profile, operating margin profile and margin profile. And we believe that -- as sir said that as we get more size and scale, it is important for us to be able to command that kind of premium of anyone getting associated with Share India. And not into the entire rat race of getting the turnover based EDTO is higher. We have maintained the EDTO that we usually used to have. It is just that the market scale has increased and we have focused more on the improvement and efficiency of the strategies that we trade.
Bhavik: Got it. So expect right the broking business also to grow along with the other subsidiaries business that we have?
Abhinav Gupta: 100%, in fact that is the main focus for the entire scheme.
Moderator: Thank you. The next question is from the line of Ashwin Sood, Share-India. Please go ahead.
Ashwin Sood: Hello.

Moderator: Ashwin Sood, your line is unmuted. You may go ahead please. There is no response on the line of current participants. Ladies and gentlemen, that was the last question for today. I now hand the conference over to Mr. Praveen Gupta for his closing comments. Over to you, sir.
Praveen Gupta: Thank you. To begin with, I would like to thank all the Investors for joining the con call. I would also like to thank all the shareholders for their continuous support. Your belief in us fuels our motivation to keep working hard. Share India has increased its focus on retail business in order to increase its sustainability. Please, do share tha t the second quarter was the best quarter we had so far and we are targeting to deliver similar growth in coming years. I hope we will continue to get this support from our shareholders in the future as well. Thank you.

Moderator: Thank you. Thank you, members of the management. Ladies and gentlemen, on behalf of Antique Stock Broking, that concludes this conference call. Thank you for joining us and you may now disconnect your lines.
Sachin Gupta: Thank you, everyone.
Abhinav Gupta: Thank you.
Kamlesh Shah: Thank you, everyone.

Vidhi Shah : Thank you, Ranju. Good evening, everyone. We have with us the entire management team of Share India Securities represented by Mr. Kamlesh Shah , who's the Managing Director; Mr. Rajesh Gupta, who is a non -Executive Director; Mr. Sachin Gupta, who is the CEO and Whole - Time Director; and Mr. Abhinav Gupta, who's the President. We also have with us Mr. Kunal Nandwani who's the CEO of uTrade Solution s.

With this, I now hand over to Mr. Kamlesh Shah for opening remarks. Over to you, sir.

Kamlesh Shah: Yes. Thank you, Vidhi madam. Good evening, everyone. First of all, thank you to all the investors for joining this call today. Share India has 29 years o f successful journey. Share India has made rapid growth over the last 5 years and blossomed into Fintech broker with strong domestic presence and sizable international operation at GIFT City.

In terms of business volumes, Share India occupies a premium position among the industry peers. We are among the top 10 in terms of turnover in all segments and capture around 5% market share of option trading with more than INR12,000 crores average daily turnover. I'm extremely happy to share the performance of the company for financial year '22, '23. Financial year '23 was a blockbuster year in the history of Share India in spite of industry headwinds, led by increase in the interest rates, globally on ac count of high inflation, regulatory reforms, and also geopolitical issues that we all are aware of.

We would like to highlight first quarter 4 performance. In quarter 4, we recorded more than INR340 crores of revenue compared to INR293 crores in quarter 4, March '22. This was highest revenue in 1 quarter. First ever quarterly profit after tax of more than INR100 crores, which gives a strong growth of 40% year -on-year basis and 15% on a quarter -on-quarter basis. EPS of INR33.09.

So ov erall, this was the blockbuster quarter for the year. If you see the annual figures, you will be even more pleasingly surprised, company recorded highest ever annual profit after tax of INR330 crores against INR201 crores year '21, '22, showing a strong gr owth of [00 0:03:29]. First ever annual revenue of more than INR1,000 crores. In fact, the revenue for the year is INR1,100 crores.

More than INR1,000 crores of net worth versus INR458 crores of net worth in the year '21, '22. Earnings per share also has c locked a century. It is more than INR100 crores. The 7 -year CAGR is close to 77%, which is among the highest in the industry. Profit after tax margin for the year is more than 30%. EBITDA margin for the year is more than 45%. This year, 30% of our profit amounting to INR101 crores of the consolidated PAT is coming from our subsidiary, showing overall growth as a group.

We are good on capital front as well. Recently, we successfully completed [inaudible 0:04:28] of more than INR800 crores that combines share s and partly paid warrants. This was also unique in the industry, and it has benefited our shareholders the most.

Currently, we are sitting at more than INR1,000 crores of net worth is also a highlight for the year. In the year 2018, when our company got l isted, we w ere having profit after tax of near INR15 crores and net worth of just INR73 crores. After 5 years, just 5 years, and we see fantastic growth of 2,100% in PAT and 1,295% growth in the net worth. This translates into profit after tax of INR330 cr ores and net worth of INR1,018 crores.

Other highlights during the year were 11 subsidiaries to cater all the financial products, market maker in this GIFT City, SGX Nifty which is going to be renamed as a Gift Nifty from 3rd of July, and it will be actively traded. It will be shifted from Singapore and actively traded at GIFT City Ahmedabad, top performing company in the listed field

We are also included in MSCI small -cap index. We are -- Along with giving back to the society with this field by sharing [inaudible 0:06:01] not only with money, but real upliftment of society by providing skill development and involvement of Share India management. Focused growth strategy for going forward with penetration of retail participation through uTrade Algos. This is, again, a unique feature of the company. And we are going to provide Algo to the retail investors. And this is one of the kinds and it will change the entire eco space of the broking industry.

We are thankful to our stakehold ers for more prominently our employees, investors, our associates, exchange partners, regulators, bankers, clients, and industry as a whole. Thank you for your trust and confidence in Share India.

I open the floor for any questions or observations by our e steemed investors. Thank you.

Moderator: The first question comes from the line of Ashwin, an individual investor. Please go ahead.

Ashwin : I have two questions. My first question is that how is the revenue categorized by the segments, the total revenue wh ich has been generated by the company. And second part of the first question is that how strong is the client base of our company.

Kamlesh Shah: Abhinav, would you like to take this question? And Sachin Gupta you can supplement if required?

Abhinav Gupta : So thank you. Thank you for your question. To answer your first query, around 30% of our revenue came from Client around 10% came from NBFC, the technology and the insurance and the service -related businesses constituted around [13% 0:08:37] and remaining was the proprietary [inaudible 0:08:45] was around 28,000, growing rapidly since we launched our IBT platform in September, so the growth in number of customers has been tremendous. And we have just launched uTrade Algos. So going forward, you will see a s ignificant jump as far as the number of clients are concerned. Thank you.

Ashwin : And the second question that I have, since you mentioned uTrade Algos I think you can make it to that indeed So in regard to uTrade Algos, one, what is the product match and what is the customer acquisition currently that you're see going forward that how well this platform is going to work for the country and number of customers expected in the near term and the long term.

Kamlesh Shah: Sachin Ji, would you like to comment? I think Kunal can answer your second one. Can you?

Kunal Nandwani : Sure, sure. I'll take this. So thanks for the question. I think overall, in terms of the product, we've been working on this uTrade Algos product for a number of years across Share India, uT rade and other group teams. We've launched its beta version, which is the first version in the market in April this year. By end of June, we are going fully public with this product with big bang marketing plan around it and the full product launch.

The pr oduct has gone through intensive testing in the meanwhile in the last few weeks, and it's ongoing in which we have achieved the fastest latency any Indian retail Algo platform can have. We've brought the latencies from seconds in the market down to millise conds now, the product has some great features in which users can build their own algos, you can choose to try it out on utradealgos.com as well as they can use some of the in -built algos of uTrade, which is called uTrade originals, where you can see the p erformance and choose to run them and deploy them. It has many, many more features and we'll keep adding them as we go along.

By end of June, we are doing a full market -wide launch. So that's a broad product plan. There are many more features and functiona lities coming as we go along. We'll keep you posted with the updates every few weeks, months and quarters and you can follow on social media as well to track all this.

In terms of the number of users, our broad target is to get 2 la khs customers within 2 y ears from now. That's the target we are working towards. Yes, I hope I've answered your question.

Moderator: Next question comes from the line of Divyansh Sarda from ITI Alternate Fund Management Limited. Please go ahead.

Divyansh Sarda : Congratulations on such huge and good sets of numbers. I just wanted to know about an overall view, which the management has on the regulatory landscape, especially given the new regulations and how SEBI's intervening or like SEBI's coming in on the PMS site? And if you can just put your views on the regulatory landscape, something?
Kamlesh Shah: Sachin, would you?
Sachin Gupta : Regulator is crazier environment, where they want to bring Indian bucket more secured for the retailer and eventually, it will give confidence to all the stakeholders, all the participants in the broader market. Yes, it's a process. And once you go through this process, it's a bit painful. But if I look at the broader perspective, so it's always good to have a much more regulated system so that everyone, everyone every person is -- should have the full confidence on this entire system because eventually, they all are playing w ith the money.

Nobody wants that buy some misguidance or by any means someone should be able to fool you with your own money. So that whatever regulator is doing it's fine. And yes, there are a lot of new regulations that are coming in terms of like from 2nd May, they ha ve started the pre - allocation one’s people will take a bit time to adjust it. But I hope eventually to margin has to grow and things will come in line.
And again, regulators come with the mutual fund order recently, where they have included TERs. so that's a huge change in [inaudible 0:13:37] so see, broader as Abhinav Ji, said, it's a bit painful in shorter term, but in longer term, it's good for the investor confidence and for the entire ecosystem.
So I believe this particular financial year will be more on the -- more consolidations will happen, more and more regulations will come from the [inaudible 0:13:59] , people would have to accommodate to the level I not see huge growth coming in this year. But the people who will consolidate their business will se e big profit potential in coming years, so certainly due to this regulation lot of [inaudible 0:14:19] brokers or midsize brokers going into in the business.
And how we can say the business has become [inaudible 0:14:26] for them. That's why we came with the right attitude and the idea was to raise funds. So that Share India can be one of the preferred company where they can merge their business -- so that they can think if doing business us.
So I believe this gives us an opportunity in terms of acquiring attractive businesses from the industry and once if you sustain this period, particularly this particular year, then things are going to be bright like industry is growing, economy is stable, it's gone and in itself and i t is an election year, we believe India is -- we don't see INR5 trillion is target. -- toughly the way central government in executing things. So INR7 trillion, INR8 trillion is actually on for the nex

So why not India will -- you have a regulated environment a confidence on the investor so I am a bit conservative for this year only, but in a longer term, of time we must meet all the compassions.
Divyansh Sarda : Okay. And my second question is regarding the industry forecast which the management ma kes, especially in the contrast to the discount brokers versus the traditional brokers that there are a lot of traditional brokers still running in the market. So what do these discount brokers like -- someone like a huge platform like Zerodha and everyone like you guys, you are bringing the uTrade Algos, so what is the differentiation between you guys and what would -- how would you break these traditional brokers who still have, I guess, some part of the market share remaining yet?
Sachin Gupta : So I shou ld say that sir, should we take this question?
Kamlesh Shah: Please take up the yes.

Sachin Gupta : Okay. So my point is this is -- see, Share India is basically of the traditional brokers, correct. We are never competing that traditional brokers because he adroom is not there. So we are competing, as Kunal has just explained where the different products, the way the industry is doing. In last 2 to 3 years, we have seen lots of professional traders have come in the market, which is algos how they are trading, even the retailers are opting for the algo trading, either it is traditional broking or discount broking .
Both are making it unviable for these kind of clients to do algo trading because if you put any number on the turnover, let's say, be a discount brok ing number or a traditional booking number, it will become unviable for them, so what we are trying to do, we are -- we have built up a system under uTrade, where we are giving them our own set of algos approved by the exchange whether they can trade their own algos. It's very simple to trade.

They can use APIs to make their own algos and we will be charging only fixed monthly brokerage and the fixed product cost from the client. So it will remove the ambiguity from the mind of investors or traders that how much they will be charged if they trade through Algo. So we just want to make -- we want to create our own niche in algo trading for retail, where these days retail cannot do algo trading because of the broking structure. So what we are doing, we are comi ng up with the monthly fixed brokerage plan for all those algo traders.
So we believe this algo trader community will go strong and it will be like Kunal said, we are targeting 2 lakh customers in next 2 years like marketing strategies are placed. So -- and the product is like this that people can trade on Algos using -- It will be the fastest available algo platform for the retail. So we'll be very clear in terms of fixed brokerage, and we want to make it viable for this particular community. And we believ e Share India will create its own name into this new particular area.
Moderator: Next question comes from the line of Vedant Pathella from Credent Asset Management. Please go ahead.
Vedant Pathella : Sir, congratulations on the great set of numbers. My first question is that for the past few years, the company has been growing at a constant rate. Do we believe that we can continue this growth trajectory for the years to come?
Kamlesh Shah: Yes. Yes. You are absolutely right. Past few years, we have seen phenomenal growth. We have created a sustainable business model. We have taken new initiatives to expand our product portfolio with focus on retail institutions, overseas and tech -based solutions. Constant is a difficult word, but we are sure to outperform the industry benchmark due to our unique business model.
So we are geared up as per the new requirements of the regulator and with the increased capital base and the management bandwidth, we are sure that we will outperform the industry. Thank you.

Vedant Pathella : Okay. Great to hear that, sir. The second question being that, how is the revenue of the company categorized within different segments? And how strong is the client base for -- currently?

Kamlesh Shah: Sachin Ji or Abhinav?
Abhinav Gupta : So I t hink -- so I'll just repeat the answer. -- business segment, 30% is coming from client business and around 10% comes from NBFC, around 2% to 3% comes from various service - related businesses, including insurance, technology, and capital services. and rest i s proprietary trading. And as far as the number of clients are concerned, around 28,000 is the current strength of the number of clients.
Moderator: Next question comes from the line of Harshit Toshniwal from Bottoms Up Research. Please go ahead.
Harshit T oshniwal : So sir, my question is relating to that proprietary income, now obviously, I wanted to understand slightly more granular on that part of the business. How do we operate? So is it our money using our own algos which generates that income and if yo u can throw some color on how should we, as an investor, how should we look at the sustainability of the 70% of the top line. And if I read it correctly, when you say it's the proprietary trading income, it's basically the trading gains, which we have for that particu lar period?
Kamlesh Shah: Sachin, Sachin Ji you can answer.
Abhinav Gupta : Yes, yes, sure. So I'll start with it, and I think Kamlesh will answer it towards as and when required. So I'll answer your question in third part in the last part first about the sustainability of that part. I think as far as the sustainability is concern ed, it's a size business. It's a scale business. So over the last few years, you've seen that pie has grown significantly in terms of the absolute amount but not in the terms of percentage amount because we believe that the Indian markets are here to stay. And as more and more participants are coming into the market, that business will continue to have traction at [inaudible 0:22:54] having some share of that business within our entire top line has been continuously increasing
You are absolutely right when you say that this is that income which is generated whatever algos used to trade off because for that period the income, it's a fair value change that treatment for that period.
Kamlesh Shah: I also want to add one thing. See, I tell you one thing, what is prop, Here Prop is not that Prop that on a -- only 10, 15 people are sitting and generating income for the company on their own trading skills. It's not like that. Our prop income is basically processed. It's just like a normal industry where there are pe ople who are thinking about the strategies, they are back testing. They are testing those strategies. And then strategies are going live with different set of traders and then capital is required, sometimes it's our own capital, sometimes we leverage it fr om the banks. So there is no permanent borrowings for the company.

So it's a process, and we need to continually upgrade these strategies, and there are separate intellectual teams. They are working on that market data; they are working on the how they can improve their existing strategies and they find new strategies for the company. Then company takes certain risk on the strategies, then we deploy these strategies in the market.

So this is a complete process like a normal steel company. the buy a raw mate rial, the process it inside and they sell it to their customers, right? So this is a kind of B2B business. So this is not a typical prop where only 15, 20 people are sitting, and they are trading on their intellectuals and earning or losing money in the ma rket.

it is say an algo which we have designed and that is something which we are -- and it's mostly pretty related algo only, so that algo is used to trade the prop capital or maybe leverage capital and whatever returns we generate is something which is what we see as the revenue.

So -- which is I just wanted to whether my understanding is correct or not? And if it is correct, I wanted to understand that, is it also scalable. What I mean to say is, f or example, today, we are at a particular scale, but that same algo, can that help us improve on scale and if you also can throw some light on the risk management part of it, that should we expect that this number is going to remain volatile over years and over quarters depending on the market conditions and so for example, the risk that a particular algo might not be working as effectively as it used to be earlier.

So I wanted to get your thoughts on those aspects. And how should we expect this number to move forward? So the 70% of the revenue and because this is a 100% margin business, if I'm not wrong, most of it will flow through towards the bottom line. So which is why I wanted to get some more color out there.

Kamlesh Shah: Who is taking the question? Abhinav?

Abhinav Gupta : Yes. So I'll start with it, and then Kamlesh sir and Sachin sir will add on it. 2 problems in your question and Number one is to the combination of algos, designing an algorithm is continuous process. It's not that we have designed on algo and that is continuously ready, we are designing algos and these are being deployed at a smaller capital. So no one algo constitute the entire subset of the Share India's trading number one.

Number two, we were not equity -based algos we were deriva tive-based algos. So we hardly based any treatment as in around them, the component of trading on algo, if you look at our presence is comes from derivative base strategies. So that's one. Number two, as far as the sustainability is concerned, we believe t hat it's a highly sustainable business, will that be?

We have been growing it continuously, as I said, at a very strong pace over the 5 -year and we think we still have a lot more headroom to grow our market share, if you see even with increased share and i ncreased site has been constant , and we believe the reason is because a lot of new participants are coming into the market who are themselves doing algo we have been a beneficiary of that because the market is in an evolving phase.

Number three, it's not 100% margin because a lot of talent pool is being added into the company. So if you look at our employee strength, we have more than 1,500 employees as a lot traders are involved it's 100% margin business, There's significant amount of employee spend that has been used over here.

Kamlesh Shah: To summarize this -- okay, Sachin Ji you can continue the rest of. I'll take that.

Sachin Gupta : Just one point. One point on scalability. I'll tell you one thing. So -- 2 things I want to add in scalability. One, thi s is a Capital -intensive business. The companies who have a deep pocket, that's what I said, we are adding more capital in terms of right issues we bought in. And we are seeing still -- this year, we are having more than INR1,000 crores net worth. So this gives us edge over our competitors.

So as far as scalability is concerned, that this business is surely scalable, like NSE's is extremely innovative in terms of product. As I said, SEBI is regulating market in a way that investor confidence will go up as t he participation is growing in India and India is growing. So stock margin has to grow and if stock market will grow, this is -- this is a scalable business.

So secondly, as I told that consolidation is happening. So a lot of new set of brokers, we are in touch with, who can shift their business with us or either merge the company wi th us. That's another opportunity for us.

Secondly, as you see the product changes introducing new products like they recently came with the FINNIFTY 1.5 years back, and FINNIFT Y now is contributing a lot to our business. This -- now they came up with the mid -cap Midcap Nifty, I believe that is going to another hit products in the coming years. And now exchange has come up with the crude or NSE has come with the crude oil and the natural gas contract.
So exchange is also very innovative in terms of new products. And it gives an edge to companies like us because, again, we have a good R&D team with us who do a lot of research on the new products and participate. So in FINNIFTY, Sha re India always maintaining a good market share. Even in mid -cap Nifty, we have started, in commodity, we have started. So we believe that Indian exchange is actually innovative.
So that gives us a lot of scalability thing with us. So we believe scalabilit y of two types One, India as a whole country growing, market is growing, business is scalable, exchanges are innovative that gives us new products. Again, that gives us scalability. Third, consolidation also gives us the more seizure business. That's on sc alability side, we firmly accept that.
Kamlesh Shah: Yes, yes. See, in short, I would like to summarize that ours is a unique business model, which is based on technology that is -- we are no less fintech broker. It is not just 1 or 2 strategies. We have a bunch of about 25, 30 different strategies that works differently in the market. And these strategies keep on optimizing. We keep on optimizing the strategies, we had last time also explained that we have acquired Algowire, which is our in -house tech comp any, and it takes care of all our software -related issues and that keeps us 2 steps ahead of the market. The market has gone into photo finished kind of things. So here, a lot of fine work has to be done. And in -house tech company gives us a lot of advanta ge.
Second thing, because of sheer volume that we command in the market, we are the most competitive. We are 30%, 40% competitive compared to our peers. So that also is helping a lot. And this top desk, whatever we whatever technology we developed and whatever practices we put in to use, those are available to our clients also. So that also attracts a lot of clients to be onboarded on our platform.

So this is -- and then lastly, I would like to say that we are one of the best state -of-art risk management system . So that also makes a lot of difference. It guards our client also in the volatile market. So all these factors put together takes us into commanding position. We are optimistic about the market and whatever reforms have taken place will take us even towa rds the consolidation. And ultimately, we will emerge as one of the leading players in the market. Thank you.
Abhinav Gupta : Yes, I'm just trying to add more points. Number one, this business doesn't contribute around 70%. This will be contributing around 60% of our total business. So I think your interpretation was wrong over there. Number two, this business will continue to grow. But within the entire ecosystem of the total revenue breakup, the percentage share of this revenue will continue to grow down e ven though we are very optimistic on this business, our other businesses which are more client -related uTrade algos coming into the state that business will grow much faster than these kinds of businesses .
Harshit Toshniwal : Got it. Got it. One last questi on, if I may ask, is on the -- so these algos which we use for our trading is the same which we also offer to our clients. If I'm not wrong. And in that case, do we have any measure of success ratio for clients in terms of their overall return using algo a nd to ensure that customer's stickiness, so you have around 26,000, 27,000. So ou obviously much more professional, say, that -- so how should we look at that churn within that portfolio? And the reason I'm asking is that because from moving f rom 26,000 to 2 lakhs, do you have any way to ensure that the or the customer is validated by our benefits from the Algos.

Kamlesh Shah: Sachin sir, you want to take it or should I start it. I will start it and Sachin you can take on. So we are offering free 3 years back testing facility and one month borrow testing facility. So that itself will give a lot of confidence to the clients who are going to use our algos. They will be able to take themselves and see how the algss are performing and which algo is performing and what kind of returns are generated. So instead of our saying anything, they can face themselves and choose the algo that they would like to work on. Sachin, you can take it forward.
Sachin Gupta : And secondly, I want to add one more point that we cannot offer all the strategies to do because some of the strategies have their own risk profile. So whatever strategies we are offering at first go are basically all intra -day strategies option -based wher e calibre position is made. So we don't want any dime for the public at large, so all these strategies are well tested and carry minimal risk for the client.

So we -- the goal is that we are not eyeing much higher returns for the retailers. We are eying more safety for them. So we definitely have offered, and Share India has a sizeable stake in all these strategies. And these all strategies are tried and tested by the Share India. And still, we have deployed huge capital on these strategies. And that's why we are offering some more of the strategies from our entire bunch.

Moderator: Next question comes from the line of Vikas Jain, an Individual Investor. Please go ahead.

Vikas Jain : Congratulations for a good set of numbers, sir. I'm a new retail investor in your company. Sir, I wanted to know that what are the core focus area for the company for next 5 years? All the energy capital, what are dedicated to that core focus area. I wanted to know.

Kamlesh Shah: Sachin Ji, Sachin Ji...

Sachin Gupta : So sir, I want to tell you one thing that we have -- okay. So the idea is to keep a strong grip on the current business and diversify individual verticals. So I will tell you one unique thing about Share India is that around 30 people from the promoter fam ily, Mumbai, Delhi , they all are working for Share India, and we don't have any other vested interest apart from Share India. So Share India has an NBFC and some of the people are working in the NBFC, they are into microfinance and other businesses. So we are -- and this is growing good. We are very hopeful with future growth of NBFC in next 5 years.

Insurance business is growing good. And this year -- this particular year, FY '23, insurance has done, we have done more than INR40 crores of premium in this f inancial year, and this was only third year for the company.

Secondly, Merchant Banking Division, you will see huge change in the Merchant Banking Division, like Share India is focused on SME, particularly because number of IPO's number of companies coming for the listing are much, much higher than the main board. So we are eying that Merchant Banking Division can definitely show us good results.

And we have uTrade with us and uTrade is primarily focusing on retail -- providing the retail algos to the India n people. So we believe that all these verticals will show positive results in coming years and Share India diversifying into retail.

We are also -- soon in the industry 3 to 4 months, Share India will be setting up an office, especially for institutional clients, setting up a huge desk in Mumbai and that will also show results in coming years. So diversifying into retail, institutional desk, merchant banking and NBFC still holding on to the core business. So I believe next 5 years, we can see at least last as we are growing --there is some noise in the background.

Yes. So since last 8 years, we are growing at 77% of CAGR like base is big now and a new set of challenges, we believe, if not 77%, at least we should grow between 25% to 35% CAGR in the next 5 ye ars that is our goal and next five years investor will see Share India will be having a separate set of verticals and all verticals will be resulting into good profit numbers for the company. So if we make us much more sustainable company than the otherwis e brokers are.

Kamlesh Shah: As a new investor, I would like to welcome you to the Share India family. I hope you had a good experience after acquiring shares of Share India. If you also would like to say something about your investment and your experience of the company that will also help us to further refine our thought process and to see that, I mean, this will help the interest of all the stakeholders. So it is a question from my side to you.

Moderator: Since there is no reply from the line of the Mr. Vikas.

Vikas Jain : Yes. Sir, my experience for investing in your company last 6 months, it was quite good. And I really admire that I find this company to invest first, and I'm also using Share India for investing as well. There I find some deferred latency in Saturday or Sunday, when something that, the app is showing some error in prices? If you can do something in that movement of prices and like some wrong pricing was showing in your app.

Kamlesh Shah: Kunal, you would like to clarify?

Kunal Nandw ani: I think you talked about some other app, that's not So, Abhinav, you please look into this matter. I think it's not uTrade. It is for some other apps, correct?

Abhinav Gupta : I look into its opportunity using sharing?

Vikas Jain: Because I am personal ly using Share India app.
Kamlesh Shah: That is good to know. We will look into this and finally, I would like to ask since you acquired shares for more than 6 months, you must have participated in the right issue also. So how was the experience in the rig hts issue?
Vikas Jain : Yes, sir, yes. It was good. I got the right entitlement.
Moderator: Next question comes from the line of Rahul, an individual investor. Please go ahead.
Rahul : Many congratulations on the achievement of the good set of number. So my question is I think the company loan book size in NBFC and what are the future holds for Share India in that Kamlesh Shah: I didn't get the question. Sachin Ji if you get.
Sachin Gupta : I think the question is about NBFC that is related to NBFC, Kamlesh Shah: Regarding the NBFC, Rajesh Ji can throw light on that.
Rajesh Gupta : Sure. At around INR127 crores in March '23. The clients of almost 63,000 and 45 branches across 5 states. As you look at future growth, we are expecting to open 25 more branches wit h almost with that, we're looking at access clients of more than 1 lakh and we're expecting to close the portfolio at around INR200 crores.
Moderator: Next question comes from the line of Raghav, an individual investor. Please go ahead.
Raghav : I'm Raghav. I am an individual investor, and I need to ask a question. Company has seen significant increase in margin. What are the reasons for the sale? And are they sustainable?
Kamlesh Shah: Sachin Ji?
Sachin Gupta : Sir, see marketing -- margin increase, see, we are into a service industry. And technically, how service industry works. So margins are extremely less at the start. So once you started scaling up beyond a point, if your cost doesn't increase with your revenue due. So what's happening is that in last 5 years, Share India has seen a humongous growth. And with that growth cost hasn gone up, so because of that, we are seeing that Share India margins are really good.

And we believe that as tech is taking over most of the things, so this year, we are -- as I explained that we are into more regulatory thing, and we are experimenting our hands into launching our retail and then insurance and merchant banking, so this year we are focusing more on creating new verticals, where we will put more cost, we'll put m ore effort and you may see that some stagnation in the margins this particular year. But I believe in coming years, as the scalability is there, we believe these margins are definitely going to go up only. There is no chance that margins will come down bec ause we are not a much cost -heavy company.
Moderator: Next question comes from the line of Bhavik, an Individual Investor ? Please go ahead.
Bhavik : First of all, congratulations for a really good set of numbers. So I have a few questions to ask. So firstly , my question is that I see that on a stand -alone basis, like we have grown considerably quarter -on-quarter, but on a consolidated basis, our growth has not been as much as on stand - alone basis. So I see that our NBFC growth has been quite stagnant over th e last one year, so please throw some light on the subsidiaries performance because I see a huge deviation between the standalone and the consolidated performance.
Kamlesh Shah: See, all these subsidiaries are at lesson stage. All the subsidiaries have bas ically been operating for the last 3, 4 years. And Share India as a stand -alone company, as a broking company, has been operating for the last 29 years. So there will be definitely some difference in the performance.
But let me tell you I don't know whethe r you've observed or not from the stand -alone numbers and the consolidated numbers, the consolidated numbers are INR330 crores of that of which INR101 crores has been contributed by the subsidiaries, which are -- you can say, almost like a child. So they a re child to us and there is a lot of growth potential in those companies.
As Sachin ji also mentioned earlier, the different verticals where we are working like insurance broking, NBFC, merchant banking, the distribution business and all the subsidiaries, all the subsidiaries are taking good shape and they are contributing significantly. 30% contribution amounting to INR101 crores of that is sizable, according to us. And all these companies hold bright future as all these are serving the financial service i ndustry.
So the financial service industry has a very good scope of growth in future. So we believe that all these companies will add value, they keep on making the company more sustainable in years to come. And lot of value unlocking happening out of thes e companies as the Share India itself is a listed company, all these subsidiaries are automatically eligible to be listed.
So in long term, as they develop their business and as they get more and more capital and the scalability is achieved, I mean, just n ow Sachin mentioned, that initial stage, you spend more, you earn less, but as you grow and as you arrive the scalability, the profitability will further improve. We believe that even today, the profitability or the contribution by the subsidiary is signif icant compared to any other peers in the industry, but still we feel that going forward, they will provide a sustainable business model and will further improve growth in the top line as well as bottom line.

Abhinav Gupta : If I would like to add.
Kamlesh S hah: Yes, Abhinav, continue.
Abhinav Gupta : So I think your observation notable with quarter 4 because if you look on a year -on-year basis, last year, if I am not wrong, stand -alone consecrated around 75% of the bottom line. And this year, it has contribut ed around 66%, 67%. So I think it might be happening that because of the last Q4, s tand -alone has performed better.

Bhavik : Right. Yes. Actually, my question was regarding Q4 because in Q3, we did a stand -alone PAT of close to INR55 crores and INR92 crores PAT on a consolidated basis. But by this quarter, the breakup is INR85 crores on a stand -alone and INR106 crores on consolidated. So if you have huge debt when it comes to like the consolidated performance, specifically this quarter.
Abhinav Gupt a: Yes. So -- even in a consolidated business, there is a mix of total [inaudible 0:50:39] businesses. But how we look at it from an annual perspective instead of a quarterly perspective, and that's the way internally we analyse now.
Bhavik : Okay. My secon d question is, as the company is planning to raise INR800 crores and INR200 crores has already been raised through the rights issue. So I wanted to understand like how the company is planning to use the funds.
Sachin Gupta : See, this capital rising exercis e is a unique in the way we offer every 50 shares, we've done on bank share, and we have done 17 warrants. Now the volumes were partly paid and there are only INR175 has been paid by the investors. So the balance will be collected in 18 months period. So what we have done is that if one go, we are planning for the capital requirement of the next 2 to 3 years.
And as per the requirement of the company, we'll be getting the funds converted -- the warrants will be converted into the equity, and that much more capital would be available at appropriate time. So it doesn't dilute our earnings also and we get capital as for the requirement in the market conditions and the future growth prospects of the company. So this is one of the unique and visionary.
Secondly, this has created a lot of value for our shareholders also. The warrants which we've got -- the conversion price is INR700 per warrant, of which they will pay 25% now. So they have just paid INR175, INR525 will be paid later on. But in terms of appreciation, they'll get the full appreciation as you may get it on the equity shares. So this is a unique of taking capital as per the requirement and creating value to the investors also.
Kamlesh Shah: I want to add something here. As you also asked tha t how the company is going to use these funds. As I explained that company's focus is to enter into a retail business. So 1 thing. So as we all know, the SEBI has already restricted leveraging in the market. So only one product is left, that is MTF, Margin Trading Funding. So MTF is one product which entire retail sector look forward to. So every broker who is aspiring to start the retail business, we should have MTF products with us. So MTF, we need to fund it on our own funds. So there is no refunding off against the MTF.

So one, Share India will use these funds for the MTF book, and I think which is far easier to create a lot of demand here for this product in the market and it will help us in our retail ambitions, one.
Two, the way we are aggressively pushing towards retail customer acquisition and institutional debt. So let us suppose, if a customer comes with INR100 of capital, so we need to put at least INR25 from our own sources to make sure that clients can trade ef fortlessly, flawlessly. So like it's trying to come with INR100 INR25 of capital is required from the broker.
So we believe that in coming 2 to 3 years, a lot of new customers, retailers and HNIs will come in. And this particular INR500, INR800 crores will help us in swapping that capital to service those clients. So MTF and retail so this entire asset going to help in developing our retail business or the insti -debt.
So as I said, company is focusing on diversifying into new verticals. So with the vision o f these 2 things, we have launched this right issue thing. And we believe the time we will receive the funds. This company will have a strong base for the retail.

Bhavik : Okay. I just have one last question. So as you Sachin sir indicated that we will be l aunching the uTrade product by June, so basically, and the fee would be basically on a monthly basis. So have you like decided any fees that we would be charging the customers for using the uTrade algo product?
Sachin Gupta : Not exactly yet because there are not many things we are still discussing on like a number of packages or number of services they will opt for. And the main goal is make it viable for the smaller traders who again will have to make it viable for even perso n who are coming with a INR5 lakh of capital for Algo Trading. Only then we'll be able to penetrate deeply into the retail market. So we are still deliberating on the offering.
We believe in next -- by the time we launch next 15 days, we'll close the prici ng thing, and we'll accordingly publish on the website, then everybody comes to know about the pricing. So I'll tell you very simple example, for my -- for all the investors here in the call, so I just don't want to name it because like a person who is hav ing a INR10 lakh of capital and he wants to use the Algo Trading, so in Algo Trading, there are multiple legs we have to fire at one go to create a position, right?
Let us know someone is firing 3 legs at one go, so he is paying typically INR20 per leg. So this is more of market standard price for the slot booking. If they are paying INR60 to create a algo, create a position and unbinding, again, he is paying INR60, so INR120, they are paying for creating an unwinding a position. So is they trade only 10 ti mes in a day where algo trades 100 times a day, so they are paying INR1,200 for a day, correct?

And for a month, they are paying INR24,000. So this is what is a -- out of INR10 lakh, they are saying 2.4% just as a brokerage. Over and about they are paying to SKT, exchange charges and all these things. So nobody can earn money using algo reading if they put any number on the turnover side.
So here, we are coming as a disruptive model. We want to make it viable for even the person who has come up with the INR5 lakh of the capital. So we are deliberating on the pricing issues. In the next 15 days, we'll close it and publish it on the website.
Moderator: Thank you. Ladies and gentlemen, we have reached the end of question -and-answer session. I would now like to hand the conference over to the management for closing comments.
Kamlesh Shah: Sachin ji?
Sachin Gupta : On the behalf of the entire management of Share India, I would like to thank all the investors, all the stakeholders for believing us, for having faith in Share India, and last year was fabulous for the entire company, and it gave us extremely strong footing, and it gave us a mental strength that and also believe that we need to achieve more. So company is extremely performance hungry, and we want to make this company a more sustainable and financial conglomerate rather than only a booking company, where we have a tech company with us.
You cannot find many brokers who have such a strong tech teams like uTrade and Algowire behind us. And third, in next year's company will be into retail instead . So we'll try to close the vertical and by these kind of numbers by faith of our investors, we were able to achieve that right issue, which was like it was really tough and still we think about the space under could right issue of the company like in broking. You cannot find much of the companies who may have achieved it. Just because of the investor's faith in the company, we were able to do that. And we believe that, and we assure on behalf of the management and fai th investors have put on us, will deliver and we might consolidate. But in longer term, Share India we'll be working only for the investors, and goal is to achieve the bigger heights in the coming y ear. Thanks a lot,

everyone.
Moderator: Thank you. On beha lf of Antique Stock Broking Limited, that concludes this conference. Thank you for joining us. You may now disconnect your lines.

Kamle sh Shah: Thank you, Mr. Sohail. Good evening, everyone. Welcome to Share India Earnings Call to discuss the results of Q2 of Financial Year 2024. I wish you all a very happy festive season. It will be fair to say that for quarter 2 financial year , 2024, re sults of Share India are not less than a festival. Share India is delivering best results in the industry for the past 3 years, more than the exceptional performance, we have been able to develop sustainable business model that is able to perform in all ma rket conditions.
Continuing our legacy for performance, Share India has recorded quarter 2 as best quarter in the history of Share India. I am happy to present the key highlights of the operational and financial performance of Q2.
First, we will deal with the consolidated number. Total revenue quarter -on-quarter basis increased by 32% from INR279 crores to INR368 crores, an increase of 53% on a year -on-year basis from INR243 crores to INR368 crores. Profit after tax quarter -on-quart er basis increased by 37% from INR82 crores to INR113 crores, an increase of 56% year -on-year basis from INR72 crores to INR113 crores. The EPS for the quarter works out to INR34.50. Net worth also has reached to INR1,218 crores.
The consolidated results s how all around development in the business verticals with 30% contribution to the consolidated profit by subsidiaries is a step towards diversification and business sustainability.
Now, when we look at the stand -alone figures, it will give even a better pi cture. Total revenue on a quarter -on-quarter basis increased by 33% from INR208 crores to INR276 crores and increase of 59% year -on-year basis from INR124 crores to INR276 crores. Profit after tax on a stand -alone basis has increased quarter -on-quarter bas is by 56% from INR51 crores to INR80 crores and 77% increase on year -on-year basis from INR45 crores last year to INR80 crores this year. The stand -alone earnings per share works out to INR24.35. Net worth has reached INR986 crores on stand -alone basis.

During the quarter, we recorded the highest ever EBITDA and net profit margin. The Board has approved second interim dividend of INR3 per share. "think Algo, Think Share India" is the theme behind our future business strategy. During the quarter, we had succ essfully rolled out launch of uTrade Algo, a product designed to empower retail investors with advantage of Algo.
Technology is a key growth driver and after successful integration of 2 large tech companies, that is Algowire and uTrade, we have recently fi nalized acquisition of Silverleaf Technology to give boost to our HFT and disruptive strategy -based trading platform.

We are poised to make with our expansion plan with strengthened network base, building on successful rights issue of over INR800 crores al ong with internal accruals. We are in process to equip best in the industry professionals on our Board of Directors and management team for seamless execution of our plans.
We are ready to shift gears for our global operations, mainly from Gift City and at subsidiary in Singapore. We see a new set of opportunities in international operations with NIFTY being actively traded from Gift City.
Going forward, we will focus on technology, consolidation, retail penetration through algos, overseas trading, merchant banking and expanding our institutional business. I thank you all for joining this call today. May God bless us all.
With these thoughts, I would like to hand over proceeding to Sachin ji, to share plans going forward. Thank you very much.
Sachin Gupta: Yes. Good afternoon, everyone. Thanks a lot, Kamlesh sir for the detailed presentation about the current results and the future visions. So I thank, everyone, for attending this call. As Kamlesh sir explained, last quarter was the best quarter in the histor y of Share India. And I just want to thank all the investors for having faith in our journey and in Share India. Without their help, we may not have achieved this kind of growth or maybe these numbers. So -- and I just want to ensure that from the side of entire team, that we all are fully motivated to work hard in future to achieve more hard goal and try to encash the upfront scenario where participation is growing, and we all are seeing good growth in broking industry.
So I just want to say that we are se eing a major change in -- all the broking companies are being seen as a different sector. It has come up as a new sector. So like all our competitors, all our friends, other companies are also showing good results. Along with that, it is also beneficial fo r Share India.
And secondly, recently, we saw S&P report where they have projected that by 2030, India will be the third largest economy in the world. India should be the $7.5 trillion economy by 2023. So we believe that if India is ready for this kind of change, this kind of shift in gears, so we are well positioned, having large tech partners with us and all verticals are set, our goal is that Share India should be all weather company. With the help of tech, with the help of current verticals, we believe that we'll get major benefits in the coming next 6 years. As projected by S&P, Share India can also be 1 of the biggest beneficiary of this growth.

We just expect the kind of confidence and faith investors have shown in us, showed in us -- it will -- they will continue to do so. And Share India is pledged to work hard and showing good results in the coming future. That's it from my side. We can proceed further.
Sohail Halai: Thank you, Kamlesh sir and Sachin sir for your opening remarks. Apart from Kamlesh sir and Sachin Sir, we have other members from the management team. I'd just like to take a brief moment to introduce all of them. We have Mr. Rajesh Gupta, Director; Mr. Abhinav Gupta , President; Suresh Arora, Director; Mr. Kunal, Director, uTrade; Piyush, Director, Silverleaf; and Mr. Ajay Patel , CEO, Share India Insurance Brokers.
With this, I will request for you to open up the floor for Q&A.
Moderator: The first question is from the line of Gaurav Fushe , who is an individual investor. Gaurav's line seems to be on hold. We will move to the next question.
The next questi on is from the line of Deepa Goya l, who's an individual investor.
Deepa Go yal: Share India has been conti nuously showing good growth numbers. What is your expectation for future trajectory?
Sachin Gupta: Thanks for asking this quest ion, ma'am. Ma'am, as I explained that we are seeing that India is going through a big change in -- like economy is growing fast and change in the behavior of the investors, and we can see the long -term investors or traders are there to stay for the longer period, so Share India is definitely going to get a big benefit out of it. And we believe that the next 5 years we should grow b y the CAGR of 25% to 30% at least for the next 5 years. That's what we are expecting, and we all are working for it.

Moderator: The next question is from the line of Rahul Arukandathil from Vista Investment.
Rahul Arukandathil : Congratulations for the good results. So typically, what we have seen about the broking industry as such is that it's been a cyclical industry. However, we are also seeing that there's been a surge in the options volume lately. And every time someone says that it's steep, what I find is that the options just keeps on growing and growing.
So you have like a 5% market share in this options market. What is the trend that you have been seeing, sir, lately? - Like we know that -- Okay, I'll make my question a bit more specific.
So we know that the cash volumes kind of go down in times when the market has been doing well. But like how have you seen the options data pan out during times of volatility over the last few years?
Sachin Gupta: Kamlesh sir, you want to answer this question?

Kamlesh Shah: Yes. I mean I will start and please complement it. The main reason is now we have almost like daily settlement from Monday to Friday and intra -day business has grown by multiples. The option volume accounts for about 90% of the total volume. So goin g forward, with the new products being offered by the regulators and the reforms that have been placed by the regulators has put in a lot of confidence into investors.
Second thing, there are new sets of investors who have joined the market and they are te ch savvy. So their participation in F&O also has been useful to grow the business. So we feel that with the new product, new opportunity -- the volume in options will go up and it will provide a lot of opportunities to the retail investor as well as the traders.
Also, going forward, we see possibility of extension of market hours beyond 3:30. There could be an evening session from 6 to 9 for which permission has been sought by NSE from the regulator. So all these factors put together will have substantial activity going on along with the volatility in the market, the volumes will remain good, and there will be a better opportunity.
Sachin Gupta: I would like to add something here. So as sir has explained, there's a lot of innovation happening on the exchan ge's side and they are providing new products to trade, like daily expiry of some or other index and it is the main reason behind the surge in option volume. One more thing.
We have Mr. Suresh Arora with us, and he is expert in commodity trading and all. W e are seeing a lot of innovation on commodity side from NSE, BSE, even from MCX side, and volumes are also going up. Suresh ji if you can please put some words from your side about the growth in commodity business by all the exchanges?
Suresh Arora: Okay. So let me first explain about our status right now and Sachin had told you, in the option side or commodity side, we are already having a very good team to deal in commodities and all the funds, we have around 4% to 5% market share in MCX as well as NCDEX market. Although, we can have -- we are having around 10% market share in NCDEX market, but as you all are aware, one thing is -- commodity market is far bigger than the equity market.
And as regulator has opened the F PI and all other and many reforms, we are seeing option market and commodity market increasing -- getting more and more volumes and more and more attraction from the retail s ide. So as we -- as you all are aware that we have option expertise and a lot of technology side advantage with us .

So we are seeing very good attraction in this commodity segment in the coming time and both exchanges, like the big exchanges, BSE and NSE are coming with their new contracts and new innovative products to begin with. So we are seeing a very good attraction. As we all know market is very volatile and coming up, we are seeing very good attraction in this.
So as far as the volume is concerned, our strategy is such that we see as soon as FPIs will have more and more attracted to this market and the retail partici pation are more attracted to this market, with our expert knowledge and with our expert and good teams, we can have good command in this all segment -- some of the segment.

Rahul Arukandathil : Sir, one follow -up question to that. So basically, what I wante d to know is like the markets have been pretty good for a retail investor over the last 7, 8 years, barring the last month. So have you seen like an increase in option trading activity in choppy times versus normal times? Is that true? Or am I just assumin g it?

Suresh Arora: Yes. Option are always a better tool to hedge, better tool to trade in the choppy times as you're all aware, other than the future or underlying contract, options are always good, so we see option volume will increase. And particularly, I can say, in commodities, as you see by Israel -Palestine war and the geopolitical tensions and all these things. We are seeing good volumes and good volatility. And whenever there is a good volatility or increase in volatility, options are the best tool to play.
Rahul Arukandathil : My last question, sir, is with regard to your subscription model , uAlgo, could you tell me a bit more about it, like how much percentage of your revenues came from uAlgo in this quarter? And how do you see the standing out over the next few quarters or years or how long if you can tell?
Sachin Gupta: I will just start, and then Kunal Nandwani , he is Director and CEO of uTrade, he will take it further. I just want to explain that we have la unched a product around 2 months back, and we have -- it was a soft launch for -- only for our existing clients. And we have more than 1,600 clients. And right now, more than 200 clients are trading on a regular basis. So we haven't started with the market ing tools and all which we are planning to do so from the 1st of January.
So because we were waiting for the feedback and the right changes required in the product before we are going full throttle to the industry.
And about the subscription, 3 years' visi on, I think Kunal Nandwani , can take over and explain about the product and the vision of the company on this particular product.
Rahul Arukandathil : I'm sorry, just one question. I think I'm a bit unclear. But this uAlgo, it's not only for Share India Securities holders, but any broker can use it like in the future? Is that what you're trying to say?
Sachin Gupta: Not yet. It is only for Share India and Share India clients. But in future, if you can get good -- the idea is the more the product is popular w ith the other intermediates, it's easy to sell, the product is more accepted in the market. But right now, we haven't even thought about sharing the product with the competitor. So again, Kunal will explain about this in detail. Kunal Nandwani can you plea se take over?
Kunal Nandwani: Okay. So I'll just reiterate a few things Sachin has said and then I'll try to address your question. Firstly, we launched this a few months ago, we did internal testing, live testing with our client traders and then we slowly started opening up to other rest of the market. And we've not yet started full -on sales and marketing efforts. That we are going to start in the next couple of months, as Sachin has j ust said.

We've seen just by people being interested and trying to use t he platform, more than 10,000 sign - ups for the platform for early access. And many of them are regularly using and periodically using. But the main sales and marketing efforts starts in the next couple of months, and then we'll see how that goes.
Our targe t broad vision is, number one, trying to address your question first, initially, we are going with a very deep Algo and broker integration with Share India with an offering that will be truly unique and highly differentiated in the market, and we believe t hat deeper integration brings a lot of value to the customer. As an example, the risk checks at Algo level and order level, margin checks, proper multi -leg trading, et cetera, is done better if the broker and the algo platforms are deeply linked which is n ot the case in the market as of now with any other alternates that are out there.
So we have gone with that. That deeper indication has taken up some time, and now we are ready to release the product to the market. The initial plan is to go with Share Indi a plus uTrade as a combined offering to the Share India broker customers only. So whoever wants uTrade Algos will come to Share India and open a demat account there.
It's not unheard of that people have multiple demat accounts for different reasons. They m ay go at 1 broker for mutual funds, 1 broker for equities, 1 broker for options and maybe for algos and option algos they come to uTrade Algo plus Share India. And then in time, maybe they experience the other products with us. But that is a thought proces s so far, though we are open to how the future evolves, initially, we are going with a deeper uTrade Algo and Share India integration only.
Our broad vision remains -- target remains that within the next 3 years, we want to have at least 2 lakh paid subscr ibers. That is a broad high -level target we are working towards, rest the time and the market should tell. That's a quick answer to your question.
Rahul Arukandathil : But is this only for options or is Algo also for cash?
Kunal Nandwani: So it is a multi -asset platform. Initially, because the most of the trading demand and algo usage and relevance of that is in option, so we have initially optimized their product and performance for options and futures and mainly derivatives algos. But we have equiti es available, we have commodities available and many more assets and exchanges would come soon. But initially, the focus has been options. Very soon, you would be able to trade equities with Algos as well. It will be multi -asset, completely multi -asset, mu lti-exchange.

Moderator: The next question is from the line of Sarvesh Mutha from Antique Stock Broking.

Sarvesh Mutha : Sir, my question was regarding average daily turnover -- so when we -- last our market peaked in October 2021, and the ADTO peaked out i n the next quarter in Q4 and we still haven't reached that level again, even though NIFTY has already crossed those levels.

So how much of the ADTOs do you think are market linked?

Sachin Gupta: Okay. Again, I will start and I would like. So I would like A bhinav to take this question, but I will just give it a start.

So I tell you one thing, ADTO is not only market linked. ADTO is also linked with many other factors like lot size. So recently exchange has reduced the lot size. So a client is used to trade i n a number of lots. They don't see the quantity exactly. So lot size has been reduced by 40%. So ADTO -- that's also one of the fundamental reasons why ADTOs are not able to catch up those levels.

Secondly, option premium has gone down, another reason people are not able to trade so frequently which they were able to trade and some other reasons also. So about your question, Abhinav, can you please takeover.

Abhinav Gupta: Yes. So you are absolutely right when you say that ADTO sort of peaked out. But i f you recall our earlier con calls as well, we have been continuously maintaining that we are focusing on strategy, which are low turnover based and higher productivity based and impact of the same can be viewed from our PAT margin and the bottom line perc entage output as well.

So we have been very clear that we want to focus on the strategies which elementarily don't rely on the turnover business, but also has a certain amount of productivity attached to them. And hence, having said that, we have been able to maintain our market share at around 5%.

Going forward, we do believe our new products do come into the plane, we would be at the right place and be able to expand our market share in those new products. But as of right now, we believe that in the curre nt setup, the ADTOs will stabilize at the current year.

Sachin Gupta: Abhinav can you also elaborate about change in ADTOs, especially in commodity side?

Abhinav Gupta: So ADTO for the -- specifically for Share India has been continuously increasing. Excha nge data, as Mr. Suresh Sir has already explained, it's still a very niche market that you will hear in terms of the overall scheme of things. For us, currently, MCX and NCDEX combined do around INR2,000 crores of in ADTO and INR11,400 crores ADTO of the o verall company. So going forward, we do believe commodity would be a very big element. But as of right now, because MCX and NCDEX in both NSE are coming with new products on a daily basis. So that's when we would start seeing the material impact in the ADT O numbers from these segments as well.

Sarvesh Mutha : Okay, okay. My next question would be when you had elaborated that you could see timing increases for the exchanges Okay. So even if it goes to, say, 5:00 p.m., do you have any data wherein how are the volumes spread out throughout the day? Whether they are like very heavy at market open and market close and would see a similar case even if the timing increases? So that the increase in volumes wouldn't be that much even if market timing is increased?

Abhinav Gupta: So I'll just start with that. I mean, then -- I mean, Sachin sir and Kamlesh sir can add to it. So honestly speaking, we do have international references where there are expiries -- sorry there are market timings which are more than 8 hours a d ay. But having said that, we are still waiting for the clarity to come from exchange on what kind of the behavior market is expected to make, whether there'll be 2 settlement in a single day. What kind of product would be available in the second half in ca se the second half trading do comes in.

And on basis that we would be able to have a reasonable assumption. But before that, it would be just a shot in the dark from our end.

Sachin Gupta: Kamlesh sir, if you want to add something?

Kamlesh Shah: See, it is not about the volume. It is about the opportunity being made available to the investors to participate in the market because many investors do have a regular job or the business. So many of them are not being able to participate in the market during the m arket hours. So that is one thing.

Second thing, the market is highly volatile in view of the international event. So we are Indian resident investor had no other choice but to bear the brunt. So now with the extended market hours at least they will be abl e to hedge their position and protect their portfolio. And going forward, this will also help as it is commodity market is working up to 12 midnight, so equity derivatives in the evening may add value to certain investors.

The second thing is the evening s ession would get merged with the next -day settlement. So that also will reduce the concern about the settlement of the -- settlement par t of it. So it could be easier, and we will see how it works. This is first time this kind of experiment is proposed. So let's see how it works.

If it works well, then some more segment could be added or the market hours could be extended.
As it is as per the SEBI guidelines, we can have permission up to 11:55 in the night for derivative and equity market -- for derivative market, sorry.
Sarvesh Mutha : So within the commodities, you must be having a volume split wherein how much volume is there for a morning session and how much is there in evening session? As if equity derivatives are also started in the evening session, wo uld that cannibalize your commodity trading?
Kamlesh Shah: See commodity trading happens mainly in the international commodities. So the commodity trading will happen only in the evening. That is after 6 o'clock. When European market is open and the U.S. m arket is opening. So I mean, this cannot be compared 1 to 1 with the equity market.
Moderator: The next question is from the line of Ananya Swaminathan from Kojin Finvest .
Ananya Swaminathan : Congratulations on good set of numbers, sir. So our share of subsidiary companies have been increasing continuously in consolidated entity. Could you please highlight the breakup of various divisions in overall numbers?
Sachin Gupta: Abhinav can you do so, please?
Abhinav Gupta: Yes, sir. So I'll just start and then Mr. Kamlesh Shah can add on to it. So currently, we do a PAT of around INR112 crores in the consolidated entity of which stand -alone does around INR80 crores, around INR13 crores would be coming from the NBFC division and remaining would be primarily base d in Share India Algo plat and a small amount would be coming from merchant banking and insurance booking divisions. I would just like Kamlesh sir add on it anything that is required.

Kamlesh Shah: From business sustainability point of view, we thought tha t our presence should be there in all the business verticals in the financial services part. So we have about 11 subsidiaries, which contribute to the business of the Share India, and all of these have started in last 2 to 3 years. So the growth has been p henomenal. And luckily, with the growth of the market and with the kind of management bandwidth we have, we have been able to develop all these segments and the subsidiaries very well. And each of the subsidiary is putting positive contribution for the consolidated account.
As Mr. Abhinav told you, around 30% of the profit is contributed by the subsidiaries, which is a healthy number. And going forward, there is a lot of value creation also coming out of the subsidiaries as all these subsidiaries are eligib le for listing once they have matured business profile.
Sachin Gupta: I would like to add one thing. We have Mr. Rajesh Gupta with us. He is heading our NBFC business, and NBFC is showing really good growth in the last couple of years. And we have a very a mbitious plan especially for the NBFC division in the next 3 to 5 years. And Mr. Rajesh you can also explain about the NBFC business, and we are progressing and according to him, where we will see the same division in the next 3 years.
Ananya Swaminathan : Okay. Got it. So Share India has been continuously showing good growth numbers. What is your expectation for future?
Sachin Gupta: Ma'am, as I explained earlier, we believe that in the current scenario, the way India is growing, the way overall economy is growing and as the stock market participation is getting matured. And we have different verticals like NBFC, Insurance, Merchant Banking, some tech companies, we believe that with the help of all these new things, we should achieve 25% to 30%. This is just an expectation, 25% to 30% CAGR for next 5 years.
Ananya Swaminathan : Okay sir. And one more question. Recently, BSE has been used for Sensex e xpiry. Did it have any impact on our business?

Sachin Gupta: Yes, it has a positive impact on our business. Volu mes are growing up, and a lot of clients have started trading in BSE and going further, Sensex will be one of the favored -- one of the good products in the industry. So these kind of innovations and BSE coming in is healthy for the overall industry. So we believe it will be very positive for us.
Ananya Swaminathan : One last question?
Sachin Gupta: Madam sorry to interrupt, but this also offers better utilization of your working capital. Because normally on Friday, the market used to be done. With the intro duction of Sensex on Friday and Bankex on Monday, there will be additional volumes and we'll be able to generate better revenue out of the capital deployed by us.

Ananya Swaminathan : Okay, sir. And one last question. Could you please share an update on ins urance broking subsidies? What are current business metrics? And what are your future plans?

Sachin Gupta: Yes, we have Mr. Ajay Patel , our CEO, with us. Ajay ji, if you can please answer this question.

Ajay Patel: So we've been operating in the market for about 3.5, 4 years. Our focus, again, has been in terms of providing an end -to-end solution to our customers in terms of all types of insurance. So be it commercial, be it retail, we are there . In terms of product mix, if I have to say, our commercial insurance, which typically comprises of our asset insurance comprises about 23% of our total book. Employee benefits is about 18%. Life insurance is about 22%. Marine is about 17%.

So if you see about 17% of our book is more of a sustainable business, rene wed, wherein we will have a very high persistency. Motor insurance typically wherein we see high turnover, that's about 10% of our total book. So the kind of book which we have developed over a period of time is something wherein we have long -term relation ship with the client. And that would enable us to, one, strengthen the book. At the same time, show our expertise in terms of the claims because our focus is more in terms of claims settlement rather than focusing in terms of the premium per se. So that's 1 strategy.

The second strategy also is in terms of focusing on the Tier 3, Tier 4 markets. So we have gone into small pockets, which are -- which have got some heavy industries, and we have seen some sizable amount of success in the last couple of years, and we would continue to do so. That's the broad -based strategy for us.

Simultaneously, we're also developing our digital platform, which is PolicySquare. We already have some of the products which are there. We are working very closely with the tech team in terms of developing AI because probably in the next 4, 5 years of time you will see a sea change in terms of the way insurance is being marketed in the country and across the world.

So that those investments have already started off, and you will see th at we would be among the leaders in terms of distribution of insurance products.

Moderator: The next question i s from the line of Tanmay from P CR Capital.

Tanmay : My question is for Rajesh sir. What is the current book size of Share India fin cap?

Rajesh G upta: Current book size of Share India fin cap is INR200 crores.

Tanmay : Okay, sir. And also can you give you a brief number about the total branches, customers and NPAs of NBFC.

Rajesh Gupta: Okay. We have at present 55 branches spread over 5 states: Punj ab, Haryana, UP, Bihar and recently we have added Madhya Pradesh. Total number of customers as on 30th September was 67,000 and NPA are very low. It is to the tune of 0.75% only, which are quite healthier in comparison to other NBFC.

Tanmay : So my second q uestion was the company recently merged with Silverleaf. Can you pl ease give a brief profile of Silverleaf? What kind of strategies does the merger drive?

Kamlesh Shah: So I'll just give you the basic start and we have Mr. Piyush Kedia: with us from the Si lverleaf, he can explain the future plans.

Sachin Gupta: So as Kamlesh sir has explained earlier, Share India management has a reason of making it all - weather company. And as we all know, stock market business is considered to be very volatile, but we just want to make it a more sustainable business. And that's why we are focusing on different, different verticals, not concentrating on one set of vertical only.

So like uTrade is looking after the retail piece of the company. Insurance, NBFC, you have just talked to Mr. Rajesh. And same reason we were having for international business. So Silverleaf is, they are experts in HFT trading basically in India right now. So they will bring in the HFT tech stack with them and Share India will soon start, once the fo rmalities are done, soon start HFT business in India, we'll try to expand our base.

Secondly, within in the next 5 years, we should be trading in multiple international exchanges with the same tech stack. And it will give us more sustainability and differe nt revenue stream to the company. So that's the whole goal of acquiring that particular company. And Mr. Piyush Kedia: is one of the founders of Silverleaf, he is with us. Piyush If you can please explain about Silverleaf and the future plans.

Piyush Kedia : Okay. So at Silverleaf actually we make use of statistical methods to back test on historical data, and we come up with high frequency trading strategy. With this acquisition, the synergies that are created -- that have been created are; one, our existin g operations scaled up, we get access to more trading capital, Share India is a much bigger organization, we get to scale up currently the strategies that we're running currently.
Our backtesting technology with Share India's trading prowess will combine to create more value than individually we are doing right now. Being a small entity for us right now, operation - wise -- because of operating leverage right now because as a small entity, we, like say, for example, opening up a new exchange for us is a lot of effort, but on sharing their platform, new exchanges and international geographies can all be added much faster.
And then lastly, Talent acquisition, we see that with Share India size and our technology, we'll be able to add top notch talent under our p latform and scale that much faster using that talent.
Sachin Gupta: I hope that answers your question?
Tanmay : Sir. Yes, sure, sure, sir. My last question was that will the acquisition also help in company's international expansion?

Sachin Gupta: Yes, sir. As I explained and Piyush also elaborated that the kind of stack they have, they -- it was very difficult for Siliverleaf alone to expand to international exchanges and same goes with the Share India. So combining together Siliverleaf coming into our fold , so we believe that our joint strength is that -- our financial strength, our legal and their tech stack, combining both things we are focusing to expand our business to different exchanges, international changes.
In next 5 years, you will see that Share India will be operating in multiple international exchanges. So that's our primary goal of doing HFT strategies in India and international also.
Moderator: We take the next question from the line of Akshada Deo from Vivog Commercial Limited.
Akshada Deo : Congratulations on a very good set of numbers. So what I wanted to know was, you have INR1,400 crores of cash on your balance sheet right now. Are you having any plans for using the same?
Sachin Gupta: Sorry? Abhinav, can you please answer this?
Abhinav Gup ta: Yes. So ma'am, as you understand that we are a financial company, so most of the cash that you see from a broking entity comes from the client reserves, is essentially people who have deposited money with us in order to trade with exchange. So as of ri ght now, our net worth is around -- consolidated net worth is around INR1,200 crores. And right now, there is no plan to use cash because that is all being used for the operational activities.

Sachin Gupta: I would add something more so as to get better clarity. We are required to place margin with the exchange and for creating margin, we are required to deposit 50% of our contribution. That is the margin to be provided by the broker. So for availing INR100 o f facility, we required to place INR50 of margin.
So the cash which you can see are all placed either with the banks or with the clearing corporation so that we get better leverage and we get bank guarantee and intra -day facility, which help us to expand o ur business activity and to take care of our intra -day requirement as well as the end of the day requirement.
Moderator: The next question is from the line of Raj Tater from X.
Raj Tater : The -- most of the online brokerage companies, their main source of revenue is fees income or commission income whereas at Share India, our main source of revenue that is in the P&L is net gain on fair value changes. What does it mean?
Sachin Gupta: Abhinav, please answer this?
Abhinav Gupta: Yes. So as we have already bee n saying that we do have a proprietary trading arms within the company ambit and that's where we specialized earlier, it is now that we have expanded into multiple ultra HNI, [FPI] and other institutional stack retail category. So the proprietary trading element in terms of revenue constitutes around 70% of the revenue. And in terms of bottom line, that constitutes around 50% of the bottom line.

Moderator: The next question is from the line of Vikas Jain , who's an individual investor.
Vikas Jain : Congratulations, sir, for a good set of numbers. Sir, my question is, what is the current level of debt in the company?
Sachin Gupta: Current level of debt -- okay, so the -- we have -- mainly we have facilities in terms of bank guarantees and intraday fac ilities from the banks. Cash debt -- if you can see that our parent company or the group, it should not be more than INR170 crores INR175 crores. That includes some deposits from the loan from the directors also. Apart from directors, we are having more than INR100 crores of debt in the company.

Abhinav, can you please -- do you want to elaborate?

Abhinav Gupta: Yes, in case, I mean that is a requirement. So as I said, we are a financial company. So as sir as already explained, we do have banking limits in terms of guarantees. And as on date, there might be certain bank guarantees or OD facilities that might be open and hence, you might be able to see a number on the balance sheet.

Overall scenario, as we have already declared to exchange the most of debt ca pital that we have should not be more than 100 capital, excluding the entire promoter funding and any other current payable to the extent of the client deposits that are with us in our balance sheet.

Moderator: The next question is from the line of Abhishek from Shr ee Capital.

Abhishek : My question is like our company is continuously doing acquisition to strengthen the tech stack. What is your view on consolidation in broking industry? Are there any plan in current pipeline?

Sachin Gupta: Kamlesh sir , do you want to answer this?

Kamlesh Shah: Yes. I mean this is a continuous process through organically and inorganically both. Because we require different talent for different business verticals, and to acquire specific talent, the one which we just bef ore sometimes discussed about Silverleaf. So like while we get a lot of opportunities and considering the size of the business is th e volume and the business platform that we have available, it makes sense for us to acquire a company. For last 4, 5 years, there is a trend of consolidation in the industry.

Now the definition of beautiful has changed that big is beautiful because big firms will have a lot of advantage in terms of technology, the financial capability and the management bandwidth .

So all this r equires a larger organization and acquisition in many cases works to the advantage thereby from day 1, we can start getting benefit of the new stream of business.

So this will be a continuous focus and as I explained to you, we will grow organically as wel l as inorganically. Thank you.

Moderator: The next question is from the line of Bhavik who is an individual Investor.

Bhavik : Yes. Congratulations for a very good set of numbers. So my question is regarding the launch of uTrade application. So currently, I believe that we've launched a web application. So do you have any plans to even launch a mobile application so that we can reach out to larger audience? Because the current format mimics the usage.

Sachin Gupta: Kunal, you want to answer it?

Kunal Nandwan i: yes. Yes. So am I audible? Yes, So the mobile app is coming later in November. So you will have the both IOS and Android apps. And you would be able to use them to create, subside, deploy algos and do a variety of things, everything possible. So they're coming in November. The apps are done.

Sachin Gupta: So I just want to add one thing. So uTrade Algos is a very innovative platform. So we are adding a lot of things like you said, rightly you said it's only on web. App is coming in a month's time. And uTrade team is tirelessly working day night to make it more customer -frien dly and user - friendly products.

And you will see in next 2, 3 months, it will be a far better product than what it was launched and upgrading a product based on the feedback of the c ustomer is a continuous process. And uTrade has a bandwidth of take that kind of challenge and keep on upgrading the product in the coming time.

So we believe that this particular product will be one of its kind in India, and it can change the way people t rade or way people do Algo trading in India.

Moderator: Thank you very much. We'll have to take that as the last question. I would now like to hand the conference back to the management team for closing comments.

Abhinav Gupta: Yes. So this is Abhinav. Tha nks a lot, everyone, for attending the call. I hope to see you soon in the next quarter.

Sachin Gupta: Kamlesh sir, any comments on your side?

Kamlesh Shah: No. Thank you, I mean, for attending in large numbers. And thank you for your trust and confidence in the management of Share India. We will try to do our best and evolve as a unique fintech company in the industry. Thank you.

Sohail Halai: Thank you, Kamlesh sir and the team for giving us this opportunity to host your calls and best of lucks. So now we can close the call.

Moderator: Sure. Thank you very much. On behalf of Antique Stock Broking Limited, that concludes the conference. Thank you for joining us, ladies and gentlemen, you may now disconnect your lines.

Raju Barnawal: Thank you, Manav. Good evening, everyone. On behalf of Antique Stock Broking, I welcome you all to Q3 FY '24 Earnings Conference Call of Share India Securities. We have with us the entire management -- senior management team of Share India Securities represented by Mr. Kamlesh Shah, Managing Director; Mr. Sachin Gupta, CEO; Mr. Rajesh Gupta, Director; and Mr. Abhinav Gupta, President, Capital Market.

Now without any further delay, I hand over the call to the Kamlesh, sir, for his opening remarks. Thank you, and over to you, sir.

Kamlesh Shah: Yes. Thank you very much. Good evening, everyone, and wish you all a very prosperous new year. I welcome you all to Share India Q3 Earning Call for Financial Year 2024. I am happy to share with you that, once again, we have delivered best quarterly results. Once again, we have proved our legacy of performance, growth, progress and success. Though the quarter was difficult for trading activity, yet we recorded best quarter in the history of the company. This consistency in the growth is defined by our new initiatives launched over the period of time and the kind of diversified portfolio we have in financial service sector.

I am feeling proud to say that 9 months of financial year '24, the stand-alone revenue grew by about 37% from INR559 crores to INR768 crores, and 9-month stand-alone profit after tax grew by 49.47% from INR143 crores to INR213 crores. Also, if we see the consolidated performance for 9 month of this financial year, the revenue grew by about 36% from INR748 crores to INR1,017 crores; and 9 months stand-alone profit after tax grew by 39% from INR223 crores to INR310 crores.

And on top of it, if we compare the revenue and PAT of 9 months for financial year '24 with full year of 2022-'23, it is almost equal to the revenue and profit after tax for the year 2022-'23. To be accurate, we are at more than 93% in terms of both the performance indicator.

Now let us go through the best historical quarterly performance of the company for Q3 ended 31st December 2024 on consolidated basis. We recorded total revenue for Q3 as INR374 crores, showing an increase of 35% year-on-year basis from INR277 crores to INR374 crores; and profit after tax for Q3 as INR115 crores, showing an increase of about 25% year-on-year basis from INR93 crores to INR115 crores.

The earnings per share works out to INR35.27 for the quarter. And the networth also has increased to INR1,405 crores at the end of 31st December. The consolidated results show all around development in all business verticals. Contribution to the consolidated profit by subsidiary is a step towards the diversification and business sustainability.

All these subsidiaries are performing well and aligned with the vision and the road map of the group. From increased AUM in NBFC to capturing SME IPO market in the merchant banking, from exploring new opportunities beyond Indian market in GIFT City IFSC and Singapore to strengthen market share in strategy-based trading overseas; from meeting surging require -- surging need of the technological pioneering to the trading smile and changing lives, the group is intact with its value and vision.

Now let us go thr ough the stand-alone results for Q3 ended 31st December 2024. We recorded total revenue of INR284 crores, showing an increase of 46% year-on-year basis from INR194 crores to INR284 crores; and profit after tax for Q3 as INR83 crores, showing an increase of 49% on a year-on-year basis from INR56 crores to INR83 crores.

The earnings per share for stand-alone entity works out to INR25.45. And the networth of the stand-alone company is now INR1,140 crores. The results are a reflection of the efforts we have made during the past few years in enhancing corporate governance, strengthening risk management, diversified product portfolio, best management team, adopting new technology at every level and composition of Board of Directors.

Today, we have imminent personalities who are best in the area of work are on our Board of Directors. It is our combining vision which company is moving towards. Going ahead in the next quarter, we are poised to meet with our expansion plan with strengthened network base, building on the successful conversion of warrants into equity shares.

And in next 9 months, all the warrants will be converted into equity shares, along with internal accrual, it will further strengthen our network base. I thank all the stakeholders for their valuable contribution. May God bless us all. Thank you.

Moderator: I will now hand the conference over to Mr. Sachin Gupta: for opening remarks.

Sachin Gupta: Yes. Thank you, Kamlesh, sir. Good afternoon, everyone. I would like to thank everyone for attending this call today. This is a Q3 call for Share India. So, friends, I just want to tell you one thing that as the management of Share India is having a clear opinion that we should have a diversified revenue streams in the company and we should have a more sustainable model in this industry.

Like we all know this particular industry is very vulnerable to the market performance. But we are trying to make Share India such a diversified company where market movement and all these things should not make any impact on the growth and the revenue of the company.

So, with this opinion, as in the earlier calls, we -- our focus was on using tech and innovative products for retail. We have recently launched our uTrade Algo. And it's a recent launch. So, we are seeing good participation from the clients. We are seeing more enthusiasts in the client. But this is a product where we need to put lot of energy with the client in terms of educating them how this product is actually working for them.

And we believe in next 2 to 3 years, we'll see a lot of participation in this particular product from the industry side. And again, going further, our focus will be on the retail side, like we are setting ambitious targets internally where we believe that in next 2 to 3 years, we should be having around 2.5 lakh to 3 lakh customers organically and inorganically.

So, we are also looking for good tie-ups if possible with the companies who are having a good retail base. So, after acquiring tech companies 2 years back, then Silverleaf a quarter back, so now our focus is on retail. And you guys will see that company is coming up with the aggressive retail acquisition plans and new innovative products. Especially, we have recently launched MTS for our customers, and we believe that MTS is one product, which was retailers are looking for it. And Share India is having a good risk management system and bandwidth to spread these products into the retail.

And we believe in next 3 years, MTS book should be around INR500 crores. So, this is our goal. So, with the diversified revenues, as I said, so retail business is one, Algo business is one and NBFC is doing good, HFT trading is there, financial products like MTS is there, distribution products like mutual fund, insurance.

So, there are different verticals, again, based on the financial markets only.

So, we believe that in coming years, we should be able to see the good growth in the company. As you all know, India is looking to travel this journey from INR3.5 trillion to INR7.5-odd trillion in the next 5 to 7 years. So, if this actually happens that then it will reflect into the performance of financial markets, more participation will grow.

People -- style of investment will grow. So, we believe that next 5 years should be extremely good for all the participants and Share India is ready to encash on this opportunity with -- all the verticals are technologically supported, good team we have, good networth we have in balance sheet.

And next 5 years, we are going to fire from all the cylinders. So, we believe that we'll achieve our good growth in the next 5 years also. Thank you very much.

Moderator: Thank you very much. We will now begin the question-and-answer session. We have our first question from the line of Mr. Darshit from RoboCapital. Please go ahead.
Darshit: Congratulations on good set of numbers. I just – want , an overview or you can call it guidance or an internal target about growth in revenue and margins for the next 2 to 3 years. How do you see -- what are the parameters that you think will lead to growth?
Sachin Gupta: Kamlesh, sir, will you answer this question?
Kamlesh Shah: You answer.
Sachin Gupta: Yes. Okay. So, the thing is that last 7 years, we are growing like more than 30% CAGR. Base was small and opportunity was good. But as I said, we spent last 2 years in creating new verticals, getting good tech support behind our back. So, like all the verticals are ready, like recently -- we focus more on merchant making side.

I believe next year, we all will see good growth in that particular area also, especially, we are focusing on SME segment. So NBFC will see good growth. Retail broking will see good growth. As I said, organically, inorganically, both we are going to focus on the retail side.
And so, we believe that next 5 years, as I said, India is looking good, well settled and politically, there should not be a big challenge. So, if all things went well, so next 5 years, we are targeting at least 20% CAGR growth should be there for the company.
Abhinav Gupta: Yes. So, I'd just like to add what Sachin, sir, has already mentioned in this. We have always maintained that we believe that we would be able to maintain a CAGR of 20%-plus, as he mentioned, for the next 5 years. In fact, in the last 2 years, we have surpassed those expectations as well. All the activities that we have done in developing our tech stack, strengthening of our employee strength, setting up the corporate governance practices will help us shoot from here and deliver a good set of numbers going forward as well.
Internally, we are very optimistic, the current businesses that are there will continue to grow at least 20%-plus CAGR growth. And any additional client acquisition that we might do or any additional growth that might come because of uTrade Algos or for any other product that we launch will directly add on to our top line and bottom line.
And from a PAT margin perspective, as mentioned historically, we intend or we believe that we would be able to maintain a PAT margin of around 30%, which has been there for the last 9 months-or-so. So, this is the kind of PAT margin that we would continue to maintain going forward.
Sachin Gupta: One more point I want to add here about the Insti broking. So, as I said, we are trying to develop different verticals. So NCDEX one vertical, we just started and a good set of team is there. Team is -- recently we started. So, we believe that next, again -- new vertical. So next 2 to 3 years, we'll see good set of numbers coming from the retail. So, all focus is on serving clients.
So, you guys will see in coming years more of -- we'll be talking about more of retail, more of wealth p roducts, more of Institutional Desk. So, Share India is keeping control on the current revenues and current verticals. So, we'll be focusing on more on the retail side in coming next 2 to 3 years. So, we believe that putting all things together, we should be able to achieve 20% CAGR for next 5 years.

Moderator: We have our next question from the line of Simar from Negen Capital. Please go ahead.
Simar: Congratulations on a great set of numbers. So, I know that you had given a guidance of 25% to 30% CAGR for the next 5 years on your top line. Can you give me -- and you were very bullish on the previous con-call regarding the commodity segment as well, in the MCX and NCDEX. So, can you talk more about the commodity segment? How much is it contributing right now to your overall revenue?
Sachin Gupta: So unfortunately, what happened in last quarter, and NCDEX business has gone down drastically at the exchange level. There was some interference on the government side about the inflation in the certain commodities. So, they shut down the some fancy commodities. So, exchange level volumes have dropped like drastically. So that business has gone down.

And on the MCX side, again, unfortunately, they were transferring their current test stacks from FT to TCS. So that took a major hit. And TCS is not yet stable in the market, TCS is yet not stable in the market. So, it took lot of time to transfer from FT to TCS. We all have to take big hit in MCX also.
So, we believe that MCX should pick in 1 month or 2. So for the next financial year, MCX business will grow. But NCDEX, we are not seeing any growth at all. But infrastructure-wise, everything Share India is there. Numbers are -- we were able to match the numbers, but growth was not there because of all these challenges which are beyond our control. So, we believe that if MCX will be able to stabilize with the TCS product, then next financial year, MCX should grow big. Right now, the volumes are down drastically.

Abhinav Gupta: Yes, I would just like to add a couple of points that Sachin, sir, has already mentioned in this.
So, if I could talk about commodity specifically, the bullishness in the last con-call was more to do from a strategic point of view and long-term scenario. And even in the last con call, we had mentioned that this being an election year, we might have to maintain a certain sense of prosperity when it comes to the results, especially in the commodity because given the election scenario that might plan out.
So that's number 1 to point that. Number two, all the scenario that Sachin, sir, has already mentioned, has more to do with the quarter impact. We believe mostly in Q3, all of those elements have been taken care of. And if anything, else, Q4 might see another impact of it. But post elections this year, we continue to maintain a very strong bullish stand from the commodity segment.
And we are very hopeful that it would continue to cut traction in coming years. On a 9-month basis, we have to see beyond the quarter-on-quarter impact. On a 9-month business, we have seen a certain amount of growth. On a year-on-year basis, in terms of ADT, the ADT would have been similar of around INR1,500 crores for this quarter as well in the commodity segment.
But in terms of top line, the impact has been better. So, if you see -- so on a 9-month basis, we've performed better in the commodity segment.
And till up to elections, we might see a certain sense of conservative when it comes to commodity business. But post that, we are really hopeful that it will continue to grow big.
Kamlesh Shah: Abhinav, I would like to add 1 point here. We are taking this opportunity to see that the commodity business which we consider one of the most strategic business and which has a lot of growth potential, we are getting all our offices ready. Currently, majority of the business is bein g done from Delhi office. But now we're getting Bombay office, prepared and Jaipur and Ahmedabad office so that in next phase, we should be able to capitalize on the growth targets based on the multi-locational working. Thank you.

Sachin Gupta: Sir, I would like to add 1 more point for the -- just for the FYI for the -- all the friends, that recently, Share India also got an award from the MCX. Kamlesh, sir, can elaborate. Sir, can you please tell about the award.
Kamlesh Shah: Yes. We got, I mean, Member of the Year Award from the MCX. So that is -- see, when Sachinji was talking, he was talking in general and exchange performance because of various limitations.
But from our end, we have made constant efforts to see that we upgrade our products, we maintain our market share as well as try to see that all the technology that we have assets to, could be best utilized. And all this is making an impact. And we are constantly getting awards for last 3 years from MCX being the member of the year award. So that is also one of the great
-- we have a very good team led by Mr. Suresh Arora.
And I think, as Abhinav has already told maybe in next quarter or so, the volume will pick up.
And we will the direct beneficiary of the same. Thank you.
Moderator: We have a next question from the line of Anmol Das from Arihant Capital.
Anmol Das: Am I audible?
Sachin Gupta: No ma'am, there is some noise. So, we're not able to hear you ma'am.
Anmol Das: Hello? Am I audible now?
Abhinav Gupta: Better but very faintly. Yes, please go ahead.
Anmol Das: So, my first question is with respect to retail mix. So, could you please share what is the retail mix in your revenue and what is the strategy you are following for the retail business expansion?
Sachin Gupta: Abhinav, can you please take up this?
Abhinav Gupta: Yes, yes. Yes, sir. So, I'll take that. So, in terms of retail business within the scope of entire thing as we have mentioned, we have around 20%-25% from the -- coming from the retail which includes retail from both NBFC and -- ma'am, I think there's some noise, can you...
Sachin Gupta: Ma'am, there is some noise...
Abhinav Gupta: Can you mute your call?
Sachin Gupta: It is getting echoed.
Abhinav Gupta: Yes, yes. Yes, yes. So yes, just to elaborate what the -- to answer to the respect of the retail section. So, as we have already mentioned that we have around 10% to 15% of revenue share coming from retail specifically, which excludes AD revenue from NBFC or institutional segment that we have created over the last 1, 1.5, 2 years.
And as far as the expansion retail is concerned, as you guys are aware that the flagship products of uTrade Algos was launched in June this year. We are seeing quite a good traction of both online and off-line in that segment.

Online continues to remain the main stay as of right now. Since its launch, more than 20,000 customers have joined our platforms on a trial basis. We have been able to do a good conversion rate of around 7% to 8% on an activation basis for that product platform, which for any online product is a very heartening number.
Going forward, we are very confident about the offline business picking up in terms of uTrade Algos. And not only the uTrade Algos in order to cater to those off-line clients, we will continue to cater products like MTS, mutual fund advisory and maybe to some extent, help them with merchant banking activity we are very hopeful that, that business would get a good revenue traction also customer acquisition as well.
And alongside, we are -- as we said, we are committed to our task of around 3 lakh customers in 3 years, for which we are hopeful for both organic/inorganic opportunities in the market.
Anmol Das: Okay, sir. And one more question. So how is the Algo trading market fairing among retailers?

And how much of the market share do we see in our company?
Abhinav Gupta: I'm sorry, I could only hear my voice from your line.
Sachin Gupta: We could not hear you.
Moderator: There is a background noise at your end.
Anmol Das: Hello?
Abhinav Gupta: Yes, please, please.
Anmol Das: I just wanted to ask about the Algo trading markets fairing among retailers. So how much of the market share do we see in our company?
Abhinav Gupta: Okay. So, ma'am good question. I think I would like to answer that mostly from a top-down approach. If you analyse the data, currently, there are around 3.5 crores active traders in the market as per the exchange data. And if we go at a deeper level than that, there would be almost around maybe 70, 80 lakh customers who would have ticket size of more than 10 lakh kind of a ticket size for -- in the market.
But Algo trading in India has been a very unorganized sector. We, at Share India, very hopeful that we being the Share India and being regulated player with the tech stack in-house developed from uTrade, Silverleaf and Algowire, are at a uniquely positioned to consolidate this market and convert it from an unorganized to organized market.
As far as the market share is concerned, there is no specific case study has been done in order for the Algo for retail. But Algo for retail is a product which has designed more for a future perspective and not from a current perspective. So currently, though the number of customers might be very less who are using Algo at retail level. We believe going forward, Algo as a product at a much broader level would be used by Indian market investors to enhance their return from the market.

Moderator: We have a next question from the line of Rahul Sinha from Ameriprise Financial.
Rahul Sinha: I have a question that could you please elaborate on the channels through which client acquisitions are taking place? And additionally, if possible, could you please provide some numerical insights into the acquisitions made in the first half, and shed light on the distribution on these new customers?
Abhinav Gupta: Sorry, can you please come again? Distribution of new customers is what you are asking currently? If I understand it correctly.
Rahul Sinha: Could you please elaborate on the channels through which the client acquisitions are taking place? And additionally, if possible, could you please provide some numerical insights into the acquisitions made in the first half and shed light on the distributions of these new customers?
Abhinav Gupta: Okay. So, though we don't track this kind of a distribution, what you are referring internally, but off the top of my head, I would try to put some numbers so that you can understand it better.
Internally, those are not the MIF criteria that we follow. So, we launched the uTrade retail product in September last year -- between September '22, not '23. We launched our initial campaigns for the IBT. So, the total number of retail customers that we have acquired has been around 13,000 to 14,000 in the last 1.5-odd years, right. Of -- Most of which -- and I'm talking about -- when I talk about customers, I'm talking about KYC-registered customer.
So, they are not trial or any other metric. A lot of them came because of the uTrade IBT that we've launched in -- that we had launched in September last year. We launched a uTrade Algos in around June this year, post which the marketing campaign started in September, September '23.
And since then, we are seeing around on an average, around 1,000 customers a month, approximately. And most of them are coming through online mode currently. In fact, when I say most of them, around 70%, 75% of them would be coming through online. We have just started with our offline customer acquisition mandates now.

Q3 was the first quarter, in fact, when the offline team was given mandates in terms of cust acquisition going forward in terms of uTrade Algos going forward. And going forward, we believe that the growth customer acquisition in offline would far exceed the online customer acquisition at a much lower cost in that matter, for sure.

So going forward, from offline mix of both uTrade Algos and retail customers would tilt towards the offline. But as of right now, most of the customers are through online.

Moderator: The next question from the line of Harsh Shah from HSBC Asset Management.

Harsh Shah: One of the things that you mentioned that you have received a Leading Member of the Exchange Award from MCX, can you just please elaborate what does that mean? Means, are you the top 5 top brokers or top 10? What is the reason that you received this award?

Sachin Gupta: So MCX, every year, they give recognition awards to the brokers in different categories. So, Share India got -- this is a very prestigious award. This happens once in a year. So, Share India was chosen the Member of the Year. So that was because of the -- primarily because of the turnover from the broker.

So, as I explained earlier, exchange has taken a big hit in -- when they were transferring their tech from FT to TCS. But Share India at their level like we were pushing a lot and we were able to somehow match our turnovers and overall participation. So, our market share is more than 10% in MCX, and we maintained our leadership in that sense. So primarily, that is for the highest turnover. So, we don't know in terms of top 5 or top 10. But yes, we have more than 10% market share.

Abhinav Gupta: Yes. And the most importantly, that the award for was for the Member of the Year or not any subcategory that the exchange might have for that.

Harsh Shah: That's true. That's true. Yes, that is the reason I was intrigued. And second question is you mentioned that right now, there is a temporary hiccup because of the transition, though it is transitionary in nature, but MCX volume has been going up month after month. So, in this temporary phase, are you still maintaining that market share or are you losing market share? You said your volumes are going down.

Sachin Gupta: Yes, yes. No, no, no. We are not losing. No, no, we are not losing. So, we are still maintaining the market share. And as Kamlesh, sir, has explained earlier that, earlier we were only focusing on a certain region. But strategically, Mr. Suresh Arora, who is leading this particular vertical, he has focused on now Ahmedabad, Jaipur, Mumbai side also. So, we believe that our turnover will go up -- even exchange turnover will go up, we'll be able to maintain the market share in next financial year also.

We are very aggressive on commoditized, putting more capital in terms of bank guarantees with the exchange and training more traders and also growing in different geographies like Bombay, Ahmedabad, Jaipur also. So, I believe that we'll be able to maintain this market share.

Abhinav Gupta: Yes, I'd just like to give 2 technical points to that answer so that it might help you better. So, number one, what we are very clear that commodity remains to be a very strategic point for us, and we will continue to cater to that segment. But there are 2 types of transactions or the turnover that they do, number one, as you see, MCX is an evolving thing, and we believe that it will continue to evolve. And once the exchange matures, we believe a lot of turnover will shift from futures to options. So, though we will continue to maintain turnover our future turnover will more or less stabilize to current numbers.

When you look at the exchange data, there would be an element of futures and options as well, but we believe that we would have an edge in both futures and options in that segment as well. And we will gain market share when it comes to the option turnover in that segment, number one.

Number two

, when you refer to MCX turnover, sometimes people look at the notional numbers, how we analyse it essentially in terms of premium turnover and not in terms of notional turnover.

And thirdly, if you look at our ADTO numbers, we continue to maintain ADTO of around INR1,500-odd crores consistently for the last 4 or 6 quarters at MCX.

Harsh Shah: Understood. Sorry, just 1, you mentioned that your market share with MCX is more than 10%.

Can I know that same number from premium options ADTO, market share?
Abhinav Gupta: Yes. So, it's -- so from an MCX perspective, it's a very difficult number to be able to segregate in that matter. But what we understand that we have more than 10% market share in that sense. Giving a particular number we would need certain data from MCX, which I think is currently not available in public.
Harsh Shah: Understood. Just another question is, last week, there was a circular uploaded on MCX website giving them permission to have DMA of FPIs, will Share India have any beneficiary gain out of this?
Sachin Gupta: 100%. Sir, we have a relationship with more than 40 FPIs from Dubai, Singapore and other parts of the world. So, some of them are eagerly waiting for the DMA. So once the DMA will start, definitely, it is going to benefit us.
So as Abhinav explained that once this tech transition will stabilize, MCX is a very innovative exchange. They like options. They made a huge success from crude options and NG and we believe they will come up with the -- they will continue with the innovation of -- with the new products, new option products will come out like DMA is also there on the cards. So, all these things will help us growing our revenue from this particular exchange.
Moderator: We have our next question from the line of Mr. Karan from Get Well Soon Hospitality.
Karan: Sir, my question is regarding Share India's strategy as -- like Share India is catering to 2, 3 diverse business verticals. What currently tops our priority list? Could you outline the key segments we're emphasizing for the medium term?
Sachin Gupta: So, as we explained earlier, last 2 years, our focus was more on getting the tech -- good tech behind us. So, we acquired 2 tech companies in October 2021. So recently, we acquired an HFT company -- so last quarter, so idea was to grow in international markets.
So, you will see in next 1 year, Share India will start having presence in different world markets. So, like next 3 years, strategically, our focus will be more on all retail products like acquiring direct retail organically/inorganically, offline/online, pushing uTrade Algo products for the retail, heavy marketing budgets we have, a good team we have on the ground for the off-line sales and MTS, we are launching. NCDEX, we started. With NCDEX, we are not only focusing on institutions, we are focusing on PMS, AIF. And a good team is there on NCDEX.
We believe next 3 years, our focus will be more on the client servicing side, let it be institutions, let it be retail. And you will see after 3 years, the dream is very simple. On the broking side, Share India should be there for the retail, HNIs, Algo.

On Insti side, we could have good institutions with us serving them for derivative trading for long-only funds also and NBFC is doing superly good. Again, NBFC team is very bullish on the business for the next 3 years. So, we are also trying to diversify portfolios to a more collateralized portfolio. Next year, you will see NBFC will be gaining too much ground on side of collateralized loans.
So NBFC, merchant banking, retail, all these products will be customer servicing sides, not much on trading side. On trading side, what we are doing? We are keeping a strong control over it and trading we might expand in India organically what we are doing also in the inter national market.

So, our focus will be on servicing clients. That will be our focus in next 3 years.
Kamlesh Shah: Sachin, can I add 1 thing?
Sachin Gupta: Yes, sure, sir.
Kamlesh Shah: See, in short, our focus is on building organization. We have 1 of the best management team. We have about 30 people from the promoters group participating into day-to-day activities. In addition to that, in recent 2, 3 years, we have brought many professional management people joining the company. On top of it, we have now a very highly dignified Board of Directors and tech acquisition and other related activities. The other point, which I would like to clarify here is that our focus is only on financial services.
So whatever development or whatever growth has happened or whatever diversification in the portfolio has happened is concentrated on the financial services, which is our strength area. So, we are consolidating. We are getting ready for the next phase of development, and we are geared up to take the maximum benefit of the growing market size and retail participation.
So, our focus is in line with the development in the market, the development in the economy, the development in the growth of retail investors and the opportunities that are available in the overseas market and all these are achieved through tech-based solutions. So, technology would be the key growth driver for all the initiatives that were taken by the -- taken by Share India.
Moderator: We have next question from the line of Sarvesh Mutha from Antique Stock Broking.
Sarvesh Mutha: Sir, my question is on the employee count. So last quarter, we had reported around 1,500-plus employees, and this quarter our employee count has gone beyond 3,500. So, can you highlight what exactly has happened? And which segment are these hirings being done for?

Sachin Gupta: Sorry, so total employee count, you said has gone up from 1,500 to what number?
Sarvesh Mutha: 3,500.
Abhinav Gupta: Yes. So, I would...
Sachin Gupta: Yes, yes, Abhinav, please...
Abhinav Gupta: Yes. So, as we have very clearly mentioned that we continue to maintain that 25% to 30 % CAGR in our organic business. Plus, as we are going on our retail acquisition, we would see a lot of employees getting added into the traction. So, if you look at our branch count, our branch count has gone from around 70 to around 150 in the last few quarters.

In the event what has happened, a lot of franchisees that were there are now existing as branch model in order to get into the entire retail acquisition space, we would need to add an employee strength. So, a lot of employee strength has been added because of that.
Number two, in our stand-alone and our traditional business, we continue to engage with more traders and continue to hire in order to grow that business consistently.
So yes, there has been a spurred of employee count in the last 6, 7 quarters, especially in the last 9 months-or-so. But going forward, we believe it would stabilize in the next maybe 2 -- after 2 or 3 quarters.
Sarvesh Mutha: Okay. But -- so I'm seeing this data -- so for Q2, you had reported 1,500 employees in...
Sachin Gupta: Sir, your voice is not clear at all.
Sarvesh Mutha: Yes. So, I'm saying on behalf of last quarter, you had reported 1,500 employees and this quarter it's 3,500, so within 1 quarter...
Abhinav Gupta: No, no. So, the number is not because of that one quarter, it's just that in the 9 months, we were able to -- so what has happened, the last quarter number was 1,500-plus we hadn't done the employee count exercise in the last half year. So that's why within 1 presentation, you are seeing quite a big jump.
But if you look at it on a more detailed and annual report presentation perspective, you would realize that we always had around 2,000-odd employees. The number has increased in the last 9 months-or-so, we just in the last presentation, we were not able to consolidate the number of employees in the presentation.

Moderator: We have our next question from the line of Raj Tater, a shareholder.
Raj Tater: Good evening, all of you. My question is related to the CAGR growth that was -- the guidance that was given -- in the last quarter, it was mentioned that for the next -- we expect to grow by CAGR 25% to 30%. But in today's guidance, we are mentioning upwards of 20%. Can you please elaborate on that?
Sachin Gupta: Yes, Kamlesh, sir, please continue, please.
Kamlesh Shah: No, no. We always would like to be conservative. If you see the -- I mean, the performance for the 9 months, it is already showing the healthy growth of upward of 25%. So, I mean this is what we believe we have discounted all the unforeseen events and the global turmoil or any other events. So that we would like to be conservative rather than liberal on the numbers, but you will see from the actual performance that we have delivered more than what we have mentioned in our conversation.

Abhinav Gupta: Yes. And also, I would just like to add, when we mentioned for 35% -- 25% to 30% CAGR growth, since then, the company has grown at a faster rate than 25% to 30%. We maintained that when we acquired uTrade. So, it's the first time that we gave the 25% to 30% guidance essentially was in March '22, right?
And now we are sitting at March '24. In the last 2 years, company has grown at a much faster pace, both in terms of top line and bottom line. So even though we believe that the endpoint remains same 25%, 30% from those levels, we believe that even with that 20%, we would be able to maintain an entire CAGR of around 25% to 30%.
And as sir said, it's much more prudent on our side to remain conservative on this because future, as everyone says, will flow out on its own. But we continue to remain bullish both on the traditional business and any additional business that we are able to grow because of the efforts that we have taken in the last 2 years, including mutual fund advisory or institutional business or merchant banking or NBFC business will add on to the bottom line and improve our CAGR growth.
Kamlesh Shah: Just to elaborate, just to mention. See, in my initial remarks I have mentioned our performance for 9 months. The revenue has grown by 36% in 9 months. And the profit after tax has grown by 39%. So that itself shows lot of things about the actual performance. Going forward, as that is the best policy to be conservative and to achieve more than what we promised.

Moderator: We have our next question from the line of Mr. Abhishek, a shareholder.
Abhishek: First of all, congratulations on the wonderful results. My question is related to NBFC. Could you please give a broad-based breakup of loan book and borrowings in NBFC? Additionally, what are the geographies we intend to grow NBFC book?
Sachin Gupta: Rajesh, sir, can answer this question. Rajesh, sir, can you please answer this question?
Rajesh Gupta: Good evening, everyone. Our loan book as on 31st December was INR235 crores. Out of this, INR169 crores was from -- entrepreneur loans. And the remaining was from SMB loans of bigger ticket sizes. These are the two main breakups. And our borrowings are from banks, from corporate, intercorporate loans and from our relative also.
As far as our geographical expansion is concerned, in these 9 quarters, we have opened our branches in Bihar and MP. We will continue to grow in these areas looking forward. And in the coming period, we also looking to seeing our expansion in other states also, including Odisha and Jharkhand.
Abhinav Gupta: Yes. So just what Rajesh, sir, has -- just to add on to those points. we have closed this quarter with around 57 branches for NBFC and more than 67,000 -- or around 68,000 active customers from the NBFC division as well. So, the client within t he NBFC division...

Abhishek: Yes, yes.
Abhinav Gupta: Yes. So, 57 branches and around 68,000 customer base for the NBFC.

Abhishek: Okay. So, as we are talking about the expansion of this vertical, are there any new products we are planning to launch in NBFCs?
Kamlesh Shah: Sure. As already Sachinji has told that we are interested -- more interested in collateralized products. We are looking for the secured loans to SME and like that. We will definitely grow our book in SME loans.
Moderator: We have our next question from the line of Vikas Jain, a shareholder.
Vikas Jain: Sir, congratulations for good set of numbers. Sir, I wanted to know the view of management that in near future management of the company intend to give any bonus share to the shareholders as a corporate action or corporate benefits to shareholders?
Abhinav Gupta: Sir, as of right now, there is no plan that is presented to the Board on this. As and when there are certain things that might come to -- presented to the Board, appropriate disclosures will be made to the exchange.
Sachin Gupta: Okay. But sir, you will appreciate that every quarter company is giving some dividends. So as for the dividend policy, so we have distributed it in every quarter. So -- but as far as any corporate action, there is no discussion with the Board.
Vikas Jain: But in near future management have a...
Sachin Gupta: Might be, but -- yes, might be, but right now, we don't have any proposal.
Moderator: We have our next question from the line of Raj Tater, an individual investor.
Raj Tater: Sir, our core business, which is the broking business has grown phenomenally well over the last so many years. And now we are diversifying into merchant banking, NBFC, insurance broking businesses. So, all of us know that NBFC is a huge business in itself. So are we diversifying too much in 3, 4 new businesses at the same time, instead of just focusing on maybe NBFC, which is like the largest business in India. I wanted your views on that.
Sachin Gupta: So, I will start the answer then Rajesh, sir, can add. So, the idea is, as I explained earlier, the idea is that as a group Share India should be a diversified group. So, things should not be like that if stock market went down like, let us say, by 50%, so all the stock market related revenues definitely dry up.
We have all experienced it in the last 15, 20 years, multiple times. We see the periods where there is no revenue from any vertical stock market if market performs bad in a certain period, correct? So, with that opinion, we were diversifying into new verticals, which are not directly related to the stock market.
So NBFC and insurance are the 2 verticals in our kitty. So NBFC is quite big. But the idea is, we will grow -- we will diversify within NBFC also, like Rajesh, sir, explained, collateralized loan and non-collateralized loan, personal loan types everything will be there. But definitely, we are not going to take much leverage with NBFC.

We are not going to take too much loan or on book that it should not pose any risk to the parent company. So, it should give us good revenues, it should grow, but eventually, it should not be burdened or risky for the group as a whole. So, with having a conservative opinion, we'll grow organically we'll go slow, but definitely, even slow, I didn't mean that like we'll not grow at all. We'll go at a decent pace. And now we have started looking for diversifying the verticals within NBFC. So, Rajesh, sir, can add here. Rajesh, sir, you want to...

Rajesh Gupta: Okay. Okay. Okay. As Sachinji has explained, we are definitely keeping pace with our holding company. Our loan book as on 31st March '23 was INR127 crores, and now it is INR235 crores. Our branches were 42 and now these are 57. We are adding SME loans, we are adding ollateralized loan and we are adding states further. Yes, definitely, we are not growing at unexpected pace.

We are conservative as RBI has already red flag regarding unsecured personal loan. We are more conservative. We have installed more checks in our system to take the -- to onboard the clients like we have fixed some exposure of the clients, we are -- we are boarding, total exposure of loan of the clients, total monthly instalment, if he is paying, like that.
So, we will be more focusing on quality of our AUM. It is for only this division that our GNPR only 0.9% and net NPR only 0.66%. So, we are growing, but keeping the quality of our AUM.
Abhinav Gupta: Yes. And just to answer your question, only from an NBFC person, what Sachin, sir, and Rajesh, sir, are trying to tell you is that internal accruals and equity remains the main source of funding for that book. And essentially, though we would -- we are very positive about the outlook of that, but the growth would be very streamlined in that sense for that business to be in. And yes, as far as the diversification into other division is concerned, you would appreciate that the diversification is not about only a quarter impact.
It's more from a strategic angle that we want to pursue and become a financial conglomerate and offer multiple financial services and we believe all of these businesses will start giving traction maybe a few years down the line, we are just sowing the seeds right now and putting into the efforts of creating those divisions, maybe a couple of years down the line when you will start their impact the entire impact on the income statement or income on that matter.
Moderator: Thank you. Due to time constraint, that would be the last question of the day. I would now like to hand the conference over to Mr. Raju Barnawal for closing comments. Over to you, sir.
Raju Barnawal: Thank you, Kamlesh, sir, and Share India team for giving us this opportunity to host the call and good luck for the future performance. Thank you.
Moderator: On behalf of Antique Stock Broking, that concludes this conference. Thank you for joining us, and you may now disconnect your lines.
Sachin Gupta: Thank you, everyone. Thank you.
Kamlesh Shah: Thank you. Thank you, everyone.

I now hand the conference over to Mr. Sarvesh Mutha. Thank you, and over to you, sir.

Sarvesh Mutha: Yes. Thank you. Good evening, everyone. On behalf of Antique Stock Broking, I welcome you all to Q1 FY'25 Earnings Conference Call of Share India Securities. We have with us the entire senior management team of Share India Securities represented by Mr. Kamlesh Shah, Managing Director; Mr. Sachin Gupta, CEO; Mr. Rajesh Gupta, Director; and Mr. Abhinav Gupta, President, Capital Markets.

Now without any further delay, I hand over the call to Kamlesh sir for his opening remarks. Thank you, and over to you, sir.

Kamlesh Shah: Yes. Thank you, Sarvesh. Good evening to all of you, and welcome to quarter 1 financial year '25 investors call. We saw Lok Sabha elections and formation of coalition government at the center during the quarter. The stability at center will provide great push to the economy and the industry.

The quarter was eventful for the company as well. During the quarter, the Board approved stock split of shares of the company into 5 shares for each shares held, the face value of the company share is now INR2. Approximately 80% of the warrant issued under the right issue are converted into the shares in line with our expansion plans.

As a result of this, we are now standing on a strengthened network base of approximately INR2,000 crores. And by next quarter, all the remaining warrants would be converted into equity shares, along with the internal accruals, providing further strengthening to our network base.

Here, I would like to request all the investors to get their warrants converted as the last date to convert is approaching fast. And I would not like that any investors miss out this deadline.

Coming to the quarterly financial performance of the company. Quarter 1 financial year '25, despite being a challenging quarter for the industry, our company continues to deliver a healthy operational and financial performance on back of our sustainable business model. During the quarter 1 FY'25, our total consolidated revenue from the operation was INR414 crores in comparison to INR277 crores in quarter 1 FY'24, giving an increase of 50% on year-on-year basis.

The consolidated profit after tax grew by 26% on year-on-year basis from INR82 crores to INR103 crores. Net profit margin for the quarter is 24.86%. Debt-to-equity ratio is 0.015x. The EBITDA was INR153.57 crores and EPS works out to INR5.18 for INR2 paid up share.

During the quarter 1 FY'25, stand-alone revenue from the operation was INR325 crores in comparison to INR208 crores in quarter 1 financial year '24, giving an increase of 56% on year-on-year basis. Also, stand-alone profit after tax grew by 30% on a year-on-year basis from INR51 crores to INR73 crores. Net profit margin for the quarter remains at 22.42%. The debt-to-equity ratio for the stand-alone company remains at 0.10. EBITDA stands at INR112 crores. Earnings per share comes to INR3.67 for INR2 paid up share.

Here, I would like to talk about performance of our subsidiaries. We have created 10 subsidiaries to cater specific requirement of different business verticals. Out of 10, we would say that we have created five Navratnas as we feel they are the force behind the future growth drivers. These are Share India Capital Services, Share I ndia Insurance Brokers, Share India Fincap Private Limited, Share India Securities, IFSC, which is overseas trading company, and human face of Share India Group, Share India Smile Foundation.

The consolidated results show all around development in all business verticals. Contribution to the consolidated profit by subsidiaries is a step towards diversification and business sustainability. All the subsidiaries are performing well and aligned with the vision map of the company.
From increased AUM in NBFC to capturing SME IPO market in merchant banking, from exploring opportunities beyond Indian markets in GIFT, IFSC and Singapore to strengthen market share in overseas strategy-based trading, from meeting surging needs of the technological pioneering to spreading smile and changing lives, the group is intact with its value and vision, being relevant and stay focused.
Capital market has seen a slew of reforms in past 2 years. Going forward also, there are several regulatory reforms that are pipelined and that your company is well prepared for those regulatory changes and all geared up to convert challenges into opportunities. Also, the regulatory reforms bring investors' confidence in the market, which is beneficial for the industry as a whole. This is evident from the number of demat accounts in India.
The total number of demat accounts have increased from -- increased to 16.2 crores as of June '24, with 42 lakhs new accounts added in this month. The union budget poses short-term challenges for the market, due to rise in STT on future and options trade and increasing capital gain tax rates, which was not anticipated by the market.
But considering the growth of the investor base, and their confidence in the market, the market are expected to realign with the fundamentals and macroeconomic trends. Overall, the budget lays out a comprehensive and robust blueprint for achieving sustained growth and development. We have seen stability in the market post budget. The market is at a kissing distance to 25,000 mark in the NIFTY.
To conclude, I would say that we will continue our pursuit of operational and financial performance and sustainable growth in coming quarters. Lastly, I thank all the shareholders for -- all the stakeholders for their valuable contribution. With these words, I would like to hand over proceeding to our young and dynamic CEO and Promoter Director, Shri Sachin-ji. Thank you.

Sachin Gupta: Thank you, Kamlesh sir. Thank you for the detailed presentation about the Q1 FY'25 and overall discussion about the budget and the thing. And sir, I would like to give a brief about what we are doing now and the status of the initiatives we took in previous years and what are the initiatives we are planning to take in the coming years.
So investors, as in the previous calls, we were -- last year, we were explaining about the launch of our dream project that is uTrade Algo for retail. So we launched this product last year around 8 months back, and it took some time to get aligned with the market, with the customer requirement.
So now the product is well accepted, and it is giving -- showing us encouraging participation from all over India, like clients from every state and every part. But yes, number is very small, but the way people -- the kind of feedback we are getting, so we are very sure that in coming years, this product will be a game changer product for the entire market.
And believe me, why this product is a dream project, because the kind of IP Share India is providing in terms of providing strategies and kind of IP uTrade, which is our subsidiary, is providing is a very rare combination. And it's very tough -- it will be very tough for the industry to catch up to that level. And this is the USP we are going to take it forward with us and for the very, very long period. And this product will be widely accepted in coming years like the next 3 years, we are very bullish on this product and it can change the entire course of the company in the coming years.

So the basic problem investor face is as the report suggest, everybody like 90% of people lose money in derivative market. So we are kind of providing strategies -- internally based strategies, which are low return and low risk strategies, totally internally based strategies, well back tested, where people can trade and where success rate is much higher than the numbers we are learning from the market, from the certain report.

So we have success rate is much, much higher. You can say that 80% people are making money, 20% are losing money. That kind of success ratio we have. And we have to see that as the participation grows, then products will also evolve from the current scenario, right? So the basic requirement of the investor was to how to use their invested assets like mutual fund, gold bonds, t-bills and maybe stocks.
So when we go into derivative trading and that too on quant-based, strategy-based trading, there you can use your existing mutual funds as a collateral. You can use FDs, you can use t-bills, you can use gold bonds, you can use stocks or whatever you have invested. So what you are getting, you're trying to earn extra alpha on your existing investment asset, right?
So you have already invested in mutual fund to -- with some expectation of returns over the longer period of time, maybe NAV based or maybe anything. So uTrade is helping you to generate extra bit of income over the existing portfolio, you don't need to bring in special new capital for derivative trading.

And the best part is these all are internal strategies properly back tested. If there is any bad day, you will end up with a certain loss, which is during that day only. So losses are protected, and we are not promising anything. Traders have to trade on their own. But if they use the strategies wisely, people are able to generate decent returns.
Maybe profit or loss depends on their involvement into a trading, but we are kind of able to provide a platform to the trader, which is a low latency platform, easily accessible, easily usable to the customers, which they are actually now really happy to use that product.
So as far the numbers are there, so 35,000 total logins we have got in last 8 year. As this is a push product, we need to explain the product in detail to the customer. So still we got 35,000 logins till date. And out of that, 1,500 plus are active customers who are using this product at least once a month. So as the word goes, people -- the popularity is spreading by word of mouth, so as I said, it's a push product, so we have to explain the customer about the benefits and how to use the product.
So it's not like simple buy-sell platform. So right now, we are extremely bullish like our marketing strategies are -- we are -- everything is focused on uTrade. So next 3 years, our targets are super aggressive. And we believe this particular product will change the course of entire retail participation in trading derivatives, especially for Share India.
As I said, Share India will carry this USP for the very, very long period, it will be very tough for the industry to catch up. And this can change the way people look at Share India. Share India will be very well established in terms of retail participation, especially the ultra low retail.
Yes, there are challenges that we may come up with different, different new policies. But as Kamlesh sir has already explained, all these policies are useful for the industry. They ensure confidence in the investors and the participants, but yes, SEBI's role is to protect the investors from the bad day. So that's what SEBI is doing. So we are with SEBI whatever they are doing. We have to follow their guidelines.
So -- but keeping t hat in mind, uTrade is one product we are very hopeful and very pushy and we believe this will really be the product which our investors will feel proud of that their company has done this product for the retailers.

So as I'm progressing in this call, so some initiatives we took last 2 years, out of which merchant banking, as Kamlesh sir explained, Share India Capital Services, our subsidiary. Merchant banking started 2 years back. Last year, we came up with the nine IPOs, nine SME IPOs. It was a great, great push for us, great learning. It was not a big cash cow, but yes, it was a great learning pushing nine companies for the NSE, BSE platform, especially SME. So that gave us a good learning, good experience.
So this year, we have already helped two companies to get listed on BSE SME and target is 15 more companies should be coming in the rest of the 9 years. And when I'm saying 15, that means we are already working on the DRHP, and some has been filed and some are to be filed in the next 2 months. So 15 plus 2, 17 -- 15 to 18 companies we are targeting this year.

So that's double the number, but it's not about a number of companies we'll list this year. Profit will be at least 5x bigger than the last year. So that's a big push. That's a big support from the merchandising division. Our team is doing really, really good and well experienced team now we have. And we believe coming years, this particular division is going to be big supportive division for the entire group.

Second initiative we took last year was the establishment of institutional desk. Even that initiative paid us well. Again, we are very lucky to have a very good team with us led by Mr. Kamlesh -- Mr. Kalpesh, and so in insti-desk, as we are talking today, at least we have more than 40 to 45-odd institution clients empanelled with us -- we got empanelled from them and minimum 8 to 15 institutions daily trade with us.
So our cash volume has gone up. Derivative volume have gone up. And even brokerage numbers are decent and a lot of deal making is happening. We're helping people for good blocks and we're helping investors with good companies, so both ways.
So institutional desk is doing really good, good research, there's good execution team. Overall, this division will also be very fruitful and will be a good diversification, again, when we are saying in coming years, this division and merchandising, both put together, will be a super good diversification for us.
And as far as retail, again, retail is 2, 3 years initiative, and we are progressing well in retail, led by a very good team, Mr. Gajendra, he leading our retail team. And we started MTF -- for the retail, we started MTF last year, and I proudly say when we are talking, we have MTF book of INR150 crores right now, and we are targeting INR250 crores of MTF book by end of this financial year. And this is a product which every retailer is looking for. And with the help of MTF, we are able to penetrate well to the different parts of India for the retail.
Our team is really pushing very good from here. And next two to three years, investors will see that with the help of MTFs, institution desk, merchant banking, uTrade, all these products put together -- divisions put together, retail numbers will be really, really big and you guys will have proud of your company that we have diversified into the non-core areas and we are delivering well, as Kamlesh sir explained, NBFC is also a key area. So they are also doing decently good and aggressive plan for three years.
So when we are talking diversification is into retail, uTrade is our USP, MTF, merchant banking, NBFC. So all divisions put together, we are extremely hopeful that in coming two to three years, we'll have a diversified income from the different verticals. That will give us a really big push in coming three years.
And I also want to inform all our investors that this new initiative, what we are planning, it will take off really next year. Share India is not into wealth, like we don't have any AIF, we don't have any PMS right now. So this year, we are planning to form an AIF and PMS. So again, focus is on fee-based businesses. So this year we'll establish this business. Like as I said, every year, we are starting a new initiative with different divisions like uTrade, insti-desk, merchant banking, MTF.

This year, our aggressive and a good plan is about wealth division. Wealth is one. We were actually very keen, but we had a lot of things on our plate. So we waited for the right time. So I think time is right as the entire Board decided to start the wealth division. So we are planning to apply for AIF very soon and PMS license with the SEBI. Once we get the license, we hope next financial we start the operations also. And with the course of time, wealth will also be very big as India is growing. Wealth is one, all our clients look for.
And with the wealth coming into our basket, I think we'll have most of the products, which is desired by the retail client from their companies -- from the financial companies. So wealth is one we are announcing that we'll start next year. We are applying for the licenses this year.
So overall, if we see like next 3 years, we'll have good diversified revenues from all the verticals, keeping control on the core growth, core business, keeping strong grip there and divesting into new verticals. I hope that will give us a good base and sustainability in coming years. Thank you very much. This was all from my side.
Thank you very much. This was all from my side. Sarvesh, you can please take over from here.
Kamlesh Shah: Sarvesh?
Sachin Gupta: Yes. Can we have the questions?
Sarvesh Mutha: Yes. So before we take the first question, I'd like to -- I have a question with me. So there are a lot of regulations that are coming in on -- from SEBI as well as from the financial industry regarding the kind of transactions and all. So I would firstly like to have your views on that.
Sachin Gupta: Kamlesh sir, you can answer this.
Kamlesh Shah: Sachin sir, you want to take it?
Sachin Gupta: I will just start, then Kamlesh sir can take over because after all he's an expert into this because he is working very closely with the core groups. So my general point is this, as sir has already explained, in the union budget, they increased STT. And that is, of course, a remainder for investors and that what will happen to the core business once the STT increase.

Yes, it is a challenge. It will definitely take some time to get absorbed. But I think in next -- once it is applicable, then in 2 to 3 months, things will change as per the new cost structure. And -- but as far as retail investor is there, as far as flows are there, people are coming up with the money and a lot of foreign institutions are coming in, in India, so this is -- this cost is one which will be absorbed and the business will not be much impacted by change in STT.
And as far as SEBI is concerned, I just want to tell one thing, and Kamlesh sir can definitely elaborate, what all SEBI is doing, SEBI is doing in favor of retailers. They just want to protect the small retailers to -- if something went wrong in the market, people should not get trapped badly, and they should be protected, that's their whole goal, but they are not stopping any trading activity at all.

So in a way, whatever the changes SEBI will bring, yes, citizens will have to adjust according to that. And we are well diversified, well capitalized, good talented company. We'll be able to digest all these changes, and I don't think they will make big change or there is a big challenge for us to manage and I don't think there's going to b e a big hit on our bottom line. I don't think that much. But we believe that these changes will bring more sustainability for the retailers.

Kamlesh sir, you can elaborate on it.
Kamlesh Shah: Yes. The reforms are in line with the growth in investor base. Reforms though pose short-term problems or short-term adjustments. But it is like -- it is a challenge for everyone in the industry that those who convert these challenges into opportunity are the biggest beneficiary. We have seen that all the reforms that has been played out like pledge/re-pledge system, multiple pledge system, upfront margining system and the margining system plus upstreaming of funds. All this has played a good role in organic growth of the market. This has increased the investors confidence to a great extent.
Today, we can say that we have the best regulatory market in all of the world. In addition to that, we have outperformed the world market. And today, we are sitting at a kissing distance of 25,000 mark on the NIFTY. So the market is growing, investor base is growing. Reforms are part of the life and it is in the interest of the industry. Only thing you need is to convert them into right opportunity and then this will definitely help you to grow your business on a sustainable level.
Thank you.
Moderator: The first question is from the line of Rushil Dedhia from Antique Stock Broking.
Rushil Dedhia: Sir, I had one question. Now that the taxes for the long-term and the short-term have gone up, how does that affect us and our volumes?
Abhinav Gupta: So I'll just start with it and then Sachin sir and Kamlesh sir can elaborate on it. Honestly speaking, as a detailed discussion has been done by Sachin sir and Kamlesh sir both regarding regulatory reforms, so in line with that, we believe that such event doesn't impact the market sentiment that much.
Of course, there can be a short term event -- they can be considered a short-term event which can have an impact on the volumes. But from a business perspective, we don't see it to be a very big challenge or impacting any of the top line or bottom line significantly. Sachin sir and Kamlesh sir, you can add on to it.
Sachin Gupta: Yes, I want to add something. So as you said, in this union budget, they have increased the long-term, short-term STT. SEBI regulator comes with new changes, like we should also talk about the RBI. They closed the currency market immediately -- in few days, right? So that's why whenever we discuss, we discuss about the new verticals, we discuss about the diversity of the business, correct?
So when you look at the Share India, you will not find high concentration in one product like algo trading, like we do -- like we are in to retail now, we have started insti-desk. We are into merchant banking, we are into NBFC, and now we are starting the wealth business. So why we are focusing on different, different verticals because if there are some challenges in one vertical, other vertical picks up.

Like these days merchant banking is generating good money. Retail is doing good, and insti is doing good. So overall, we avoid to have a concentration on one part so that any regulatory change can disturb your overall planning. So one is this. As a strategy of business, we are well diversified and that give us better sustainability.

And as far as the core thing about your question is, see, like government says, our respected Prime Minister talk and entire industry or World Bank says that India is growing at more than 6.7% per annum, right? And in next -- by 2030 is a very aggressive -- government has set aggressive targets for 2030. So if India is going to grow, people are going to invest, no matter what are the taxes.
So foreign investors are going to come, local investors are pushing their money into equities and other related products. So that is not going to make much differe nce. Only thing is country should grow. And with the country, definitely at the lower base, all the companies have that ruboff effect and people are coming with the money in the equity market, that is going to give us good business in coming years. So I don't believe that taxes will make much of the difference in decision-making of the investors in the coming years.

Kamlesh sir, over to you. Kamlesh sir, if you want to add any point?
Kamlesh Shah: Here, I would like to highlight that more and more youth are participating, which is a good sign and investor base of less than 30 years is growing very fast. We believe that in three years' time, the DP account would be double. The point here is that the people invest in equity for a long-term period. An increase of 2.5% long-term capital gains that too on the profit of the investor will not make much of a difference.
And this is in line -- though there is a temporary concern about it but in long-term, it will even out. And there will be more and more investments going into the market. Last month, we have seen more than INR40,000 crores in the mutual fund industry coming through SIP and the direct investment. So there are more and more people participating.
Today, the market is standing strong. Though the FIs are selling, the retail participation has kept the market growing and on a sustainable basis. So we don't believe that the small change will have a long effect on the market.
Abhinav Gupta: Can we have the next question, operator, please?
Moderator: Next question is from the line of Rajat Sinha, an individual investor.
Rajat Sinha: I would like to know about the pledged shares standing like the promoters, which have pledged the shares, considering the huge amount of cash which the company is having. So is there any insight like why paying interest on such amount? Is it necessary to have it?
Abhinav Gupta: Kamlesh bhai, you want to take it? Or should I answer?

Kamlesh Shah: Yes. Here, we would like to clarify that the shares have not been pledged to raise money. So we are not paying any interest on this. This pledge is only for margin purpose so that we are adequately margined and we can provide better facility to our client. So neither company nor promoters have borrowed a single rupee against the pledge of the shares, just to clarify. And this is, see, our company is a part of MSCI index. Our company is an approved security for the exchange. So this gives us an additional advantage in terms of getting margin benefit for the investors, and they can participate. This will help us to grow our business and add more clients.
Abhinav Gupta: Yes. So just to elaborate on the first point again, the entire limit that has been placed has been shown as pledged is used to fund the working capital requirements of the company and nothing else. Hope that answers your question.
Moderator: Next question is from the line of Tarang, an individual investor.
Tarang: Sir, I have a few questions. The first one is regarding the operating profit margin. I see a decline in the operating profit margin in the last few quarters. I see this is an industry trend. So do we expect -- so right now, the profit margin is around 35%, 37%. So do we -- when do we expect to push it to the early 50s or late 40s or where do we see that this margin again goes to the margins that we enjoyed in the last financial year or a few years back?
Abhinav Gupta: Yes. So I'll start with it, and then Sachin sir and Kamlesh sir, you can add on to it. So what you're referring to is a quarter-on-quarter trend from an operating margin profit that the maximum that we have reached is around 50%, and that was in around Q3 fiscal year '23. But having said that, even during those con calls, we have consistently maintained that those were margins that we -- that was sort of the peak, we were not expecting those kind of margins to stabilize.

As Sachin sir explained that now we are working in multiple divisions, we are trying to expand multiple divisions, which include institutional broking, merchant banking, uTrade Algos and other service-oriented businesses. There is a certain amount of talent and HR hiring that we need to do, which eats into the operating expense, plus there's a lot of marketing budgets that are allocated adequately to all these divisions.
So as of right now, what we look at is the net profit margin. We currently work at around 25 -- 28% as the margin for the last full year. And this quarter, we have done around 25%. And I think this is around the lowest that we would see. It would only by the year-end that you would start seeing again an uptrend in this kind of a margin number.

Sachin Gupta: I want to add one point. So as Abhinav said, so it also depends on the base of the company. So right now, the company is at a growth trajectory. At this trajectory, we are adding a lot of divisions like when we'll start, especially we have to add good talent. We have started -- we have to have good talent. We are spending a lot of money on marketing. Still we are able to maintain our PAT grow 20%, 25% year-on-year basis.
So idea is to not to cross-hire in the company, but also to add new talent, add new verticals. They have their own gestation period overall. So that's why you are seeing a decline in the profit but I believe 28% is a very decent profit margin we are maintaining. And we should be able to, like Abhinav said, 25% was the profit margin in quarter 1.

But I think as the year will progress, we'll see that we're able to manage this 28% margin overall in the year. So that's kind of margin we're expected. We're not expecting anything in 40s or 45 because in that case, you have to stop new verticals, you have to stop incurring big costs. So that -- so we believe that at this stage, this trajectory, we are about to take off, and we are pushing hard for -- by 2030, we have a lot of plans for different vertical, and we believe that we're able to maintain this margin and parallelly diversifying into new verticals.
Kamlesh sir, if you want to add.
Kamlesh Shah: I just wanted to add one more point here is that because of the right issue and the internal accruals and the profit that we retained, so this has given a boost to our network. And this increased network, which is currently standing at around INR2,000 crores roughly as of today will further grow.
And this will provide us new opportunities -- to create new opportunity to create new verticals and to focus on new avenues. The growth we will target on the volume also so that we can reap the benefits and continue with the net profit margin of around 25%, which is very good and decent return comparing the industry standard. Thanks.
Abhinav Gupta: Yes. So even in our previous con calls, we had always maintained that 30% plus, minus 3% is approximately the long-term range that we are looking at for the profit margin percentage.
Tarang: Yes. I have a follow-up question. So -- not related to that. But I see that -- this is my observation that the government is looking to reduce the participation of retail and direct that money to the banks. When the government and the regulator and all those players are looking to do such things, then do you see -- what kind of an impact do you see in your top line?
And in the near term, I get it that in the long term, these things won't make a lot of difference. But in the next one year, let's say, what kind of difference do you see in the top line? And how do you -- you told that you are looking to diversify. Anything that you would like to throw light on that as well?
Sachin Gupta: So I will start, and Abhinav, you add your point, and Kamlesh sir can add. So I just want to say government is not trying to diversify equity money to the bank.

They're not doing this. What they are doing, they are trying to protect from overexposure in the derivative market where the risk of potential losses is very high. Government does not want, if suddenly market fall, then retailers should not get trapped or end up losing huge capital of their savings into the market. That's the core goal of the overall policies of SEBI and the government, correct?
So the point is, so they are focusing only on the retail part, ultra low retail, where people have capital of like INR2 lakhs, INR3 lakhs, INR1 lakh, smaller guys. But when we look at Share India, so we have a bouquet of products for -- start from the retailer, start from the company, for the institutions, for large guys, mid guys, every people. So yes, government do want to protect, which is overall in market interest because only then people will have to know for the longer period. This is how Indians are.

So that is not going to impact us hugely on the top line side because as I said, we have not concentrated on one part of the business. So that's one area, definitely that's a part of our business, but that's only one part of business. So that is not going to impact us very badly, even the industry very badly because government is ensuring longevity of the investors rather than concentration by the investors into only derivatives. So they are not discouraging equity investments at all.

So Kamlesh sir and Abhinav, you can add.
Kamlesh Shah: Yes, Abhinav, you want to add something?
Abhinav Gupta: No, no, sir, please go ahead, please go ahead.
Kamlesh Shah: See, even today, the equity market is the most attractive market. Yes, you're right when you said that there are challenges for the bank. Because for bank to get deposit at 7% plus rate, and on that investors will pay 30% tax. So the post-tax return becomes very challenging, so that the growth will be for equity market.
Just to give you a simple example, in 2002, the Sensex was 3,000. And today, we have 80,000 plus Sensex. So in 21 years, the returns are 27x. So this kind of return can only be generated through equity market. So we don't see this as a challenge. In fact, it is a challenge for the banks.
Second thing, more and more companies are coming to the market for raising funds. And this will also give a lot of opportunity for us as a merchant banker and for the investors also to create their wealth. And the -- people have become aware. There are more data available and people today are taking informed decision.
So we feel that the market is set to grow, and with the kind of economic growth that we are seeing, the kind of tax collection, you name any parameters like GDP, IIP, whatever, the growth is there. And with the stable government, we see the next 5 years to be the best period for the equity market. Thank you.
Tarang: Yes, that's all from my side. Operator, please go to the next question.
Moderator: Thank you very much.
Unknown Analyst: Yes. Sir, I had a question. So in your opening remarks, you had mentioned that you will be starting with the wealth management business, especially with PMS as well as AIF. So what sort of tailwinds are you looking -- are you seeing in the next coming 2, 3 and 5 years so that your wealth management business can pick up substantially from here?
Sachin Gupta: Sorry, I missed one point. What sort of...
Unknown Analyst: What sort of tailwinds in the sector are you seeing, what sort of like scenarios are you looking at so that you think that the PMS as well as the AIF business of yours can take off?
Abhinav Gupta: Sachin sir, you want to start or should I start and then you add on?

Sachin Gupta: You can start, I will catch.
Abhinav Gupta: Yes. So as Sachin sir said in the opening remarks, and we have elaborately discussed that we as an organization want to diversify into multiple avenues. And wealth management is just one part of it. We believe that going forward, if we have to become an all-weather company, we have to have a wealth management division in our entity.

And we have been planning for a very long time. And as of right now, it's currently on the drawing board that we are planning to do it. This would be done this year and you would start seeing an impact on the -- in terms of marketing and in terms of what kind of product portfolio would be there and what kind of customer acquisition strategy that we'll be using over there by the end of this year.
In terms of market scenario, as Sachin sir -- as Kamlesh sir closed his last answer is that equity market is the way to go. We believe that in the economic trajectory that India is, equity market as a space would really do well, and we are at the right pace in that scenario. And when we build a business, we don't look at from a quarter or a 3-quarter perspective, we'd look at from a long-term perspective. And we believe, going forward, there will be enough space for each and every company like us, which have a very significant trust amongst customers, and which has a significant portfolio of other avenues, which have access, corporate access to be able to deliver to the AIF and PMS in that trend. So that was from my side. Sachin sir, please.
Sachin Gupta: Yes. So the idea is we see Share India as a big financial company, providing all the services under one umbrella. So when a customer comes, say they need insurance, they need this mutual fund, they need PMS, they need retail broking, they need algo-trading, they need loans, they need everything, right? So Share India slowly and gradually are gravitating in a way to cater all the core requirements of a customer once a customer lands to the company.
So if you see, our insurance group is in touch with different class of clients, merchant banking is in touch with different, NBFC have different set of clients. So once we come together, so we have different portfolios, which we can offer to our customers. So for example, I give you a very classical example, like when we do merchant banking, we offer insurance services to all the merchant banking clients to the companies to whom we are helping for the -- when we go for retail, we offer them diversified products for distribution like insurance, like mutual fund and all, correct?
So what happens? And insurance, for insurance, when we go for corporate pitch for insurance, we tell them that we do merchandising also. If they want to -- if they are listed, they want to raise funds or if they are unlisted, they want to get listed, we help them. So it's like offering cross products from one company to same set of customer. So fee based services is one thing where we are eying in next 3 years, as Kamlesh sir explained, India is growing. We are very bullish on the growth of India in the next 7 years by 2030, as government is pushing.

So why not to have products which we can offer to our existing customer and new set of customers we are approaching. So customers do want investments through AIF, which are just kid on the block, and it has a lot of acceptance in the market, PMS and all these services. And we are assured we have a good team, we have good experience. We just did not started this division as, believe it or not, our core expertise but as the company is growing, so the demand of these products from within the Share India is coming. And our goal is to provide maximum cross-services, providing maximum products under one roof to the existing set of customers and the new customers.

So this cross-selling ensures more stability, so as I explained. So that's the whole reason and we are, again, very bullish on wealth. Next 3 to 4 years, you will see by '27, wealth will be the one reason where fee-based business, which will give us another -- as you all know, SEBI and government, they are always trying to come up with stringent policies. So when you have diversified verticals, so it helps you to overcome all these challenges.

Kamlesh sir can add. This is all from my side.
Kamlesh Shah: See, according to me, the advisory business is going to be booming. So that is the main area which will grow and with the support of the institutional desk that Sachin has already mentioned and the research capability that we have developed, we are sure that with the kind of product portfolio that we have, there are lot of cross-selling opportunities available. And here, the advantage for Share India, it can combine algo with the cash market.
So this will put us into a unique position, servicing our wealth clients. And with the kind of product portfolio that we have, we have comprehensive products. So there will be a lot of cross-selling opportunity that will be available. And we are best placed to serve our clients with all the products that we have under our belt. Thank you.
Moderator: Ladies and gentlemen, we will now take our last question from the line of Raju Barnawal from Antique Stock Broking Limited.
Raju Barnawal: I just have one question on your NBFC subsidiary, that Share India Fincap. So what is the total loan book size currently? And what kind of AUM you're looking to achieve in the next 2 to 3 years?
Abhinav Gupta: Yes. So as of right now -- Mr. Rajesh Gupta couldn't be on the call due to some personal reasons. So the total loan book is around INR200 crores currently. It has reduced from last quarter, which was around INR250-odd crores due to a certain impact in Punjab and Haryana territory.
From a three-year perspective, we are very aggressive on this division. We are trying to add new portfolios, which include secured portfolio apart from just personal loans. It would be very difficult for me to give a three-year target, but we should at least -- we would be looking at around INR500 crores in this division.
Sachin sir, please add on to it.
Sachin Gupta: So the thing is, earlier, we were focusing on non-collateralized unsecured loans of ticket size of around 40,000, 45,000 and to the villages and the deep areas where we went with our core groups. But as things are progressing, we have also started -- 3 months back, we started providing secured loans to the SMEs. So this is the vertical where a lot of demand is coming, but ticket size is around INR20 lakhs, INR25 lakhs. So right now, once we will build like secured book, definitely we will get support from the banks and organically and inorganically, we are targeting at least INR500 crores book by 2027.

So I just want to tell that 2027 we have set as a landmark year for the company. This will mean, in next 3 years, we are setting aggressive targets for uTrade, which is going to be like the product we all are pushing very, very hard. Again, you can see good numbers. I will -- next time, I will also give the projections about the insti business, merchant banking, MTF should not be less than INR500 crores, it's a concern again, by 2027, I guess should be around 700 crores. This should be doing good.
Overall by '27, we believe that if we keep on growing by 20%, 25% as we are doing now despite all the challenges, so we believe that there we'll achieve good numbers and well diversified, plus it will provide good sustainability to us. And as far as NBFC is concerned, should be secured and unsecured, and it should be around INR500 crores.

Raju Barnawal: And just a follow-up on this question, what is the GNPA on this? Last quarter, it was 1.8% in the NBFC subsidiary? What is the GNPA percentage currently?
Abhinav Gupta: For the quarter it is a little higher than that because as I said, there were challenges in Punjab territory. The GNPA for this quarter should be around 3% approximat ely, give or take, yes, around 3%, give or take, yes.

Moderator: Ladies and gentlemen, I would now like to hand the conference over to the management for closing comments.
Abhinav Gupta: Yes. Kamlesh bhai, you want to take?
Kamlesh Shah: Sorry, you can continue please.
Abhinav Gupta: Yes. So on behalf of Share India, thanks a lot to all the investors. Your company, as widely explained by Sachin sir and Kamlesh sir, is really trying and setting aggressive targets for fiscal year '27 and on a day-to-day basis. We are trying to diversify into multiple divisions as has been explained on the call. And we continue to seek your support in all our endeavours. So thanks a lot for attending the call. Thank you.
Moderator: On behalf of Antique Stock Broking, that concludes this conference. Thank you for joining us, and you may now disconnect your lines.
Abhinav Gupta: Thank you.

Savli Mangle: Thank you, Neerav. Good evening everyone and wish you all a very Happy Diwali. On behalf of Share India Securities, I thank all participants present on the call and wish you a very warm welcome to our Q2 and H1 FY '25 earnings conference call.
To guide us through the Results today, we have with us the Senior Management Team of Share India Securities represented by Mr. Kamlesh Shah – Managing Director; Mr. Sachin Gupta – CEO and Whole-Time Director; Mr. Rajesh Gupta – Director; and Mr. Abhinav Gupta – President, Capital Markets.
Before we begin, I would like to state that some of the statements made in today's discussion may be forward-looking in nature. The actual results may vary as they are dependent on several external factors. We will now commence the call with Mr. Kamlesh Shah – Managing Director, followed by Mr. Sachin Gupta – CEO and Whole-Time Director, after which we will open the forum to Q&A.
With that said, I would like to now hand it over to Mr. Shah to share his comments. Over to you, sir. Thank you.
Kamlesh Vadilal Shah: Yes. Thank you. Thank you, Savli, Madam. Good evening. On behalf of Share India Management, I would like to wish you all a very happy festive season.
At Share India, we are guided by principle of Shubh Lakshmi. We shall continue to follow path of doing business with integrity, honesty and self-discipline. We shall also continue our mission of giving back to the society through Share India Smile Foundation.
You will be happy to note that the second quarter of this year, ending September '24, is one of the best quarters in the history of Share India, despite challenges. Also, the next two quarters will showcase our ability to adjust to the far-reaching regulatory reforms. Recently, SEBI has announced a slew of measures to protect retail investors. Mr. Sachin Gupta will discuss in detail about the impact and our strategy.
We are in the Financial Service sector where there is only one factor which is constant, that is change. We try to be ready for all the changes and reforms. Ultimately, what is good for industry and particularly for the investors is good for all the intermediaries and stakeholders. Challenges are uniform for all the intermediaries, and we believe that those who will find a better solution would emerge as winners. We, at Share India, have always worked towards creating sustainable business model. And with a diversified product portfolio, we may not have any significant impact on our performance. We are pleased to present the numbers for this quarter.

First, I would like to highlight consolidated financials:
During Quarter 2 Financial Year '25, our total consolidated revenue from the operations was Rs. 453 crores, giving an increase of 24% on year-on-year basis, an increase of 9% compared to the June quarter. Consolidated profit after tax grew by 10% on a year-on-year basis to Rs. 124 crores, an increase of 21% compared to June quarter. Earnings per share work out to Rs. 6.03 for Rs. 2 paid-up share. Net worth for the Quarter 2 Financial Year '25, stood at Rs. 2,272 crores on consolidated basis. The net profit margin for the quarter has improved to 27.45%, compared with 24.86% in previous quarter. Our debt equity ratio is just 0.14x and our current ratio stands healthy at 1.91x.

Now, I will come to the standalone numbers:
Total revenue for Quarter 2 Financial Year '25 was Rs. 366 crores, showing an increase of about 32.68% in comparison with Quarter 2 Financial Year '24, an increase of 13% compared to June quarter. The profit after tax for Quarter 2 Financial Year '25 was Rs. 98 crores, showing an increase of 22.74% in comparison with Quarter 2 Financial Year '24, an increase of 34% compared to June quarter.
Earnings per share on a standalone basis work out to Rs. 4.75 for Rs. 2 paid up share. For Quarter 2 Financial Year '25, we have successfully accumulated net worth of Rs. 1,910 crores. Here again, the net profit margin has increased to 26.67% from 22.42% in the previous quarter. The debt equity ratio on a standalone basis is just 0.11x and current ratio is 1.94x. This gives us comfort on the liquidity front. The Board of Directors have approved dividend of Rs. 0.50 per Rs. 2 face value shares. The record date for the same is decided as 7th November 2024.
Pursuant to our ongoing business, I aspire to summarize the key updates that have taken place:
Streamlining and automating our IBT and uTrade Algos:
Making the onboarding process for our clients a very pleasant experience. Expanding into new area, I am happy to inform you that margin trading fund book as of 30th September 2024 stands around Rs. 200 crores. Our institutional desk is also doing well. Within a short span of a year, we are able to cater 100 plus institutional clients. Harnessing technology, which is core to our each operations, which explains our investment in technology to create a sustainable business model. Expanding geographically through more branches and franchisee model to reach out to the next-generation clients.
The way forward, we are focusing on to explore and design a model to maximize cross-selling opportunities. We are focusing on strengthening our wealth management division. We are focusing on international expansion through Gift City and our subsidiary at Singapore, which is a great asset and that will help us to achieve the larger profits and the volume. The other significant development is our engagement with Messrs. MSKA and Associates, as our auditor, which is an arm of international firm, BDO. This will further enhance our ability to follow best practices in the industry and bring transparency with consistent performance and strengthening our net worth of our company through internal accrual and right issues.

Our vision of technology as a growth driver, and sustainable business model, with focus on retail investors will guide our future. I would also like to thank all the stakeholders for their continued support. We shall try our best to protect your interest.
Wishing you all a very Happy Diwali and prosperous new year. Thank you.
Savli Mangle: Thank you, Kamlesh ji. I would now request Mr. Sachin Gupta, CEO and Full-Time Director to share his comments. Thank you.
Sachin Gupta: Thank you, Kamlesh sir, for giving in-detail Presentation about the Q2 FY '25. So, as my comment on this is, as Kamlesh sir, already explained, Quarter 2 was the best quarter in our history in terms of profitability. And last one year is very challenging in terms of extremely regulatory pressures and new regulations coming in. But we are happy to say that we were able to adopt all these changes and pass-through all these challenges and are still able to achieve these kind of numbers for the company.
And I would like to inform the investors that, like, the company has ventured into new verticals in the last two years, which are showing very good results. Like, as Kamlesh sir explained, is that they are doing a fabulous job led by Mr. Kalpesh Parekh. They have enrolled more than 100 institutions in less than one year. So, this is quite an achievement

And in our Merchant Banking division last year, we did help the nine companies to get listed on the SME platform. This year, we have got three companies listed and six are filed with the exchanges, and many more to come by end of December. So, even this division is showing very profitable and very promising numbers. So, Abhinav is leading this number. And on the retail side, we have got great success in terms of MTF, in terms of overall brokerage numbers. So, we are very hopeful that all these verticals will help us keep on going and managing the regulatory changes in the trading business and otherwise.
So, focus is, Share India should be more sustainable company, when it comes to the challenges in the overall business environment, and we should be one of the companies, who will sail through all these new challenges, new regulations, and will show promising results in coming quarters also. So, going in detail, so there is a buzz in the industry about the new regulations by the SEBI, and they are actually the game changer point for lot many people, and we are also strategizing how to manage, where to focus more, and how to go ahead with all the changes.
I just want to highlight some large points, which will impact us, and I want to clarify how we are going to manage it. So, first, they have increased the lot size by broadly 3x, so that the overall intent of the SEBI, we should understand the intent. The intent is that the retailers should stay alive, they should not be the temporary player in the market, they should be able to stay afloat and keep on trading in the market in a mature manner.

The people who do not have access to the proper knowledge, proper guidance, they lose lot of money in the market, and that is also not good for all the intermediaries. So, we all want the retailers and clients, their life in the market should be more, and they should earn from the market, only then we will be able to sustain. So, the bigger lot size will definitely be a problem for the smaller traders, but in overall scenario, if we go the worldwide, worldwide derivative lot sizes are of even higher than what SEBI has proposed.
And in India, lot sizes were, value-wise, they were very small, so I believe it will help the large traders also, but it is not good for small traders, but ultra-small traders, who cannot afford to trade at a certain level, they should not trade in the market, that's the whole wish of the SEBI.
But it is not going to impact badly to the company, because with the, like we do not charge on the per lot basis, or on per trade basis, we charge on the turnover basis. So, this will help us in doing better turnovers by the client, and it will impact us positively in terms of brokerage we charge.
So, this is not negative for us. We do not believe that much participation will go away, only smaller players will find it difficult, but largely people will adapt. And as I said, universally, in the larger markets, lot sizes are even bigger than this what SEBI has proposed. So, this is not a negative sign, we will adopt, and I think this will result into better revenue for the companies.
And the next bigger point is, two expiries in a week. So, weekly expiries are gone now. So, people used to trade on 0- DTE (days to expiration) on every day, on all the expiries, and now they are gone. They are on a monthly basis, only two benchmarks, SENSEX and Nifty will be on the weekly basis. So, I just want to share some data on it. So, people are talking that this will hamper the turnover by 50%, and this and that. I just want to share some data.
Moderator: Sir, sorry to interrupt you, we are losing your audio. Sir, sorry to interrupt you, we are losing your audio. Can you hear us?
Sachin Gupta: Yes. Sorry. I was explaining that, right now we have 20 expiries to trade. All so people are get used to trade in the 0-DTE expirie

s. But I tell you, I tell you, the data is that Mondays are not good days. So, Monday volumes are even 25% on the other days. So, Mondays, we do not count. So, practically 16 expiries right now we trade. And our total universe of the traders, clients, traders, everything is based on these 16 days.
And what SEBI has proposed, they are still giving us 10 expiries. So, like four expiries in the last week and two expiries on the rest three weeks, so six plus four ten. So, technically, we are down by 30% expiries only, which will impact us, correct, which will impact the entire traders' life. But on the contrary, what is going to happen, we believe that this volatility will stabilize. We believe that spikes will go away. Concentration will not be there. So, market will be far easier to trade than what we are feeling now.

So, now volatility is at its peak. It's very difficult to trade on 0-DTE expiry these days. So, people are losing hell lot of money, because of the unnatural volatility we are seeing in the Indian market. So, we do not believe that Indian markets are so mature to handle so many 0-DTE expiries. That's the primary reason that the regulator has proposed this. So, yes, there can be a caution. There can be a pause of two months, maybe one or two months to study the data of the new change that will happen after the end of November. So, people will be cautious for one or two months. But once the data is in, people will get used to. I believe that the 10x price we do have, again, they are 0-DTE. But rest of this, because of the less volatility and no spikes era, so we will be able to generate better profit.
So, at Share India, we believe, maybe after a pause of two, three months, the trading volume will go up. I'm not saying that trading volume will be like this today, but logical volumes will be there. People's trading margin will go up. So, in net, I'm not seeing a negative impact of it. Maybe after three years, we guys can see a better profit resulting out of this.
As sir explained, all we have seen in last two, two and a half decades, all these regulatory changes, they are universal in nature, they result into positive impacts rather than a negative impact. So, we are not very negative on it, we are rather positive. Yes, because December will be the month. So, next quarter, only one month may be impacted. And maybe January also, then February, March, things should pick up. So, overall, we do not see, even on quarter-on-quarter basis, much hit on the bottom line, on the revenue side. So, this is our take on the SEBI side. And if there will be any queries, we are happy to take up in the Q&A session.

And I want to share one more data. So, next is like we are focusing on the different verticals like to, give us better sustainability and growth. As I explained earlier, as Kamlesh sir also explained, Merchant Banking and Insti-Desk, all these businesses have started showing positive results. Merchant banking is starting giving us, like we started two, two-and-a-half years back, now this vertical is very profitable. It's very encouraging for us. And Insti-Desk, this is a first year. So, we believe next two to three years, this business will also give us very good numbers. And I must compliment the Insti-Desk team, not only they have empaneled 100 institutions, more than 100 institutions, they are also doing at least two roadshows in a week.
And they are taking companies to Singapore, they are taking companies to Dubai, they are taking companies to Muscat. So, obviously, Mumbai. So, they are taking companies to international investors also. And on that side, they are very promising and helping companies to meet with the good institutions for the investment. And if there are any blocks, we are guiding them good. So, on that side, Insti-Desk is very promising. And keeping this in mind, focusing more on fee-b ased business like MTF. MTF, sir explained, we have Rs. 210 crores book right now. And the annual target was given by the team was Rs. 250 crores, which we have turned Rs. 210 crores by first half year only. So, now we have increased the annual target to Rs. 300 crores. Correct. So, this number is not helping us only in garnering interest income. Also, this is helping us in the increasing overall broking business.

So, MTF is an another vertical, which is very promising, high revenues and stable returns, which is giving us the stability. So, keeping this in mind, yesterday in Board meeting, Board has approved to form another subsidiary of Share India, which will be called Share India Wealth Multiplier. So, here we will propose to get AIF and PMS, it will be a wealth division of the Share India. Share India is venturing into the wealth division very soon. Once the Board has approved, our company formation will be there, then we will apply for the licenses.
So, maybe six to eight months, once we get the SEBI approvals, so we will start with the AIF and PMS. These areas we have never touched. Again, these are fee-based areas. So, next two to three years, when we see, we see all the fee-based businesses will be far better and comfortable, and give us better sustainability. And we have the network of investors, intermediaries, who can help us grow in this business. So, this is another business. Yesterday, we got approval from the Board, and we are proposing it, and we are informing to the shareholders about this.
And another thing is, last thing is from my side, yesterday we got the Board approval for Rs. 100 crores NCDs, as the legal process will be over. So, we are proposing the Rs. 100 crores NCDs. This money will be primarily used to increase the MTF book. It will be secured against the MTF book. So, focus is on MTF, on retail, on wealth. Wealth is the new division we are picking up. Like, we are done with Merchant Banking and Insti. So, professional teams, they are doing a very good job. So, now we focus more on wealth, and also on the international side.
So, international side, yes, there were some challenges in the last quarter, because there were some large spikes because of the Japanese market. Some of the investors may know that there was extreme volatility in a day, in Japanese market, because of which we saw some problems in the International Trading side. But keeping that in mind, we are still hopeful, we will try to get more mature and try to get better strategies to implement. And next two to three years, we will focus on International Trading, Wealth side, MTF, and all these verticals. This is a submission from my side.
Thank you very much, investors, and Happy Diwali to everyone. And Savli ma'am, over to you.
Moderator: Thank you very much. We will now begin with the question-and-answer session. The first question is from the line of Bharani, an individual investor. Please go ahead.
Bharani: Yes, how much active clients we have so far? And as per the plan, we plan on acquiring 2 lakh to 3 lakh customers, what's the process for in that? And what's the expected gross NPA in the NBFC business?
Sachin Gupta: Kamlesh, can you answer the first part, I will answer the second part. Rajesh sir, can answer the second part.
Abhinav Gupta: And in terms of representation, sir, you want me to answer or you will take that up in terms of the plan to reach around 2.5 lakh customers that we had for the last three years?

Bharani: I would like to know the current active customers, and what's the process in acquiring those 2 lakh customers in future?
Abhinav Gupta: Sure. So, as of right now, the active customer base is around 12,000. And as stated earlier, that uTrade Algos as a product was launched to acquire customers. The product is now working autifully, and we are adding new customers on a daily basis. Alongside, because of the market matrix, we have also launched MTF and other allied, retail allied product. And cumulatively for all of them, we are getting good traction.

We remain consistent on our plan to reach another 2.5 lakh customers for three years. It's a long-term trajectory that we are trying to do. We are mostly focused on our product orientation for this to be achieved, rather than just pure-play marketing. But slowly and steadily, our old marketing initiative will also start reaping benefits. Also what we have done is, we have started adding multiple ancillary businesses in terms of mutual fund and insurance businesses, which will add-on to our retail broking business clientele as well.

Sachin Gupta: May I add something, Abhinav?

Abhinav Gupta: Sure. Sure.

Sachin Gupta: So, as far as acquiring new clients, I tell you, MTF is helping us a lot. We are continuously doing small roadshows in the Tier-3 cities, like we are going to Bikaner in January. We are doing roadshows in all the small cities possible. And we have recently opened a branch, an independent retail branch, full-fledged retail branch in Calcutta. And also in Connaught Place, CP, the core Delhi area, and planning to start one small branch in Mumbai also. So, this is the first time we are doing all these offline things in Share India, because we have enough products to offer to the retailer, like I said, we are distributing different products, MTF, Good Research, all the products, which retailers are looking at.

And the unique product, which only we have, is uTrade Algos. This is what we are offering on the plate. So, you guys can see the serious effort from our side. We are opening retail branches, which earlier we never did. So, so branches we will be opening in the main cities, like Ahmedabad, Mumbai, Kolkata, maybe Southside, and some branches, but we will try to cater the Tier-3 cities from main branch.

So, going further, we believe that, as you said, 2 lakhs, so we are targeting in next two years, we should be having more than 1 lakh customers. And the speed of acquiring customers has gone up. As Kamlesh sir earlier explained in the presentation, we have made the onboarding system very smooth and comfortable for the investors, for the clients, sorry. And keeping all these things in mind, our target is one lakh customers in the next two years for purely, purely retail purpose, not only for uTrade Algos, correct?

So, this is the answer of the first part. And your next question?

Sachin Gupta: Yes, sir.

Kamlesh Vadilal Shah: Yes. See here, there is a difference between discount brokerage and our business model. We are catering to our clients through strategy and through Algos. So, it is not apple-to-apple comparison with the discount brokerages. The number of clients in our company, you may feel lesser compared to the clients, active clients of discount brokerages. But those clients use very large volumes. And that is how we are also managing a very large volume. So, our business model is slightly different from the discount brokerage. Thank you.

Moderator: Mr. Bharani, do you have any follow-up question?

Bharani: Yes. So, there is one more question. So, in the NBFC business, last quarter, we can be able to see a high gross NPA. So, what are we going to achieve in gross NPA in the upcoming quarters? Because I can able to see lot of companies are struggling with gross NPA recently. So, what is our goal and how are we going to handle it?

Sachin Gupta: Rajesh sir, may I start, and then you can please follow on with that. Hello? Rajesh sir, do you want to take it or should I start?

Rajesh Gupta: Yes, yes please.

Sachin Gupta: So, I will tell you. So, in NBFC business, primarily we were focusing on the MFI. And on that side, we have seen all the NBFCs in the country are feeling some stress, likewise with us. And that's why the book has gone down, and we are seeing some NPA pressures on it.

Secondly, RBI has reduced the 180 days to 150 days, which has also added to some NPA numbers for everyone. And going further, keeping this in mind that this business has become very volatile, and lot of MFIs are giving too much money in one hand, in different, different pockets. So, we have selected our pockets, where we will be focusing more, and try to slow down on the difficult parts like Punjab, Haryana, deep North. UP is good for us, and Odisha is doing very good. So, we will try to focus on the more stable markets and try to just stay in certain limits.

We do not want to grow beyond a point in the entire country. We just want to fixed to certain pockets. And secondly, we are more focusing on collateral-based lending, like based on real estate, and business loans based on real estate. And there are some numbers in the book you guys can see. And going further, we are also proposing to start loan against shares. So, we are raising small entries in NBFC also, because our focus is on collateral-based lending. Their net margin is not that high as MFI, but they are stable loans. NPAs are very, very low. And overall portfolio should look like some numbers in MFI, maybe 50% and 25%-25% in collateral-based. So, 50% book will be collateral-based, 50% book will be unsecured. So, this is how we are overall thinking.

And as your question is, what can be the future NPAs, Rajesh sir, can take this further.

Rajesh Gupta: Good evening, everyone. As we all know, these unsecured business and unsecured loans are under pressure for the last couple of quarters. And due to this, NPA has gone up for our company too. This is happening to all the companies. As Sachin ji has explained, we are going to close some of our branches, where NPAs are more, like some branches in Punjab and Haryana. And we are looking for more stable business. We have added secured business-like loan against property and LAS (loan against shares). So, in future, we are going to balance our book with secured and unsecured.
Moreover, as across the industry, we can see that most of the companies have stopped or reduced further distribution of unsecured loans. This will ease the pressure on the market, and in due course say couple of, one or two quarters, this will bring down the unsecured loan book in the market, and ultimately NPA will also come down.
Sachin Gupta: I would just like to add on one more point here that all the stress that you are seeing in NBFC is cyclical in nature. We, as a management, if you see that we have grown significantly in our MTF book, which is also a form of lending, just that it happens via the standalone entity instead of the NBFC arm. But cumulatively the group's lending business has grown significantly, in terms of secured business as well. And we will have a higher IRR if we combine both NBFC and the MTF book in the securities business as well.
Moderator: Bharani, do you have any follow-up question?
Bharani: Yes, the very last one. I would like to know 90 plus revenue, we are getting in from broking business. And we have close to 10 subsidiaries for the upcoming 11 years. So, as of now, only one platform is giving most of the revenues. In future, maybe three years, five years, what could be the revenue split we can expect? As of now, only one is concentrating very high level. Maybe NBFC or any subsidiary, what could be the percentage we can expect or overall, what may be the guideline we can expect?
Sachin Gupta: Kamlesh sir, Abhinav, yes.
Abhinav Gupta: Yes, so I will start Kamlesh sir. Kamlesh sir, you can start, and I will then add on the points then. Please go ahead, sir.
Kamlesh Vadilal Shah: See, all the subsidiaries have grown significantly in t he last two, three years. And they are more or less breakeven, even the one which we started very recently. So, some of them are giving really very good revenue and going forward, we expect at least 25% of the consolidated revenue to come from the subsidiaries, and in years to come, this may go up to 30%, 35%.

So, roughly one-third of the revenue should come from the subsidiaries and apart from the revenue, all these subsidiaries can do a large amount of value unlocking. The business which we have selected for subsidiaries are all specialized business, and there the valuation are really going to be commanding.

Say for example, insurance broking business, where we are going to touch, last year we touched premium of around Rs. 50 crores. This year we will be touching Rs. 75 crores and year after, we are targeting Rs. 100 crores. Even the Merchant Banking division is doing extremely well. The other specialized algo-trading arm, which is 100% subsidy of the company and having membership of all the exchanges. Share India Algo Plus is also doing very well.
On NBFC, we have already discussed a lot of things. Then we have subsidiary at the international places, like Gift City, as well as in Singapore. So, there also things seem to be very promising. Recently, we did the acquisition of Silverleaf. So, that will add our capabilities in terms of HFT trading. So, overall, the scenario seems to be really encouraging. And all these businesses not only will give good revenue, but also will create good sustainable business model for the company.
You can take it forward, Abhinav.
Abhinav Gupta: Sure.
Sachin Gupta: Yes. I want to add some point here. Apart from the subsidiaries, even in the standalone company, as I said, MTF comes under standalone, and the Broking business, all these branches and offline, even uTrade Algos. So, putting all that, if you see this time, the entire senior management and the core workforce is focusing on the non-core, non-trading side.

So, in the standalone kitty, so MTF book, we are expanding. So, this year we are targeting Rs. 300 crores. Next year, we are not targeting less than Rs. 550 odd crores. So, that number is huge. Once if we touch Rs. 500 crores and maybe above Rs. 500 crores numbers, so that will add lot of revenue, based on the clientele business to the standalone. It's not only MTF. In MTF, lot of broking business goes up. All these are delivering. uTrade Algos, they will start delivering.
So, if you believe, if you ask me next year, as sir has said, 35% from the subsidiary. In 65% also, I believe 35% to 40%-odd should be from the non-trading side. So, then if you see cumulatively trading should not be more than 35%, 40% odd in the total revenue in next years, this is our hard-core target. And we all are working, strategizing very hard to achieve this target. Abhinav, you carry on.
Abhinav Gupta: Yes, yes, I would just like to add on. I think, in terms of number, I would like to reiterate. In terms of revenue, the standalone constitutes around 80%. And in terms of profitability, it is around 78%. So, what Kamlesh sir, said about being 25% of the profitability coming from subsidiaries, the target is almost achieved and will be done by Fiscal Year ‘25 itself.
And as Sachin sir also explained, that was my point, that within the standalone entity, there are multiple divisions that are working. And we look at subsidiary, so standalone business in terms of business divisions, and cumulatively trading should not constitute more than 40% going three years from here. Yes.

Moderator: Thank you very much. Bharani, I will request you to come back for a follow-up question. Next question is from the line of Nikita Mehta from SRS Investments. Please go ahead.
Nikita Mehta: Thank you, sir, for the opportunity. So, my question i s, with the AUA at Rs. 172 crores, what strategies can be employed to stimulate further growth in AUA? And are there any particular products or customer segments that could be prioritized for maximum impact?

Abhinav Gupta: Yes. So, I will start with it, and then Kamlesh sir, and Sachin sir, can add on to it. So, that currently….
Sachin Gupta: Sorry, Abhinav, I missed some part of the question. Can you repeat for my sake, please?
Nikita Mehta: Yes, yes, I will repeat it. So, with the AUA at Rs. 172 crores, what strategies can be employed to stimulate further growth in AUA? And are there any particular products or customer segments that should be prioritized for maximum impact?
Abhinav Gupta: Sure. So, sir, I will start with it and then you can add on to it.
Sachin Gupta: Yes.
Abhinav Gupta: So, the Rs. 172 crores, currently the business that you see is mostly from the distribution business that comes into the standalone entity. As we said that we see great traction in this business, and what we want to see is, transform into a wealth management business.
And as you can see, this time, this quarter, the Board has already approved the creation of a subsidiary, which would be used for wealth management purposes. And as Sachin sir, gave in his opening remarks, we have great vision for this business, and we want to see that advisory business go forward.
In terms of product portfolio, we would be in a better position to discuss that forward, once the new subsidiary comes in, and we start launching those products. But having said that, we do believe that this entire wealth space and the entire asset management space should do really well. And we would continue to work both on creating or developing products like PMS and AIF, and distribution as well, which is currently into the standalone entity.
Sachin Gupta: So, we do not have an expert team who have hands-on experience on distributing all third-party products. So, as I said, the Board has approved the creation of the subsidiary. So, we are taking a top-down approach. We will look for a guy who can lead it, probably the CEO, then his team, forming his team, who will be having experience in distributing third-party products. So, then there's a whole goal that this number is nothing, minuscule number. So, we want to increase this number, third-party product number. Also, we will launch our own products.
As you guys know that our products definitely will not be so much easy to offer to the clients. So, we will offer third-party products along with our own products. So, once the wealth company will be there, they will be taking charge of distributing this wealth. And the number will be much, much higher, ma'am. So, three years, distribution business or wealth business, that new business will add lot of value to the parent company.

Nikita Mehta: And I have one more question. How can the 319 branches be promoting mutual funds boost sales? And what training, marketing, or outreach strategies could enhance mutual fund adoption at these locations?

Abhinav Gupta: Sure. So, I will start with this, sir, again, and then you can add on to it. So, ma'am, going forward, what we are doing, we are integrating our mutual fund platform with our retail IBT platform. As we have already, Kamlesh sir and Sachin sir have both explained that, the account openings are going good. And we are trying to integrate and do the cross-sales across our products. So, the first step in that process is the integration of the mutual fund into the same product and the same application, and the same web portal that you see for broking business.

Once that is available, all these branches that you are there, would be cross-selling each other's products. So, the mutual fund business would be able to cross-sell retail business directly. And the retail business branches would be able to cross-sell mutual fund directly. Of course, we are also working on creative incentive structure across our teams as well, different teams, so that they will have different KPIs. So, as to enable them and incentivize them for all the cross-selling opportunities.

And once the book is expanded to include insurance and other portfolio items as well, including the uTrade Algos as well, I think our sales team would be a cohesive unit, which will have multiple products on their shelves and can offer that to clients going forward.

Abhinav Gupta: Just to give you an idea, the mutual fund integration into the app should start from this quarter onwards, which is Q3 Fiscal Year '25.

Moderator: Thank you very much. Next question is from the line of Rohan Shah, individual investor. Please go ahead. Rohan, may I request you to unmute your line and go ahead with your question, please?

Rohan Shah: So, I had a couple of questions on our IB business. So, I just wanted to understand, like, how are we standing in the SME IPO market, like how has our client base been, and like how actively are we scouting on opportunities in that space?

Abhinav Gupta: Sure. So, just to give you an idea, last year our market share was 3% in terms of number of IPOs that came to the market and in terms of number of the amount of fund that was raised. This year we are expecting that we will maintain our 3% market share in terms of the number of issues, but in terms of the total fund raise, we should achieve a higher number of higher single-digit numbers, because we are focusing on larger ticket size IPOs.

A lot of tractions will start coming in Quarter 2, because as you know, for both the exchanges there is quite a bit of backlog. So, currently we have six DRHPs already filed, which we are expecting a quick turnaround-time going forward in the next two quarters for this year.

And as far as, you know, the marketing is concerned, we are in discussion with a lot of potential clients. Our focus continues to be on larger ticket size IPOs. We are currently focusing on IPO, both for SME and Mainboard only, and not on other IB activities, which might include right issue or something like that. But of course, our institutional team is doing really well, and all the QIB business that we can generate from these, and these IPO businesses that we have done are being passed on to the institutional clients going forward, and the institutional team is taking those QIB business as well.

Rohan Shah: Okay, on that front itself.

Sachin Gupta: I also want to add one point here as Abhinav said. So, Share India is having a unique advantage. I tell you, Share India is the only merchant banker in the whole industry, on SME space, who got listed on SME. So, we have experienced the problems of benefits of getting listed on SME, and we are also a merchant banker. We have helped 14 companies to get listed. And as Abhinav said, exchanges are taking far a lot of time in giving the approvals. So, already DRHP has been filed, and nine we are planning to file by end of November. So, it is like 15, and 3 already IPOs have been launched. So, 18 number.

So, the target is that we should be able to do all these IPOs finish before 31st March. That will add a lot of value to the company, and the unique advantage with Share India is, we have a very good insti desk. So, we have a very good rapport with the higher institutions and large HNIs. So, the merchant banking team plays as a company. We got listed. After two years, we carry very good relation with the company. The same company comes back to us for QIP, for further fundraising, maybe for block placement or whatever. So, that value addition is very rare, very few merchant bankers can give that kind of handholding and value-addition to the company. So, that's why we are able to get very good quality companies in our fold.

Kamlesh Vadilal Shah: Sachin, can I ad

Sachin Gupta: Yes, sure, sir.

Kamlesh Vadilal Shah: Yes. See, the unique advantage with Share India is its net worth. Now we will be standing in net worth in excess of Rs. 2,000 crores. There are very few merchant bankers, who have this kind of net worth, and the credibility. Credibility is the most important part for the Merchant Banking division. Here, whatever IPO we have brought in, are all trading at a premium, and investors are benefiting from that. So, our conservative approach, our in-depth analysis, and to be selective on the IPO, along with the high net worth, gives a lot of credibility to our IPO. Thank you.

Rohan Shah: Just to follow up on that, what kind of percentage fees do we make on every company that we take public?

Abhinav Gupta: Sorry, yes, so these deals are essentially customized in nature. The revenue number that you see for this quarter essentially is represented in numbers, and in terms of segmental data. We did a top line of around Rs. 13 crore for first half, and around Rs. 10 crores for this quarter. But this includes a lot of consultancy business and ancillary businesses as well. In terms of the percentage for the IPO, the disclosures for each and every IPO are done in the DRHP and the RHP of that company. But a lot of customization happens before we do interaction. So, it would be very difficult to pinpoint a number in terms of the percentage we make on each IPO.

Rohan Shah: Okay, fair enough. Also, just in this space, is there any specific sector we target for these SME companies? Because we see a few sectors like solar or renewables or engineering companies, they are in the limelight right now. There's a lot of demand for companies in this sector. So, are we targeting any particular sector or are we across the board?

Abhinav Gupta: We have been across the board. But yes, we do believe that going forward, a lot of green-led initiatives, which might include solar, renewables, and everything. So, if you see Gem or VVIP, one was in water treatment, the other one was in EPR. So, we do believe that sustainability would be a theme strategically going forward. But having said that, at Share India, we are sector agnostic, and we look at each and every company individually on its own merit.

Sachin Gupta: But I want to add one thing, Abhinav. Yes, we are all over, but we are very conservative, very careful, when it comes to the valuation. And you guys can back-check that the kind of valuation we have given to the companies is far lesser than the industry standards. So, we believe that our brand name and our culture should be there, our ethics of working should be there. So, because solar companies and renewable, some of the renewable companies, they expect extremely high valuations because of the demand in the investors. So, but we go very slow. We have our own way of working. So, we do not go above certain multiples when it comes to the valuation. So, we are very conservative, very careful, when it comes to the valuation.

Moderator: Thank you very much. Next question is from the line of Rohan Mehta, individual investor. Please go ahead.

Rohan Mehta: Sir, just building a little on the previous questions on the SME IPO part of our work, the investment banking. So, can we expect a sort of target in terms of percentage share in our revenue that we can expect from this line of business?

Abhinav Gupta: So, currently, yes. So, that business constitutes around 3% in terms of top-line shares. Going forward, you know, we do have targets for this business for our own level. But in terms of percentages, we do not measure it in terms of percentage, because all the businesses will have their own segment. But yes, given that the standalone business and the broking business is also growing alongside, we believe that it would be somewhere between mid to high-single-digit in terms of revenue sha re for Fiscal Year ‘25 and Fiscal Year ‘26.

Sachin Gupta: Sir, may I add something, sir? I will tell you one thing. So, this, how we take. We, like Abhinav is taking care of this particular division like. So, there are different vertical heads, like Abhinav is leading one, Kalpesh Bhai is leading one, Mr. Patel is leading one, Kunal. There are different vertical heads, who take care of this. So, everyone is acting as a business owner in their own vertical. Correct, So, they are more focused. Our strategy is to focus more on one project. Let the one guy focus, he should run his division as his own company, take ownership of that and focus on its growth.

So, overall, if you ask us, our way of thinking is growing individual vertical, like Rajesh sir is leading NBFC. His total focus is on NBFC, and our focus is on standalone company. So, once you put it together, then it comes to the number of percentages. But our way of thinking is growing every vertical as a separate set of business and with a different owner. This is how we are working. So, every vertical is a separate business entity for us.

So, actually we do not look at the percentage in the consol numbers. But eventually, when it comes to presentation, then things go like this. But we are very pushy for SME in next coming years, if not SME. Next year we are also looking to engage into some Mainboard IPOs, because we got good hands-on experience on some SME IPOs. So, we just want to expand this vertical as in its individual capacity.

Rohan Mehta: And speaking of the broking business, our institutional section of the broking has really grown well. So, congrats on that, sir. Is there any particular strategy that we are executing over there? What can be expected from that segment, sir?
Sachin Gupta: I can give you very, very smart strategy, which people generally do not know. And I should give all thanks to the guy, who is leading. So, you all know that getting empanelment to large mutual funds is very difficult these days. So, we just tried with this pain point.
Moderator: Sir, we lost your audio. Can you hear us?
Sachin Gupta: So, the pain point was they all launched equity in their own ETFs. So, they expect liquidity. They expect good quotes. So, we have an expert team who provide them the liquidity, who provide them the quotes in their ETFs. And in return, they give us very good flows and good business. So, this is how we are getting empanelment in a few companies. But overall, good research. We have an extremely good research team. We have more than eight people in our research, and we are trying to expand it to 15 people by, in the next six months.
So, very good research. Good research team is helping us. Helping them in their strategies is, again, one point, where we are getting the empanelment. And also, some foreign clients, where they trade heavily on the derivative side, and Share India has hands-on experience on the risk management and delivering the large derivative orders. So, putting all these things, expertise on derivative side, good research, good, helping them in their ETF products, all these things helping us in getting the empanelments and good clients' onboarding.
Rohan Mehta: Just one last question, sir. So, in terms of our mutual fund distribution, we have more than 300 branches already. So, is there any, if you could give some color on what we are looking at, in terms of our network of branches, or any partnership with any other institution to expand our geographical reach for mutual fund business?
Sachin Gupta: Abhinav, do you want to answer?
Abhinav Gupta: Yes, sir. So, I think, what you are saying is mutual fund branches essentially is a cumulation of all the franchisee and AP businesses, essentially, right? So, that is the business model that essentially works in an offline, independent financial instrument distribution. Going forward, as I said, we would be a lot more focused on our product, because currently we have different products for mutual funds and broking. These two products will be merged eventually, and the process has already started. We would be looking at a Pan-India basis, but as far as having any structural agreement with any third-party on a larger size, we look at it on a case-to-case basis. Currently, nothing is there on the table of the Board or on any Executive team for such kind of an arrangement with third-parties.

Rohan Mehta: Sir, our EBITDA margin has dipped slightly, so if you could shed some light on what can be expected in a ballpark range for the second half of this year?
Abhinav Gupta: Sir, should I answer that?
Sachin Gupta: Yes, yes, Abhinav, please carry on.
Abhinav Gupta: Yes. So, if you remember our past commentary as well, we have always maintained that the previous margins were at an all-time high, and we would be only able to maintain those margins, and we have been able to do that. Earlier, our margins were, in terms of PAT margin, we were at somewhere around 30%. Last quarter, the number dropped to 26%. This quarter, it has stabilized and has seen an upward traction of around 27%. While we were doing 26%, we listed out on the reasons, which included a lot of expenses for these ancillary businesses that we are talking about, including the Institutional business and including the Merchant Banking businesses, which are initially cost-heavy, when they are in the gestation period.
Sachin Gupta: Initial level.
Abhinav Gupta: Yes, in the initial period. And going forward, we believe that the similar PAT margins would be sustainable. So, in terms of guidance, we would be able to maintain the similar margins that we would expect going forward as well.

To guide us through the Results today , we have with us the Senior Management Team of Share India Securities Limited represented by Mr. Kamlesh Shah - Managing Director ; Mr. Sachin Gupta - CEO and Whole -Time Director ; Mr. Rajesh Gupta - Director and Mr. Abh inav Gupta – President , Capital Markets.
Before we begin, I would like to state that some of the statements made in today's discussion may be forward -looking in nature. The actual results may vary as they are dependent on several external factors.
We will commence the call with opening brief by Mr . Kamlesh Shah - Managing Director, followed by the business highlights from Mr. Sachin Gupta – CEO & Whole -Time D irector.
After this, we will open the forum for Q&A.
With that, I would now handover the call t o Mr. Shah to share his comments . Over to you , sir. Thank you.
Kamlesh Shah : Good evening , everyone. Quarter 3 Financial Year 2 025 was a difficult quarter for the Company and the industry , still we could perform in line with our peers. The rollout of the 1st Phase of measures to strengthen equity derivative framework, standardizing exchange charges, regardless of turnover, etc. , this had a sizeable impact on the turnover of the exchange . Also due to low liquidity , we witnessed unwarranted spikes in the indices which have affected our turnover. Any regulatory changes often lead s to temporary disruption and the volume correction as we have witnessed during Quarter 3 Financial Year 2 025, but we are optimistic that the s ame will be absorbed in the near future. We are monitoring all the possible impact of these changes on our business verticals and can assure you that our investment in product innovation technology mix with our expectation.
Coming to Quarter 3 Financial Ye ar 2025 Consolidated Performance :

During Quarter 3 , the Company has consolidated revenue of Rs. 342 crores compared to Rs. 453 crores showing a decline of 24 % on quarter -on-quarter basis , consolidated PAT of Rs. 82 crores showing a decline of 34% on quarter -on-quarter basis. The consolidated EPS comes out to Rs. 3.66 paise per share of Rs. 2 paid up .
Coming to Standalone Performance :
During Quarter 3, the Company has a standalone revenue of Rs. 259 crore s compared to Rs. 366 crore showing a decline of 29% on a quarter -on-quarter basis . Standalone profit after tax of Rs. 60 crores showing a decline of 39% on quarter -on-quarter basis. The earning s per share on a standalone basis w ork out to Rs. 2.67 paisa per share.
The Company is diversifying across the segment and the v ertical. Recently, we completed our investment in Metropolitan Stock Exchange of India at Rs. 2 per share. We are holding approximately 5% of the equity of the exchange. This is a strategic investment. We see lot of synergy in the operations and lot of business opportunity will o pen up. This investment will increase our market reach and paves the way for Share India to be on the forefront of this development in India d erivative market. The Board of Company has approved to venture into wealth management, and we have already applied for PMS registration, and we are in process of creating an AIF . Expanding in the wealth verticals , we w ill position the Company as a comprehensive financial service provider and b oost stakeholder 's credibility.

Merchant Banking is also doing great. I am happy to share with you that the Share India Capital Services, our wholly owned subsidiary has signed an M oU with CoE for Aspiring SMEs , to support SME by providing strategic guidan ce, aiding access to external equity and overcoming funding challenges via SME IPO listing . We have completed 16 SME IPOs covering almost 11 sectors .

Share India Fincap, our wholly owned subsidiary for NBFC operation has successfully completed its first Non-Convertible Debenture issue. As of the 9 -month Financial Year 2 025, we have loan book of Rs. 253 crore and net worth more than Rs. 120 crore. We are serving our clients with 75 branches. Our recently laun ched Institutional Desk and MTF are also doing extremely well. We are servicing approximately 115 Institutional client s and the M TF book f or 9-month ending December stands at Rs. 361 crore.

UTrade Algos, our dream project is steadily progressing towards al igning our vision of empowering retail with Algo trading. Also, Silverleaf will provide a great asset for HFT and attracting FPI, HNI etc.

To conclude, I would like to reiterate that the Company is fully committed to the vision of the Company and going ahead with focusing on retail expansion, Algo trading penetration, international operations and diversification. I thank you all for joining this call. Now , I hand over the call to Sachin ji for detail analysis of the performance. Thank you .

Sachin Gupta : Thank you very much , Kamlesh, sir, and good afternoon everyone and thanks for joining for our Q3 concall . Sir, you have explained everything in very detail . As we all know, this Quarter 3 was made soft challenges and the new initiatives by th e Company . The new additions that come up from the regulatory side has been implemented in December, so we can clearly see the volumes. It has impacted the volumes, the downside and industry is still trying to cope -up with the new regulations. And once investors and all the participants get adjusted to the new regulation , we believe that volume again will pick up and things will come to the n ormal side.

We can see what we observe and we analyze, we believe that we can see consolidation for one or two qu arters, but at Share India level , we are very positive that we will be bound very strongly after the brief consolidation. As in the Quarter 2 call, on the SEBI regulations , we already give the guidance that it will take “1” or 2 quarters , maybe to get adap tive to the new regulations once all the regulations are getting adapted . Then, volumes will go up and margins will be better, and things will again be normal. Still some regulations are in the pipeline which we see in month of Feb and maybe after two mont hs.

So, we can clearly see, as Kamlesh sir explained, t he focus in last “1” or 2 years , focus is continuously shifting from core pro duct to customer facing products . We can see the introduction of M TF. We can see the introduction of Institution al desk as we are already serving 115 institution s. We can see that we got the board approval for PMS license. We are planning to launch AI F. So, all these products are in line with the customer's demand and we are clearly focusing on the customer -side products .

We a lso got the Board approval for a wealth Company which is called Share India W ealth Multiplier. What we see that like retail is getting heavily directly into the equities and derivatives , in coming next few years , we can see the wealth divis ion can pick up very strongly and e specially , the new generation they are looking for the more incubated products rather than only focusing on is savings. This is one product which everyone is doing , but young ge neration between you can say 25 to 35 bracket they are looking for the more innovative products and slowly and gradually , distribution products will be much in demand and Share India is planning to launch the third -party distribution products through their Wealth Management Company in next financial ye ar.

Also, along with all the things, we are also focusing on strategic investments . MSEI, as are explained i s the strategic investment from our side. Here, MSEI has raised Rs. 240 odd crores and Share India is holding around 5% of the total MSEI Company . We believe that after SEBI new regulation, they spoke for one more exchange to get established and MSEI in coming years, we can see that they will launch their derivative product, and they will launch their equity segment. So, we can see that Share India will also get benefited by the growth of MSEI .

NBFC, I will just share some numbers. So, ADTO has dropped from Rs. 10,400 crores from Quarter 2 to Rs. 8,200 crores per day in Quarter 3 . We have added 29 new AP s and some branches from Quarter 2 to Quarter 3 . We have added active clients around 8 ,000-10,000 from Quarter 2 to Quarter 3 .

The Board has also given the approval for the dividend of Rs. 0.2, MTF book has gone up from Rs. 260 crores to Rs. 360 crores from Quarter 2 to Quarter 3 , NBFC loan book has gone up from Rs. 195 crores to Rs. 250 crores from Quarter 2 to Quarter 3 . So, these are the some , you know, bright points where we are seeing that some subsidi aries are doing really great and we believe that in the next “1” or “2” quarters , things will also stabilize from the regulatory point of view. And your Company will be strongly back on the growth trajectory , which earlier we were saying. That is from my side .

Moderator: Should we begin with the question -and-answer session, sir?

Sachin Gupta : Yes, ma'am. That is from my side. We should begin with the Q&A session.

Moderator: Thank you v ery much . We will now begin the question -and-answer session. Anyone who wishes to ask a question may press “” and “1” on their touchtone telephone. If you wish to remove yourself from the question queue, you may press “” and 2. Participants are requested to use handsets while asking a question. Ladies and gentlemen, we will wait for a moment while the question queue assembles. We will take our first question from the line of Ravi Shah, an Individual Investor. Please go ahead.

Ravi Shah : Yes. Good afternoon, sir. Am I audible?

Moderator : Yes, please go ahead.

Kamlesh Shah : Yes, please go ahead.

Ravi Shah : My question is related to the strategic investment. So, right now , the existing player both BS E and NS E are much more competitive. So, where do we see our investment and the growth trajectory for the Metropolitan Stock Exchang e? Can you put some colors on this?

Kamlesh Shah : Sachin ji, would you like to?

Sachin Gupta : I will start, sir and if you want to add anything then you can add later on.

Kamlesh Shah : Right.

Sachin Gupta : What I understood you are asking frankly, what is the growth trajectory that MSEI is seeing and what are their plans? So, I can only tell you that yes, there are some challenges on the tech side and overall because this exchange was primarily into currency before this, but they have their own index SX40 which they launched around a decade ago. Now, becaus e they have already got the SEBI note for the launch of the weekly contract , but yes, this is on the development of the cash segment also. So, they have alr eady tied up with some good vendor for the tech support which I cannot disclose right no w because it has to come from the Company . Once that is done, so I think they are planning to start their cash market in next quarter or may be in next 4 -5 months . Then, slowly and gradually , we can see that they will also introduce their derivative product for the F&O segment. So, what is happening because of the regulations that NSE and BSE can have only one expir y in a week of the benchmark index , so that gives a spac e for the another exchange. So, they, MSEI has already , you know , applied for the expiry of their contract on a certain day, which still is not out. So, we believe that if the y get the clearance from the SEBI, there will be challenges. But once they get th e clearance and this product, people will definitely love to trade on this product because the opportunities are not much which they were earlier. So, this will help in the development of the overall market. This will give traders one more product to trade . So, I believe that MSEI has a bright future and in coming years it will take some time, but in coming years we can see this exchange will also be , you know, very competitive with the current 2 exchanges. Kamlesh, you may add.

Ravi Shah : Just one more que stion. Do we see any competitiveness with respect to the cash market because in the cash market, both existing players are very much dominant ?

Sachin Gupta : Yes, there will be. Definitely , there will be some challenges because market is big, participants are increasing as we all see. Still India has scope of growth in the participation by the retailer, especially by the young generation . So, there is a scope of third exchange and exchange management , we believe they are having some good strategy to penetrate into retail and derivative both and they are working on the strategy . The strategy, what they are thinking, how they will go into the market that they can only disclose. But we are prett y much sure that there is a scope of another exchange. And I tell you one more thing about MSEI which is in public domain th at all the regional exchanges, all the companies who were listed on the regional exchanges like Calcutta Stock Exchange and Ja ipur S tock Exchange and so many regional exchanges, all those companies are now listed on MSEI , but they just have to kick start their equity segment and the companies , you can see lot of companies which are not listed on NS E BSE, you can see on MSEI , the companies, which were earlier listed on the regional ex changes. So, there are multiple ways by which an exchange can penetrate and create their own market in the cash market. The only point is do India have a scope of more growth of participation? The answer is yes. So, we believe MSEI , the people sitting on the top, they are very intelligent. They understand all the things and they are formulating their strategies in a well-planned manner, and they will roll out it as soon as the y solve all the initial hiccups of t ech and all. So, we believe we can see in Quarter 1 FY25-26 we can see the cash m arket should be out. Kamlesh sir, i f you want to add.

Kamlesh Shah : Yes, even SEBI believes that there is a scope for third exchange and accordingly, they have given certain approvals. Secondly, you know, on the valuation front also , valuation at which we have entered, we have made this investment looks attractive . Third thing is the retail base is increasing and there is always a product innovation when new exchange comes, so they will bring with their own set of products and that will give wider participation. And the number of , you know, people joining the platform by the way of investment as wel l as for trading purpose is sizeable and all of them have very good track record. So, we believe that gradually the volume will go up and exchange will perform better. Thank you.

Ravi Shah : That is great, but does Share India have an executive role, or we have just the passive investment right now?

Kamlesh Shah : Sachin.

Sachin Gupta : So, sir, we cannot inter fere in the functionin g of the exchange at all. So, as an particip ants, we can only ensure participation from our side while the products are out. We cannot interfere in that working of the exchange in an independent body regulated by the SEBI . Brokers, as a broker , we don't have any active role to play in the strategy part. We can only ensure , so the questi on is if we may not be the investor, so we might not be very keen to participate in the products when we launch them. But they have smartly engaged Share India, one of the prominent prop brokers in India, Zero dha and Groww who are the biggest retail broker s in India. So, they try to engage , they didn't try to engage with the financial people , they try to engage with the strategic partners who can pa rticipate , and the products will be out. So, who will generate the volume? Who will pus h their products into t he market? Only the people like Zerodha we can definitely trade , like we have full set of traders with us , so we all will help them and the product will be out . Before the product is out , we have no say and we are not part of any planning, sir .

Ravi Shah : Thank you very much , sir. All the best for the future. Thank you.

Moderator : Thank you. Ladies and gentlemen, to ask a question , please press “*” and “1” on your phone now. Next question is from the line of Ayushi, an Individual Investor. Please go ahead.

Ayushi : Hello, can I understand the reason for the.

Moderator : Ayushi, use the handset mode please. Your line is breaking.

Kamlesh Shah : Ma’am, your voice is echoing.

Moderator : Yes, Ayushi.

Ayushi : So, good evening, everyone. Sir, my question is the reason for the decreasing ADTO from Rs. 10,004 -Rs. 8,200 crores?

Sachin Gupta : So, I will start and Kamlesh sir and Abhinav can definitely give their inputs on it. So, ma'am, as Kaml esh sir explained since last mid-November , December SEBI new regulations have been imposed because of which we see that the we used to have expiry on daily basis. Now , we have only two expir ies in a week and that too o f only the benchmark index. So, that actually dented the volumes. And because of the low volumes , we are observing lot of sharp spikes in the index where we have expir ies in a week. So, both of these things are leading to the low participation and also, th e ma jor reason is increase in the ELM . ELM is the extreme risk margin on expiry day. So, that also has made tough for the clients and traders to take larger positions. So, as I said these things will be adapted over the period of time and we believe that in a quarter or two , we have already seen in last so many years SEBI always come with a new regulation. So, what used to happen that those regulations take their own time to , people ta ke their own time to get used to formulate their strategies . We also need to make some changes in the strategies . Now, the higher volume will not be the core strategy, m aybe the better margins and low volumes can be the new strategy , we are working on this, and I think it is a matter of Quarter 1 and Quarter 2. Also the increase in STT. That was also implemented from this Quarter 3 only. So, putting all these things together , so volumes have come down and we can see this trend in maybe for 1 and 2 quarters, but after that we are very hopeful that participation is there and still new account s opening , we are observing from Tier-2, Tier-3 cities there . So, going further , we will bounce that and we wi ll be able to match the earlier numbers. But as of n ow, we need to consolidate , we need to analyze and then slowly increase back to the normal . Kamlesh sir, please if you want to add something.

Kamlesh Shah : No, I think you explained properly.
Abhinav Gupta : I also would like to add. Hi, this is Abhinav . I would just like to add a couple of points in addition to what Sachin sir has already said that whatever drop in ADTO that we have seen is in line with industry standard . For all the reasons that Sachin sir has already explained, o ur market share has remain ed more or less stable in comparison to on a quarter -on-quarter basis and the drop is in line with the overall industry. Having said that, we believe we will outperform the industry as a whole because we are working on a lot of new product of which MSEI is one asset , as sir has already explained and going forward , the products that are already growing in India including BSE Sensex and other commodity related product, we would be rightly position ed to capture a bigger market share in all those products. So, our ADTO growth would be faster than industry and hopefully as the market recovers from all the regulatory turbulenc e that has been created in two quarters , we would be rightly positioned to capture a bigger piece of the market share.
Sachin Gupta : Kamlesh sir, you were saying something?
Kamlesh Shah : No, I think it has been explained proper ly. Nothing more to add.
Moderator : Ayushi, do es that answer your question?
Ayushi : Thank you so much.
Moderator : Thank you. We wi ll take our next question from the line of Rahul, an Individual Investor. Please go ahead.
Rahul : Hi, good afternoon, everyone. S ir, my question relate d to the MT F. MTF book has increased over the last quarter or two. What could be the contribution factor?

Kamlesh Shah : Abhinav, you want to answer?
Abhinav Gupta : Sorry, could you please repeat the question , I was not able to hear please.
Rahul : It is related to the MTF book. It has been increasing over the last quarter or two. What would be the contribution factor ?
Abhinav Gupta : See, essentially, it is related to two things. Multi -legged strategies so as the management of both Sachin sir and Kamlesh sir has already been explained , we have been continuously focusing on our retail -oriented products which includes an opening new branches and catering to that kind of segment which requi res retail oriented product. So, a major reason is that we have been able to grow our MTF book because we have been targeting those clie nts specifically who engage in retail trading. Also, what has happened in the last quarter, we have been able to activat e a lot of customers and add a lot of new clientele for uTrade Algos as a product and once you engage with a customer, you need to offer a 360 -degree bouquet of services to them o f which MTF is one. So, going forward , we are very aggressive on our MT F book in our target subject to market conditions and we really believe that going forward in a long -term scenario , MTF as a revenue source would be a great line item in the Share India 's income statement.
Rahul : Thank you, sir.
Moderator : Thank you. Ladies and gentlemen, to ask a question, please press “*” and “1” on your phone. Next question is from the line of Akash Sharma, an Individual I nvestor. Please go ahead.
Akash Sharma : Yes. Hi, sir. S ir, I have a few questions. T he first one is that we have recently started portfolio management services, right post SEBI approval, so how do we env ision it contributing to compan y's overall growth and revenue streams once operation al?
Sachin Gupta : So, I just want to clarify that we said we got the board approval to apply for the P MS license. So, we have applied to SEBI for the license, and we believe that the next 2 months or 3 mo

we will get th e SEBI clearance. And once we get the SEBI clearance, we are in talks with some fund managers who are very well established and have experience of not less than a decade. So, once we will get the license, we will finalize the final strategy, and we will r oll out the payment which is in Quarter 1 or next financial year.
Akash Sharma: So, we are yet to hire a portfolio manager, right?
Sachin Gupta : Yes, we are in talks .
Abhinav Gupta : And to answer your strategy, as we have already mentioned that as even in the opening remarks that we want to focus on wealth management and third -party distribution product which also includes our internal in -house product. PM S is just the starting point of the entire strategy , though individually PMS might not be able to contribute a very big of deal , but it is a starting step in whatever the AMC and wealth management distribution activities that we want to do going forward as in Company at a s trategic level.

Sachin Gupta : We can see the c lear shift in the planning and thinking process of the Company that companies continuously bringing many products which are retail focus ed starting from the uTrade Algos, then MTF, then Institutional desk, PMS and wealth distribution, third party products distribution, all these things. So, we are continu ously trying to introduce new products and we are actually executing it very well and slowly and gradually if we look at the broader side in next few years , we can see all these different verticals w ill start giving us very good revenues and give us more stability and Share India w ill be far more safer Company than the other competitors.
Akash Sharma : And sir, do we have capital commitments yet or we are still i n the process ?
Sachin Gupta : Capital commitment for what?
Abhinav Gupta : We are still in the process of starting, as we said, we have only got the board approval, but the capital commitment for PMS is in the process, right now.
Akash Sharma : And lastly, sir, any details on the 18 months right issue you conducted last year?
Abhinav Gu pta: Sorry.
Akash Sharma : A few more details on the right issue that we conducted last year like how the funds are being utilized and?
Abhinav Gupta : All these right issue was done in May 2023, all the funds was supposed to come by September 24 and you can see in September 24 all the warrant s that were to be exercised were exercised.
And the entire money has flown into the balance sheet in September itself , so no upda te on that chapter in this quarter .
Kamlesh Shah : Here, I would like to add, because of the right issue and timely decision to strengthen the capital base has helped us a lot in planning our various new initiatives and this will come as a great strength for the Company . As of December, we have net worth on consolidated basis around Rs.
2,300 crore and by the end of the year possibly will be crossing Rs. 2,500 crore s of net worth.
So, that is a good sign which will help us to take new initiative as well as , you know, it wil l expand our product portfolio and the retail expansion plus all the new things that have been discussed like wealth management and other things. So, this will help us a lot in future . The right issue is highly successful and almost fully it was subscribed by the investors . Thank you.
Akash Sharma : Thank you, sir. That is it from my side.
Moderator : Thank you. We will take our next question from the line of Aditya Bhatia from Electrum Capital.
Please go ahead.

Aditya Bhatia : Hi, Am I audible ?
Moderator : Yes, go ahead.
Aditya Bhatia : Just a question, we have been talking about wealth management for last few quarters. What exactly would, w hat is our go -to-market strategy? What is the process so fa r? If we could get some more details on what that is going to look like and what it looks like right now in terms of our book , etc?

Sachin Gupta : So, I will s tart and Abhinav and Kamlesh sir can add . So, it can be one thing. So, last quarter as we explained that wealth is one product for that I think it should be in the kitty of Share India and as India is growing wealth demand is going up. Earlier Mutual Fund as if it was basic product that people used to looked up to and now people are asking for PMS , AIF and many innovative products. And now wealth dema nd is coming from , wealth used to be the Ultra HNI product , not it is going to bit higher retail and some HNIs . So, we believe in the next 5 years wealth distribution is going to be the very good division for us and for the ent ire market also as market is growing. So, here we are p lanning to take a top-down approach. We are discussing with some good people who have experience of at least two decades in the wealth division and again, as I said things take its own time or negotiat ions takes its own time. So, we believe that will roll out or will finalize all these things and we roll out the wealth Company or wealth products b y quarter 1, later part of Quarter 1 or maybe Quarter 2 of next financial year. So, wealth is a product which has its own gestation period. So, maybe “1” or 2 years will take off slowly , we will take some time to push it really hard. But the team is very important . The core part here is the team because their knowledge will help us get the new funds and everything. So, we are scrutinizing the right people and again as I said, in PMS, we are in touch with good fund managers, same in wealth , we are discussing with 2 -3 bright people and we hope we will close them by the end of this financial y ear and they will be with us maybe Quarter 1 later, part of Quarter 2 of next financial year. Then only , we can comment on the size. Operations have not yet started, so this is the status of wealth . Kamlesh sir and Abhinav, you can add.

Kamlesh Shah : See, the idea is to remain relevant. So, whatever exercise we do, we try to be relevant. You know, that is targeting sizeable market share. And here again, you know, we have a lot of strength. We have the best people in our independent Board of Directors , and you know, we are evaluating all the options that are available and ultimately based on the input of all the directors and the board, we will be able to structure it properly so that whatever we do will generate lot of confidence among the stakeholders and the investors. Thank you.

Abhinav Gupta : Also, you know, just to give a little bit of flavor to what Sachin sir and Kamlesh sir has said that we internally bifurcated weal th management into two segments, one was HNI and Ultra HNI and there was Affluent and Emerging Affluent. We believe that as the H NI and Ultra HNI segment in wealth will grow, it will become a more high -touch point business while the effluent and emerging effluent would be a more digital oriented in nature. So, right now , our focus is to on the first part of it, which is the Ultra HNI, HNI segment because we believe that they would require a lot of specialized p roducts and a lot of customized services that would be required by brokers like us to offer them . Having said that, yes, as Sachin sir said that once the team is in place and the operations are kick started, only then we would be able to provide you a lot more clarity on that sort of numbers in terms of revenue and the P&L that it would bring it to our equati on. But we have been very consistently maintaining our stands that we have to grow our retail business in parity . Wealth management is one part of it , the entire equation . What we believe is that going forward we want to be more client centric and do busin e sses which are more client centric in nature.

Aditya Bhatia : All right, so this is still ahead and with the focus on H NI, I am guessing w e will be doing a lot of RM additions, i s that right?

Kamlesh Shah : Yes.

Aditya Bhatia : Okay, a nd coming to the PMS and AI F side of the business , assuming , we get the licenses etc ,, what would the employee cost structure look like going forward , let us say , one year from now on compared to where we are today ?

Abhinav Gupta : So, honestly speaking, you know , in my current structure it would not be very much of an expense if you see on quarter -on-quarter basis, I do around Rs. 100 crores of employ ee expense approximately give or take something. In the beginning part of it, as Sachin sir has already explained that both these products will have their own gestation period. So, we don't see too much of initial employees cost just jumping onto the balance sheet into that scope. But yes , we would be able to provide you a clarity as and when the teams are hired and a lot more things are announced in the public domain in terms of numbers, but on a base of around Rs. 100 crores of employee expense on every quarter, I don't see this number j umping very significantly in a short -term basis.

Aditya Bhatia : Okay, That answers my questions. Thank you so much.

Moderator : Thank you. We wi ll take our next question from the line of S ana, an Individual Investor. Please go ahead.

Sana : Hello. Good afternoon ma'am and thank you for the opportunity.

Sachin Gupta : Good afternoon.

Sana : Can you please s hare insights on specific strategies you are implementing to enhance technology with the retail sector and also what are the future plans for acquiring and retaining retail customers?

Sachin Gupta : I think Abhinav can answer the question, but I will just give you some insight and Abhinav will start. So, ma'am, as we said that we are not planning to go on the discount booking si de, so rest we ar e focusing trying to give the retailers , give our clients the full bouqu et of products starting from MTF, from PMS , wealth products, Mutual funds and corporate , everything . We just want our investors or clients, to be more financially aware they should hav e the bouquet of different products, insurance and everything from one Company . So, this is what we are trying to do. So, we believe next 2-3 years, MTF will be the one product which is the most retail favorable product and along with that investment products like PMS and third -party wealth products will also add on to the customer acquisition policy. So, the idea is in next 3 years , we should be focusing totally on the customer acquisition part by offering them the new bouquet of products. So, this is how we are planning to go ahead and in our vertical , in our segment of financial world , there we can offer multiple services to one client, like if we are dealing with some Company in merchant banking space, we can offer them the insurance also , we can offer them the investmen t products a lso, so cross selling opportunities are lot. So, if you look at the bird's eye view, so if we able to create all this product s and with all the products we are discussing, so we able to give a lot of cross produ cts to one customer and that will add lot of value to the Company , then the cost of selling those products will be down and it will add value to the customer side. This is from my side and Abhinav can also answer the tech part. That is what technology we a re planning to use for the retail piece.

Abhinav Gupta : Sure. So, I would like to answer it from both from a tech and strategy perspective. So, from a tech perspective, as you say that we have been constantly working on it and we believe that technolog y is the main ingredient in the entire retail centric nature that we were plann ing for last

3 years for Share India and healthy acquisition of uTrade and A lgowire that happened. So, most of our tech pieces that we have currently build are by the virtue of our acquisition of u Trade and Algowire and now with Silver leaf coming into the play as well, we would have some addition of tech talent over there as well. So, the critical advantage that I want to highlight is that the most of our tech pieces tha t we have built are not vendor dependent, are completely i n-house in nature, which gives us not only flexibility in terms of customization, but reduces our time to market and go to market very significantly , that's number 1. And in terms of retaining client , as Sachin sir said that we see this business in two ways. One, w e are very clear that it would be a mix of brick and mortar strategy where we would have high -touch businesses and we would offer clients a 360 degree sort of services where they are not onl y broking with us , but are doing multiple party products with us . In this strategy , uTrade Algo would also help us in terms of customer acquisition, but it is sort because it is a sort of unique product that is available with us, which sort of becomes a hero product and sort of helps us acquire the customer and once customer is there, we can then cater to a lot more services that we offer as a group. Also , we see this business in terms of what we offer via the strength of the balance sheet and v ia the strength of the services. MTF is a product that we believe that we can really get about the strength of a balance sheet because it requires funding from our side. And once you know this business gro ws, we can look at outsourcing this business to third-party NBFC and sort of becoming a distribution partner for them. And also all the third -party products will add on to the Fee & Commission business of the entire ecosystem.
Sana : Okay, a nd sir, one more question I have. Is there, like other specific mic roeconomic or regulatory factors you are monitoring that could affect your business performance?
Sachin Gupta : Kamlesh sir , can you comment on it?

Kamlesh Shah : Sorry.
Sachin Gupta : Can you please comment on it?
Kamlesh Shah : What was the question exactly? Hello .
Kamlesh Shah: Can you repeat the question, please.
Moderator : Sana, can you repeat the question, please.
Sana : Ya, s o, my question is like, are there any specific macroeconomic or regulatory factors you ar e monitoring that could affect your business performance?
Kamlesh Shah : See, we have witnessed a lot of regulatory changes in last quarter, and some more are likely to be implemented from 1st of April. Now, otherwise things are looking stable. Once the imp act of regulatory measures are known, then we can module our business accordingly a nd ultimately what is good for the industry is good for all the stakeholders. So, whatever mea sures so far has been taken by SEBI seems to have benefited the investors and t he investor base has grown . And we will definitely get benefited with the confidence that the investors are having in the market . Currently , you know, in the last one year, the FIIs has sold close to Rs. 4 lakh crores of equities whereas the equal amount has been pumped in by the retail investor basically. So, this has made our market more stable. The base is expanding, and the fabric of the market also is improving. Many new young people are participating in to the market and overall , we see that wi th the government initiative and the budget, which is likely to come day after tomorrow, so that all will give b oost to the capital market. And we are fully prepared to take new challenges, and we are best placed to see that we convert them into the opport unities. Thank you.
Sana : That is it from my side. Thank you and all the best.
Moderato

r : Thank you. We will take our next question from the line of Prashant Gal phade from IS J Securities. Please go ahead.
Prashant Galphade : Hello. Thank you for the opportunity, sir.

Moderator : Prashant, use your handset mo de, please. Your v oice is not very clear.
Prashant Galphade : Hello.
Moderator : Yes, Prashant.
Prashant Galphade : Thank you for the opportunity . Sorry , if this question has already been addresse d. I just joined the call l ate. I have only one question. I just wanted to understand the reason behind the decline in our broking and trading business .

Kamlesh Shah : This is more or less in line with the fall in the market turnover and some of the international factors that is , you know, destabilize the market in the last quarter . That was challenging for all the intermediaries, and we have no exception. The measures taken by the regulator has played out as well as the STT has been increased, so all of this had severe impact on the performance of all the broking industry and steadily , I think in next quarter or two , things will get stabilized and thereafter, we wil l be coming out with new strategies in line with the market requirements. See, we keep on improving upon our strategies based on the market conditions and volume and volatility. So, these are the main factors for us. And with the kind of automation that we have, we have 3 technology companies in our wealth as a subsidiary. So, we are far ahe ad in the terms of technology and digitization, and we believe that the future belongs to the technology where we have invested quite a lot amount of money and that will pay us rich dividend that will also see that we outperform our peers. Thank you.
Prash at Galphade : Thank you, sir .
Moderator : Thank you. Ladies and gentlemen, that was the last question for today. I now hand the conference over to Mr. Kamlesh Shah for closing comments . Over to you.
Kamlesh Shah : Thank you, ma'am. I would like to thank all the participant s for spendi ng their time, especially during the market hours and also asking some very good questions, which will give us food for the thought, and this will help us to further strengthen our belief in the market as well as to create right atmosphere and right strategies to tackle the market. So, I would like to once again thank all the participants for their valuable contribution , their trust on the Company and their support for the Company . Thank you very much.

These statements are not a guarantee of future performance and involve risks and uncertainties that are difficult to predict. We will commence the call with the opening brief by Mr. Kamlesh Shah, Managing Director; followed by the business highlights from Mr. Sachin Gupta, CEO and Whole-Time Director. After this, we will open the forum for Q&A.
With that, I will now hand over the call to Mr. Shah to share his comments. Over to you, sir.
Thank you.
Kamlesh Shah: Yes. Good evening. Good evening, everyone. We appreciate you joining us for the investor call covering our performance for quarter 4 and financial year 2024-2025. The past year presented both our company and the broader industry with unique set of headwinds, including geopolitical uncertainties, significant selling pressure from the FPIs, regulatory measures aimed at moderating derivative market volumes and correction in the value of investments.
Consequently, our company's performance has been below our usual standard. A trend echoed by many of our peers, who have also reported losses or considerable drop in the revenue and profitability.
Looking ahead however, the macroeconomic indicators for India appear promising. I can probably say that India has become the fourth largest economy in the world, surpassing Japan.
We are observing positive GDP growth encouraging inflation figures, interest rate reductions by RBI, increase in the liquidity within the system and supportive measures from government in budget. Furthermore, appointment of new SEBI chairperson with forward-looking perspective suggest a potential uplift for industry's overall performance.
The recent effective handling of border situation with our neighbouring country should further bluster national sentiment and economic capabilities. With this, overview of the macroeconomic and geopolitical landscape, I would now like to present our financial result for the financial year 2024 -2025.

First, we shall address stand-alone quarter 4 financial year 2024-2025. Total revenue from operations was INR188 crores, a decrease of 28% on quarter-on-quarter basis, profit before tax and profit after tax were INR17 crores and INR16 crores, respectively, representing 79% decline in PBT and 73% decline in profit after tax quarter-on-quarter basis.
Earnings per share for the quarter stood at INR0.63 on the face value of INR2 per share. Coming to stand-alone full year financial year '24, '25, the total revenue from the operations amounted to INR1,138 crores showing a modest increase of about 1.68% year-on-year basis. PBT and PAT were INR320 crores and INR247 crores respectively, indicating a decline of approximately 19%

PBT, an 18% decline in the PAT year-on-year basis. Earnings for the full fiscal year was INR11.73 on face value of INR2 per share. The net worth for the year on stand-alone basis, works out to INR1,960 crores.
Coming to the consolidated quarter 4 financial year '24, '25. The total revenue from the operation was INR239 crores, a 30% decrease compared to the previous quarter. Profit before tax and profit after tax reached INR23 crores and INR19 crores, respectively, reflecting an approximately 79% decline in profit before tax and 77% decline in profit after tax quarter-on-quarter basis. The earnings per share on consolidated basis was INR0.71 on the face value of INR2 per share.
Coming to the consolidated full financial year 2024, '25, total revenue from the operation was INR1,449 crores, showing a year-on-year decline of 2.5%. Profit before tax and profit after tax were INR431 crores and INR328 crores, respectively, representing approximately 23% decrease in both on year-on-year basis. The earnings per share for the full fiscal year was INR15.58 on INR2 paid up equity shares.
Consolidated net worth for the year has jumped to INR2,300 crores-plus. While reporting -- while reported figure may appear challenging, I want to assure you that during this period of global geopolitical instability, our company has proactively utilized this time to strengthen our core business area, identifying promising new ventures, expand our collaborative partnership and explore untapped market.
Furthermore, the anticipated decrease in the revenue and profitability over past 2 quarters was something management had foreseen, and we have implemented appropriate strategies to ensure a strong rebound as the business environment improves.
Our focus remains on creating sustainable business model. And to that end, we have made strategic acquisitions in past and continue to identify synergy-based opportunities. Key milestone achieved during the year include strategic investment in Metropolitan Stock Exchange, obtaining PMS license and merger of Silver Leaf securities, a subsidiary aimed at leveraging our HFT capability and expanding our proprietary trading into the international market.

To conclude, I would like to highlight supportive developments within the industry that are likely to play a positive influence in the future performance. This includes removal of intraday trading limit and significant increase in the limit based on the delta factor, which are expected to stimulate higher trading volume and drive growth within the industry.
This was a very significant step to see that we maintain our volume and liquidity, the recent clarification regarding investment opportunities, which will enable investment in group companies and other businesses. So with the kind of net worth that we have of exceeding INR2,300 crores, we will be able to invest the surplus fund into the group companies and other businesses, potentially enhancing our overall return on investment. And yesterday, there was one more circular from SEBI that has clarified we will have 2 weekly expiry for multi exchanges, that is one expiry per exchange for weekly contracts.
With this, I would like to thank you for your support and cooperation. Over to you -- I would like to hand over the proceeding to Mr. Sachin Gupta, who would highlight the business opportunities and throw more light on the performance of the company. Thank you.
Sachin Gupta: Thank you very much, Kamlesh sir, for the detailed presentation of the results of financial year '24, '25. Good evening, everyone. Here, I'm Sachin Gupta. So as Kamlesh sir has explained the challenges in the last financial year because of some rigorous regulatory changes at extreme market volatility in quarter 4. So last year was a bit challenging. And I personally believe where I am into the day-to-day operations of the company, I believe the worst is behind us now. And we will see that things have started improving from here on.

As Kamlesh sir had explained, this particular shock was a little bit expected as we were in constant touch with the regulator and the exchanges that the kind of measures they were bringing in, they will take some time to get stabilized, but it will take some time to formulate your business strategy around those new changes. So as I said, things should start -- things -- we are already feeling that things are better now, and worst is over.
But the next 2 to 3 quarters, we'll see that we will be able to achieve the same numbers that we were doing in first half of the last financial year. So still, we are in phase of where market is adopting all the changes and sir explained after the appointment of new SEBI chief, so he is a bit positive towards the market. His goal is to regulate and also grow the volumes, grow the market overall.
So as far as focus is concerned. I will just share some numbers. In retail clients, we have seen a jump of 30% on year-on-year basis. Last year, we were having 35,380 clients. And this year, we are having more than 46,252 clients. So, the client base has increased by 30%. Institutional clients last year, we closed at 52 impairments.

This year, if the desk has done 137 impairments, this is a jump of 250%. MTF is one business where we are very bullish in the coming future. Our book has increased by more than 330%. It was at INR72 crores at the end of financial year 2024, this year we've closed the book at INR239 crores.

As far as NBFC is concerned, we have increased branches from 61 to 80 branches now. Client base has a bit reduced from 69,000 to 52,000 because even in NBFC, we have seen a trouble in 3 quarters for the -- especially for the personal loans in the villages and the side. Book size is broadly same because INR260 crores and INR260 crores.
The reason is we have shifted our focus on -- more on secured SME loans rather than only doing unsecured personal loans. So, book size, we have maintained, and we believe the trouble period in NBFC is also gone. And this financial year, we'll see NBFC stabilizing and giving much better returns and book is also covered now like it's not 100% unsecured. It is a secured book also.
BSE options, we have seen a major growth like last year, our market share was 3.5%. This year, our market share is 5.8% in BSE options, and we have seen that BSE is one thing which has given us a good edge to the overall business. And as I explained, PMS is another product we have just added.
And Share India is also enhancing the visibility by opening the branches in the prominent locations at the different cities like we have recently opened a branch in Connaught Place in Delhi. It's a pure-play retail branch, and we opened a branch in the main land of Kolkata, Ahmedabad. So these are the 3 branches we have recently opened in last 6 months. And so the focus in the financial area is mainly, as earlier, also we were focusing on retail and wealth.
So with this period where prop trading is going through some trouble period, we are trying to develop the ancillary business in different verticals. Retail and wealth is one thing we are very bullish on. And for retail, what we are doing, we are developing product based on AI where, you will see AI is recommending the stocks, AI will be doing the technical charts. You can choose your stock through AI. So AI will play a major part in our product which we'll roll out in end of third quarter.
That -- uTrade is developing their product for us. That product will be one of the unique products in the industry. Our focus is -- and we are also in pro cess of hiring senior resources from the industry to develop the retail piece for the Share India. MTF is one thing where we are focusing like I said, we closed around INR240 crores. Next 3 years, our MTF book will not be less than INR1,000 crores.

So we are planning everything accordingly. So once that we crossed at INR1,000 crores number, clients will go up, revenue will go up. And MTF helps you not only in cash market volumes, it also gives you a runoff effect in the derivatives and other products -- other wealth products also.
So PMS will roll out -- we got the license, we'll roll out in July and very ambitious plan. And next 3 years, PMS will also start showing positive growth. And as far as retail numbers are concerned, as I said, MTF target is INR1,000 crores in 3 years. Retail clients so number, we are targeting 2 lakh to 2.5 lakh clients in next 3 years.
The reason is it's not only off-line, so SEBI has allowed retail for Algo, which from first of August, retail can also carpet in Algo. We want to make this Algo thing for Share India, like think Algo, think Share India. This will be a tagline, and we are going to go very hard for Algo trading for the retail.

We want to capture this opportunity to penetrate into retail business using our algo strength and technology provided by the uTrade. So wealth and retail is one thing we are going to focus very hard, PMS and wealth site. And once the PMS gets stabilized, we'll also go for AIF. And on the retail side, our focus is on MTF and Algo for retail thing, where uTrade will provide us the product, and our target is not less than 2 lakh to 2.5 lakh customers in the next 3 years.
So, Silverleaf, again, is very important acquisition. So last year, it took some time, but we hope this year, that acquisition will be completed. Silverleaf is 1 HFT firm, which is doing really great. And once the acquisition is completed, their number will also be added in Share India book, and this is a diversified prop trading.
It's not the traditional prop trading that Share India is doing. So that will give us more stability.

And it will help us in overcoming the challenges we are facing from the regulatory side. So combining everything, we are very bullish on our business in coming 2 to 3 years.
Yes, our business is highly regulated, so challenges are always there. But as we see the basket, if we go into -- if we see the retail side, wealth side, not PMS, addition of institution, AIF, MTF, prop desk and addition of Silverleaf, this makes our company well diversified and sustainable.
So we believe we are very bullish for next few years. And I think worst is behind us now.
So Share India is ready to take to the current challenges and numbers will definitely improve and things will be much clearer. And next 2 to 3 quarters, we hope that we'll be able to catch the last year numbers very soon. And we are working very hard for all the investors and entire companies, very motivated and bullish on the current business. Thank you very much, sir.
Moderator: Thank you very much. The first question is from the line of Akshay Sharma from Golden Myriad. Please go ahead.
Akshay Sharma: Sir, my question is -- I have 2 questions. Firstly, sir, basically, if you can give us the breakup of revenue, trading revenue and I mean, in terms of -- from broking and from prop book? And secondly, if we have any unrealized loss ending in the books, what will be that amount?
Kamlesh Shah: Abhinav, do you want to answer the first part of the question?
Abhinav Gupta: Yes, sure. Please, sir. So in order to answer your first part of question, the percentage in terms of revenue drop this year as everyone has explained that due to regulatory reasons, there has been a drop. So in terms of revenue, it is around 62%, and rest business is from broking and NBFC, all combined. And in terms of profitability prop, this year would have been somewhere around 47% and rest coming from all the other businesses combined.

As far as the unrealized business is concerned, I think all the accounting measures account for that all the unrealized gain has been taken care in this P&L. But I'll let Sachin sir, and Kamlesh sir comment further on that.
Sachin Gupta: Yes. We maintain conservative approaches. And we know auditors also MSK. So we maintain accounting discipline. And as of today, there are no unrealized losses that have not been accounted.

Kamlesh Shah: No, I think he's asking for the fair-value losses in the books, correct?
Akshay Sharma: Yes, yes.
Kamlesh Shah: So fair value numbers, it is because of the investments in our book and because last quarter, the stock prices have gone down, so we have to book some fair value loss. That number is around INR42 crores. Unless that quarter was not that bad, so fair value loss was around INR42 crores in the fourth quarter.
Abhinav Gupta: Yes. But to answer your question, there's no further loss that has been needed to be accounted. As far as 31st of March, all the accounting has been done completely.
Akshay Sharma: Okay. Okay. Sir, if you can help me what is the size of your prop book like you use INR300 crores and you scale it to maybe INR1,000 crores. So how exactly does it happen?
Sachin Gupta: So what is your question exactly? Like what kind of margins we use for the prop trading or investments you're asking, what exactly you're asking?
Kamlesh Shah: I think he is asking for MTF book.
Sachin Gupta: You're asking for MTF book?
Akshay Sharma: No. So, sir, basically, I think 6% of our revenue comes from this prop book profits plus brokerage, which we have generated from the prop book, right?
Kamlesh Shah: No, there is no brokerage in the prop book.
Akshay Sharma: Okay. So these are nothing, but the profit from the prop book which we see as revenues? Correct?
Sachin Gupta: Correct. You're right.
Akshay Sharma: Right. So sir, technically, if I see, 50% of the business is that and the 50%, no. So in the last conference calls, which I have attended, so we had this -- we generate around 15% to 18% to 20% plus returns in this prop book. And the last 2 quarters, if I see this doesn't look as consistent as -- so I just wanted to understand whether are these hedged or arbitrage strategies or these are leveraged ones? How does it work?
Sachin Gupta: So, Abhinav, do you want to answer?
Abhinav Gupta: I'll start and then you can add on. So you're absolutely right. The prop book constitute of 2 components, as Sachin sir has explained. Number one is of the hedge strategies that we trade and the second one of the investment book that we have in our company.
So because of the market having a negative sentiment in the last quarter on our investment book that we had of all the equities in other companies that we hold, we had to book a fair value loss of INR42 crores. And that's why that number appears to be skewed. From a return perspective on our proprietary trading business, as mentioned earlier, we continue to maintain completely hedged strategies.

The result on those strategies has seen a slight drop because of the regulatory reasons, as sir has explained and the number of expiries dropping from 4 to 2, but as said earlier in this call, we expect that number to stabilize going forward.
Sachin Gupta: And secondly, volatility in the returns was basically because of the regulatory changes, which came in November 1. And as I explained in my earning commentary that industry is stabilizing around those changes and now things have started becoming much better.
And as Kamlesh sir also told that new SEBI chief seems to be quite positive towards the development of the overall market. So we believe that with the current regime if we don't see any aggressive changes from the regulatory side. So things will start going up and the returns will start stabilizing, and we'll see the better returns from the quarter 4.

Akshay Sharma: Got it. Just last question, sir, hedge strategy portfolio. There is no cash segment. So everything is F&I options, right?
Kamlesh Shah: No, we do cash future Algo also.
Akshay Sharma: So in this cash for the future. So I think future has been expired, so we'll have to sell. So we don't have any continued cash position still, right?
Sachin Gupta: No, no, no, no. That is on a regular basis. So if we square off the future, we also square off the cash position. We don't keep positions naked.
Abhinav Gupta: We don't think position matter.
Sachin Gupta: We don't keep naked positions. They are all completely hedged. So we are not exposed to the market movement. The fair value loss is because of the investments in the book, proprietary book. That is not because of the unhedged strategies.
Moderator: The next question is from the line of Rohan Shah who is an individual investor. Please go ahead.
Rohan Shah: Sir, I have a question with regard to the options trading business. Given the -- like the weekly expiries, which used to happen when a lot of expiries across the exchanges, we see a big cut in them, and they formed a substantial part of the options turnover. So I would just like to understand how has that shaped up for us?
Sachin Gupta: So SEBI has made the changes from 5 expiries to 2 expiries and restricted it between the 2 exchanges. So that is the primary reason that volumes have gone down. And now see participants, so it depends on the variety of participants, like retailer, hedger, speculate, everyone. So everyone's volume went down, but now volumes have started picking up. So we can see that BSE particularly is showing a good take-off of the volumes since November.
So BSE is one thing. And again, Nifty. Nifty volumes compared to the number have gone up.
So both NSE and BSE are showing good signs of recovery in the volumes. So it may take 2 to 3 quarters to cover up that kind of volumes which we're seeing earlier. But the first part of the -
- that the business is going down that is over now. And more partitions are coming in. Retailers are coming in. The people who were trading on a daily basis because of the expiry, they have changed their strategy.

We have also changed our strategy. Earlier, it was volume-based, now they are better margin based. So now we are not trading much, we are relying on better margins. So we have to tweak our strategy based on the current scenario. And that's why we all see that things are going up from this quarter and next 2 to 3 quarters, things will be much better.
As Kamlesh sir said, SEBI has shown the positive sign by sticking that intraday position limit thing and also on the end of day, SEBI has given a much liberal positions in the position limit circular. So that is a very positive step from the regulatory side and both our exchanges, NSE and BSE, they both are...
Rohan Shah: At the same time, that definitely increases the margin limits for the market participants, right?
For institutional investors, that's not a concern. But for retailers, that would surely act as a hurdle.
So are we seeing any kind of a business loss for that?
Sachin Gupta: No. But position limit, as there is no restriction on the position limit in intraday now.
Rohan Shah: No, no, no. I meant about the margin increase.
Sachin Gupta: You're talking about ELM.
Rohan Shah: Yes, yes. Yes, the margin increase.
Sachin Gupta: Yes, margin increase on the expiry day is definitely a challenge. See, sir, I have already explained, see SEBI has come up with 7 different regulations on November 1. So increasing margin on the expiry day, reducing the expires, all these were implemented on November 1. So combining everything, i t has actually dented the overall volumes and it has impacted prop shops, retailers, it has impacted everyone, right?

So -- but now things are starting, going up and industry, different organizations like NE, CPI and some broker forums, they are meeting SEBI, explaining them about the challenges industry is facing. SEBI is also considering rationalizing the margins on the expiry day so that people can participate and trade more. But as of now, yes, increase in margin is a dent for the retailers, as far as and everyone, even for the institutional clients and for everyone.
So that's why we are seeing that now we have changed our strategy from the volume base to more margins. So only what we were doing, we were churning it a lot and earning very nice margin. Now our churning has been reduced, and we are relying on the better margins. This is what we have to do in the higher margin regime in this scenario.
So people are taking their strategies, including Share India and now we are seeing that those strategies have started working, and things will be better in the coming future.
Rohan Shah: Understood, understood. Just another question, sir. Like basically, as you mentioned just now that you are seeing the participation increasing the volumes have started to increase as they were before a year or something. So just wanted to understand this participation increase has gone up from the retail side or institutional side?

Abhinav Gupta: I think the combined effect is both Rohan, to be honest with you, because the retail participation and the entire institutional participation is a factor of the entire stabilization in the market sentiment and also the behavior of the index level and the entire positivity in the market segment for that matter.
So it's across the board, stability of all the regulations that were implemented in the last couple of quarters that has happened. So now this quarter, we are seeing a lot of stability coming into the ecosystem. We are seeing green shoot, but I think it would take us another couple of quarters while we achieve the earlier kind of levels in terms of turnover, but stability has surely started setting into the ecosystem as a whole.
Sachin Gupta: I also want to add one point, Abhinav. So earlier the market was totally dependent on the indexes, correct. The concern with the SEBI was, it is only index-based trading stocks were -- people are not even trading in stocks, volumes are very low. So the idea of SEBI was to make a market a broader-based market, not only index-based market.
So what that is, they allow the changes to list more stocks on the futures and reduce the indexes, correct? So, what is happening even today, we received the list of many stocks, even that base is increasing. So 2, 3 months back, they added some stocks. Now, they are again -- they are adding some stocks.
So we are seeing that people have actually started trading much in stock. So that, as I said, business strategy is changing stabilizing. People have adopted to the new situation. And as SEBI wants, the participation will widen into different stocks and the indexes also. So that will stabilize the volatility also in the market.
Rohan Shah: Understood. Just on that point, over like the last year or something, we've seen a drop in the new retail entries in the market, like new retail participation, which was a continuous uptick after the lockdown. So can we expect the similar in the future.
Abhinav Gupta: Sorry, can you repeat that question again? I think there was some disturbance in the line.
Rohan Shah: No, I was saying that over last year, maybe, let's say, last 4 to 6 quarters, we've seen a drop in the new demat openings by the retail participants in the market.
Abhinav Gupta: Correct.
Sachin Gupta: Yes.
Kamlesh Shah: Abhinav, let me start.
Sachin Gupta: So I got 2 questions. So the answer, I see nothing can go up straight away like this. So retail numbers are going up, adding up every month-to-month basis. And we are seeing that last 4 years, retail participation has gone up by multiple folds. So it has to consolidate.

Rohan Shah: I am referring to the last 1-year period because after the COVID lockdown, there was definitely a very big spike, but that started to go down in the last 4 to 6 quarters.
Sachin Gupta: Rohan, I'm trying to answer that. Give me a minute only. So because the numbers are going up, so we have to see the consolidation, correct? So consolidation is happening, nothing else. So we still believe that consolidation will stay there. Number might not go as they were going up earlier. But we are more looking at the change in the behavior of the consumer.

Like, now, they are trading more in stocks, not only in indexes, correct? How can we give them better strategies to trade in stocks? How can we give them AI-based strategy to trade in stocks? How can we use better platforms to trade, correct? What kind of brokerages we should charge that they should trade more in stocks and indexes both.
So now we are not dependent only on the new flow of the customers. but we are also depending on the change in behavior of the customer. As progressively, SEBI allowed the retailer, this is a first country where the regulator has allowed retailers to do Algo trading on the open APIs. So consolidation will stay there like in last 3, 4 years, we were seeing numbers were going up like anything.
So consolidation is 100% welcome. No issues at all. We have to prepare ourselves to accept the change in the behavior of the customer. And this is our goal. And we believe as every in 1 decade or 8 years new concept and got introduced to the retailers like Zerodha introduced some brokerage plans 10 years ago, and now we see what happened in the industry.
So Algo -- the way, SEBI is pushing, the way industry is ready, Algo is going to another thing where you will give the open APIs and AI strategies for the retail as people will definitely trade and things will start changing for the retailers and for the entire market.
Abhinav Gupta: And Rohan, just to add on to that point. Demat account opening is a factor of market sentiment as a whole as well. So, whenever there is a positivity in terms of market. I think -- so you see a change in behavior according to those parameters as well.
From a company perspective, as Sachin sir has already told you, we have an advantage of having a base effect that from our current levels, we can grow very significantly. And also, we are trying to realign our strategies in terms of customer acquisition so that we focus more on cash-oriented and Algo-oriented products rather than anything else.
Moderator: The next question is from the line of Aditya Shah from Meteor Wealth Management.
Aditya Shah: My question is on the loan book. Sir, with the loan book decline, how does the company plan to grow in the coming quarters. And what is the risk -- kind of risk management strategies have you placed to maintain the asset quality? Those are my first 2 questions.
Kamlesh Shah: So Sachin Sir will start on it.
Sachin Gupta: Rajesh sir is on the call. Rajesh sir will answer.

Rajesh Gupta: Let me to answer, please. This is Rajesh Gupta. Mr. Aditya, our loan book has not decreased, but it has increased only marginally from the last year. Yes, we are -- we have adopted many strategies to mitigate this, main strategy is to balance our loan book between unsecured to secured. Initially, our book -- main book consisted of unsecured loans.
Now we are balancing it with the secured loans. Our strategy is to maintain this to -- by 50%, 50%. And we all know that there -- the main risk is only in unsecured book. This risk is across the Board and secured b ooks are naturally less risky and it will naturally reduce our risk in the future.

Aditya Shah: And the follow-up, sir, I mean, what are the risk management strategies for your, the maintenance at least?
Rajesh Gupta: So as I told you, main strategy is to shift from unsecured loans to the secured loans sector segment. This is the best strategy. And to pursue the -- as our unsecured loan is going down, so we can follow it up more strongly.
Sachin Gupta: May I add something in the risk management strategy?
Aditya Shah: Yes, please.
Sachin Gupta: Yes. So as Rajesh sir has claimed, we have already a mix of secured and unsecured book, and on the unsecured side, we have a very clear strategy that we avoid concentration geographically that we don't do business in 1 state or 1 district or something. So we have a limitation that above certain number, we do not get the customers, or we do not open the branches in 1 state.
We see that there should not be a consultation of particular religion in that particular village. We see so many things like the family structure of the borrower, the reason of borrowing. So there are a number of things that we follow as a risk management made before giving the loan. They're paying capacity and so many things, correct?
So we have a proper ecosystem. And also, we have moved to -- 50% book has moved to the secured line now to the major cities and mainly focusing on SMEs and all. So now we are quite comfortably positioned in NBFC. And this year,NBFC should give us a good return.
Aditya Shah: Great, sir. And my last question is, sir, do you have any plans to tie up with banks to increase the broking business?

Sachin Gupta: Like how can banks like.
Abhinav Gupta: Yes. So currently, there is no proposal in front of the board. Right now, we keep on doing multiple strategies in terms of customer acquisition. As and when there is an announcement to be made, we'll do so.
Aditya Shah: Okay. Okay. If I may, sir. Sir, last question, what is the target to increase your AUM, sir, in the coming years, a percentage would also do.
Abhinav Gupta: In terms of wealth management business you're talking.

Aditya Shah: Yes, yes, sir. Yes.
Abhinav Gupta: So as Sachin sir has explained, we are trying to penetrate into this market by making our presence felt into the hot spots and essentially high visibility areas, which include areas like Central Delhi and Kolkata and everything. That business has sort of started being good business in the last few years. In terms of expansion, we are not setting a very aggressive target for the same business because we want to let that business stabilize and focus more on distribution before we set a very high set of targets over that business.
Kamlesh Shah: Abhinav, I want to add something here. So sir, on the distribution side, the 2 things we are focusing on. One is insurance distribution, and one is mutual fund bonds and FDs. So what we're doing, insurance is doing great last year, insurance rate, INR75 crores premium. This is like 35% to 40% jump on an year-over-year basis.
And on the bottom line, also insurance business did very well. And this year, we believe that we -- our internal target is, we should touch 3-figure premium this year. So that is, again, 30% to 35% jump on year-on-year basis. So insurance distribution is doing really great with a lot of corporate plans we have added in '24, '25.
And now -- and mostly clients are from the western part of India. This year, we are focusing more on the northern part, and we are also entering into like real estate, builder space for the insurance and all. So we are getting good success there, and we are hopeful that team is working very hard and we have a detailed operational plan where we should touch 3-figure premium this year for the insurance.
And as far as mutual fund AUM or other ancillary services, we have tied up with an institute based in Chandigarh, where they will train people on behalf of us. And after the training of 3 years, we are going to hire a big chunk of people for the northern part, mainly for Punjab, Chandigarh, Delhi, Himachal and Haryana.

And our aggressive target is on mutual fund AUM should at least grow by 100% this financial year on year-on-year basis. So these are the 2 verticals we are focusing, and professional teams are working on it, and we hope so that this business should show good results this year also.
Moderator: The next question is from the line of Satvik from Jefferies.
Satvik: So just on MSE first, since SEBI has decided on expiry date to be Tuesday and Thursday as per the circular release yesterday. Where does that leave MSE given it was allotted Friday earlier. Is there a push from SEBI to create a liquid FX 40 cash market before derivatives can be launched on it?
Sachin Gupta: Kamlesh sir, you want to start? Kamlesh sir, you want to add?
Kamlesh Shah: Yes. Right now, right now, only 2 exchange had a liquid cash market, and they had the derivative market development. So 2 expiries have been given to the 2 exchanges. That is Tuesday and Thursday. So the exchange can select any one day for their benchmark indices for weekly contract. Now Metropolitan Stock Exchange and other exchanges which have planned to enter into equity market will take some time.

It may take 1 year or 1.5 year, 2. So right now, yesterday only the SEBI has come up with the circular that exchange can choose either Tuesday or Thursday day. As far as Metropolitan stock exchange and other exchanges are concerned, they will have to develop the cash market first. So it's a process.
So maybe down the line after a year, they will review again everything. Already, SEBI has given approval to Metropolitan Stock Exchange for Friday, but before that is implemented, they will have to develop the cash market and the derivative market to seek different expiry date. Like -- I mean, that will be taken up only as and when they cross the benchmark turnover on the indices, I hope this clarifies your doubt.
Satvik: Yes, yes, very clear. My second question is on the gross and net delta base open interest limits that have been proposed. What are you hearing from your interactions with the market. There are media reports circulating that are suggesting that the proposed -- I mean, the final limits will actually be much higher at 100 billion on a gross basis and 15 billion on net basis, but intraday monitoring was excluded. So is there any truth to this?

Kamlesh Shah: Yes, yes, yes. See, we had a meeting recently, in which detailed discussion had happened. And you have the proper knowledge about the issue. There are 2 things, one is end of the day position. End of the day position, earlier, it was on a normal growth basis. And now they've shifted the entire working to delta-based. Now Delta base will provide an additional advantage because it will be considered as a net position so that the limit would be much, much higher.
And the limit of INR500 crores also will be revised to INR1,500 crores on delta based at end of the day. In addition to that, they will also monitor the growth position that will be INR10,000 crores on short side and INR10,000 crores on a long side. So, this is a very constructive move. The earlier limit which was implemented on 20th March 2020 during the COVID period was INR500 crores. And that was causing a lot of concern for the development of the market. Now with all those things removed, now there is no -- I mean they are proposing no intraday limits and end of the day limit also has been liberalized. So this will help a lot in the development of the market and participation by all the stakeholders.
Satvik: So this is very, very helpful. Just to follow up on the prop side, do we see like this to be the bottom qua rter and sequentially improvement from here? And also wanted to know how big is the prop book. Can you -- is it possible to quantify it, please?

Kamlesh Shah: Sachin ji please tell.
Sachin Gupta: So, I will start the answer and then Abhinav can answer the last part of the question. So, as far as the prop bottom is concerned, so I will tell you one thing very clearly. Even in the last quarter, the major dent was because of the fair value change, correct? So the investment is still in the book. It was because -- mainly because of the fair value market goes up, your number goes up and market goes -- number goes down. So that's entirely different thing. As far as regular prop trading is concerned, it was not that bad, it was not that challenging, correct?

Still from the April onwards, we see as SEBI has stopped this intraday position limit regulation. It has boosted the confidence in the participants. So business has actually shown good results, and we see the prop numbers will start improving from the fourth quarter and -- as you rightly said, we also believe that fourth quarter should be the bottom as far as prop trading numbers are concerned because we are seeing that retailers have also start picking their volumes.
And so vice-versa prop numbers are going up. So all over things have started going up. So we believe the fourth quarter should be the bottom for the prop numbers and from all the things that. Rest of question is the quantum of our retail book. Abhinav, if you can quantify or if you can answer, please?
Abhinav Gupta: So I'll just start on Satvik in terms of prop book, as Sachin sir has already explained. Sequentially, we should start seeing green shoot. Stability has already started setting in. And if you look at in terms of ADTO, you would already see that Q3 and Q4 were more or less similar. There was not much of a difference over there.
And in terms of quantification of loan book, you need to understand there are certain limits that are involved, banking limits that are involved. And currently, we are working on the same numbers that we had last year. But this year, when I mean for fiscal year '26, the number should be a little higher than what it was last year.
Satvik: Understood. Understood. This is very helpful. Just last one, if I can squeeze in. On the Silverleaf acquisition, is it possible to quantify any metrics? Or are we not giving it out yet?
Abhinav Gupta: What kind of metric are you looking at?
Satvik: Top line, bottom line kind of metric?
Abhinav Gupta: So it will be an EPS accretive acquisition. And as and when the acquisition happens, we can't disclose as where, but fiscal year, it would be an EPS accretive is what I can state officially right now.
Moderator: Ladies and gentlemen, in the interest of time we'll take this as a last question. I now hand the conference over to Mr. Kamlesh Shah for closing comments.
Kamlesh Shah: Yes, yes. Sachin, yes, we would like to thank all the investors. The session was very interesting. It highlighted a lot of new areas where we are working and as well as the queries were also was from well-informed investors. And this will also help us to build our business model. And as Sachin Ji has explained, a lot of new initiatives that has been taken by Share India. So we can say that the past 2 quarters were consolidation period and from here on, with the positive developments, we could look for a better year to follow.
And I would like to thank all the investors for the trust and the confidence that they have in the company. And we seek your continued support and from our end, we will leave no stones unturned to see that we meet your expectation and deliver to your expectation. Thank you so very much for participation in large number.

The management would like to thank you for all the in puts that has been provided by you. And thank you very much. Thank you. Sachin Ji, you would like to add anything?

Sachin Gupta: No, I just want to say that besides all the challenges, we are all pumped up, we are all geared up. Entire team is working day and night, and we are also seeing whatever the changes that come from the industry, we will adapt them. See, we are into this business since last 30 years. And we know that this business is highly regulatory business, and we need to adapt according to the changes, and it takes some time to consolidate even if we look at the Share India's growth in the last 5 years, things cannot go up like this.
Not everything has to get consolidated and then start to go up. We need to stay relevant; we need to stay positive. And the success is not in achieving growth in one year. Success is growing continuously year-on-year basis. So consistency is what we require.
We might see some challenging quarters, but believe me, things are very much in control, and we are strategizing it very aggressively and we'll execute it very aggressively and coming years are going to be very good for Share India, and we welcome this consolidation. This consolidation is one we have all experienced in the past and we'll come out of it very positively and the future is very bright for all Share India, and I wish best of luck to the shareholders and everyone. Thank you.
Moderator: Thank you. On behalf of Share India Securities Limited, that concludes this conference. Thank you for joining us, and you may now disconnect your lines.

To guide us through the results today, we have with us the Senior Management Team of Share India Securities Limited, represented by Mr. Kamlesh Shah, Managing Director, Mr. Sachin Gupta, CEO and Whole -time Director, Mr. Rajesh Gupta, Director, Mr. Abhinav Gupta, President, Capital Markets and Mr. Prabhakar Tiwari, who has joined us as the Head of the Wealth Tech Division.

These statements are not a guarantee of future performance and involve risks and uncertainties that are difficult to predict.
We will commence the call with the opening brief by Mr. Kamlesh Shah, Managing Director, followed by the business highlights from Mr. Sachin Gupta, CEO and Whole -time Director. After this, we will open the forum for the Q&A. With that, I will now hand over the call to Mr. Shah to share his opening comments. Ov er to you, sir. Thank you.
Kamlesh Shah: Hello. Thank you, Amitji. Good evening, everyone. I welcome you all to the first investor call to share the performance of the company for quarter one financial year 2025 -2026. Currently, we are witnessing a lot of headwinds, mainly because of the external factors and tariff -like issues. However, the industry in the first quarter has been experiencing supportive development that we are positively influencing our performance.
A trend that is now clearly being realize d. We are especially excited by the immense potential yet to be unlocked within the financial service sector. Below are the detailed financial results for quarter one 2025 -2026. First, we will discuss standalone performance for the quarter one. Quarter on quarter comparison is really very exciting. The total revenue from the operation for quarter one was INR273 crore compared to INR188 crore s for quarter one 2025.
Impressive 45.6% increase quarter on quarter basis. Profit before tax and profit after tax fo r quarter one financial year 2026 was INR89 crore s and INR69 crore s compared to INR17 crore s and INR16 crore s for quarter four of financial year 2025. This represents significant increase of 427% in profit before tax and whooping 324% increase in profit after tax quarter on quarter basis, highlighting our strong operational efficiency.

Coming to year on year comparison for the standalone results, total revenue from the operation was INR273 crore s compared to INR324 crore for quar ter one financial year 2025, showing a decline of 1 6% year on year basis. Strictly speaking, year on year basis comparison does not give any comparable solutions because the situation in quarter one ‘25 was different. Thereafter, we had a lot of developme nt on international front, on tariff front, on these spikes and many other disturbances which has affected the performance of last two quarters of the last financial year. However, we have overcome that particular situation and now we are on a better footi ng.
Profit before tax and profit after tax for quarter one financial year ‘26 were INR89 crore s and INR69 crore s compared to INR94 crore s and INR72 crore s for quarter one financial year ‘25, showing a decline of approximately 6%. Earnings per share for th e quarter on standalone basis stood at INR3.15 on face value of INR2 per share, reflecting a healthy profitability per share.

Coming to the consolidated financial numbers, quarter on quarter comparison . The total revenue from the operation for quarter one financial year 26 on consolidated basis was INR341 crore s compared to INR240 crore s in the last quarter, making a substantial 42.57% increase compared to the previous quarter.
For quarter one financial year '26, profit before tax was INR111 crore s and profit after tax was INR84 crores compared to profit before tax of INR23 crore s and profit after tax of INR19 crore s in the previous quarter. This reflects approximately 379% increase in profit before tax and 353% increase in profit after tax quarter o n quarter basis, demonstrating robust growth across our consolidated entities.
Coming to the year on year comparison, the total revenue from the operation for quarter one was INR341 crore s compared to INR414 crore s, decline of 17.5% Y-O-Y basis. Profit be fore tax for quarter one financial year '26 was INR111 crores compared to INR131 crore s in the quarter one of financial year '25 and profit after tax is INR84 crore s in quarter one financial year '26 compared to INR103 crore s for financial year '25, showin g a decline of approximately 18%.
Earning s per share for the quarter has been recorded as INR3.86 on face value of INR2 per share.
We have declared dividend of INR0.30 per share of the face value of INR2 per share. The company has shown strong performance and significant rebound from last quarter's result across all the segments. We are very pleased with the result and we believe they set a positive tone for the rest of financial year.
The past few years have marked our transition from traditional broker to full -fledged tech financial service provider. The company has remained focused and taken right steps with right people to achieve this transformation. Carrying this legacy forward, we are now venturing into new segment of WealthTech , a comprehensive tec hnology -driven product designed to serve all classes of investors.
In line with this exciting development, we are pleased to announce that Mr. Prabhakar Tiwari, a well-known name in the industry, has been entrusted with the responsibility of this project . We welcome Mr. Prabhakar Tiwari to Share India Family. He is with us on this conference call, so he will give you detail of the project and Sachin ji will give you overall view of the developments and the new initiatives that we have taken and the way fo rward.

I would like to acknowledge exceptional contribution of the team led by Mr. Sachin Gupta, CEO, for their efforts in creating opportunities and converting them into results, which has significantly contributed to the historic growth of Share India a s a group.
To conclude, I would like to reiterate our commitment to growing sustainably and creating robust ecosystem that provides sustainable long -term growth opportunity for all our stakeholders.
Thank you. With these words, I would like to hand over t he proceeding to Mr. Sachin Gupta.
Thank you.
Sachin Gupta: Thank you, Kamlesh sir. Thank you for the detailed presentation about the Q1 results. Good afternoon, everyone. Thanks for taking time out for this conference call. As Kamlesh sir explained, Q1 ha s been a very satisfying quarter as we have seen good rebounds from the Q4 of the last financial year. This particular quarter has been a very happening quarter fo r the company.

A lot of new initiatives and steps have been taken. We were trying this last month and maybe year. All these steps are forward -looking towards the commitment to our investors where we say that Share India is here to be a more stabilized company focusing on the diversified revenue and run by the hardcore professionals. Different div isions are run by the hardcore professionals.
What we achieved in this particular financial year ? First of all, I would like to highlight that MTF book which was dropped to INR186 odd crores by Q4 last financial year has jumped by around 40% in this quart er. We have closed the book around INR315 crores. With MTF, it gives us more stability in our revenues. That also helps in increasing the penetration towards the retail side of the business.
The way the market is growing , so this particular financial year, we can see the MTF book is growing at least 20% or maybe 30% from here on. Another thing that we achieved is we closed the 100 crore s NCD in this quarter which was at 10.75%. The best part is a lot of institutions, retailers, and HNIs have participated in NCDs and our NCDs are very well accepted in the market.
That's the first time in our history that we came up with this kind of product and this was well accepted and this opened a few doors for the company for the further fund raising in the future.
Another big step towards the future is , we got the permission from the SEBI for the P MS license , which we explained in the last quarter that we have applied but we got the permission from the SEBI . Luckily, as we are c ommitted to work with the professionals, I cannot name the professionals right now but that will be disclosed in the coming months.

One guy from the industry having more than 18 years of experience with the different mutual funds and a hardcore guy of thi s industry has agreed to join us as a PMS. The first team will be launched by September. By September first, the team will be launched from the PMS side. This is a very forward -looking step.

We are looking to enter into the fund management system where AI F and PMS should be part of our revenue and product offering. So, PMS is the first step. Once we get stabilized with this, then definitely we have AI F in our mind. Going further, we might go towards the A IF also. PMS, as I said, again will be run by the professional team , as we are hopeful, i n coming years PMS will also become a good revenue stream for the company and stabilizing the overall revenue for the Share India.
And going further, another project which we announced in this quarter is Pr oject Drone. Project Drone is a project that Kamlesh has explained. It is a project towards a WealthTech company we want to launch and Mr. Prabhakar Tiwari has joined hands with Share India. It is a WealthTech startup by Share India and Prabhakar. So, the idea is, as we all know, we are seeing also next decade belong to the Indian retailers.
So, if India is going to grow, why Share India should not be a part of that growth by offering at least some products for the retailers? Primarily, we are a B2B company . And I appreciate my Management, my Board that they gave us the permission to enter into the hard core B2C business. It's very tough for any B2B company to enter into B2C. So, you need courage to do that and the Management and Board showed that courage an d backed us.
And Prabhakar is here. Prabhakar is a veteran in this industry. He was a Chief Growth Officer of Angel. He has seen the growth of Angel from 10,000 accounts per month to 10 lakh accounts per month. He has seen all this journey. He has planned and he showed his commitment towards his business.
Now, that Prabhakar is here and we have just started this project and we believe Prabhakar will explain in his comments after me , that when he will commence the bus iness. Our goal is to -- it's not only the broking, it 's not what Zerodha is doing only. So, it is a complete financial product with broking, with wealth product, with financing, with everything.

So, next 10 years, as I said, we believe that if we somehow conquer this, this will further stabili ze and it will not stabilize. It will help us grow far more than what we are expecting with only one way of B2B business. So, you guys can see that Share India is constantly taking steps every quarter towards entering into the B2C space of the country , like institutional business got started, PMS now, MT F, now Project drone .
So, uTrade Algos , again Prabhakar will be taking the lead in taking and uTrade Algos also now, that product will also be offered to the clients via this Project Drone only . And as we saw, as Kamlesh sir had said in commentary , we have seen so much regulatory challenges in last financial year, especially Q3 and Q4. So, we believe that those things are now stabilizing a bit and business is picking up, which is shown in the results of Q1.
So, if the broadening, as we believe that regulator is broadly done with the last changes. So, if there are no much differences on the regulatory side, so we believe this particular financial year will be somewhere 20 %-25% g rowth based on last financial year.
One more thing I want to add here that we got permission from the SEBI and exchanges for the merger of Silverleaf. This is another big thing, which was stuck with the regulatory approval from the exchanges and the SEBI . We just received it 15 days back. And going further, Silverleaf is going to be a great acquisition. They are experts in HST Trading Shines and Quant Trading Shines. So, they will again -- now we will move to the CLT and I hope in next 6 months this merger, this financial merger will happen.

And with the Silverleaf coming in our chain, it will again boost our revenues from the different line of business, which we are not doing right now. Again, focus is on stabilizing and growth both. So, this is from my sid e and thank you for giving me this chance to explain about the quarter and the future growth.
Thank you very much. And Prabhakar, over to you, if you can please explain about the Project Drone . Thank you , guys.

Prabhakar Tiwari: Yes. So, thank you Sachin j i and Kamlesh ji. Good evening , everyone. I am delighted to join today's earning call alongside the Share India leadership team. I am Prabhakar Tiwari with more than two decades of leadership roles across finance, consumer, and technology. In my last role as Chief Growth Officer of Angel One, I had the privilege to work alongside the management there to scale Angel One to number three, top three brokerage in the country and transform a traditional brokerage house to a full stack fintech platform.

I extend a warm welcome to our investors, analysts, and valued partners , as I talk about Project Drone today. Over the past few months, I have had the privilege of working closely with the team at Share India to work towards building our next big growth en gine, Project Drone, Share India's WealthTech venture. I would like to briefly share our vision and why we believe it is a game changer for both Share India and our investors.

India's wealth management space is at an inflection point with over 80 to 100 mi llion plus mass and emerging affluent investors seeking holistic wealth guidance beyond trading. In Tier 2 cities represent a massive white space and differentiated market entry opportunity. Project Drone leverages Share India's strength in institutional -grade trading infrastructure, AI algo -led tools and strong compliance DNA , while expanding into WealthTech , capturing a broader share of clients and their investable capital from INR10 lakhs to INR10 crores.

Unlike single product brokers or legacy wealt h pl atforms, Project Drone is designed as a bundled AI algo -driven wealth platform, seamlessly integrating trading, investing, advisory and credit, especially for underserved Tier 2, 3, 4 geographies in India. I am glad to share with the investors that we have assembled a founding team with deep fintech and tech experience from firms like Angel, Upstox, Google, among others, and this is just a start. More people are supposed to join us in coming quarter.

Our early surveys and pilots with thousand plus retail in vestors confirm the strong appetite for an integrated wealth platform, which Project Drone envisages to build over time, starting from a strong MVP in next 6 to 9 months. In short, Project Drone is designed to future -proof Share India's growth, diversify r evenue beyond trading fee and capture the next wave of India's wealth creation story. Project Drone, in my opinion, is not just a growth driver, but a reflection of Share

India's ability to innovate and lead. We look forward to welcome your questions durin g the Q&A. Thank you, and I will hand it back to Bhavya who will open to Q&A.

Moderator: Thank you very much. We will now begin the question -and-answer session. The first question is from the line of Jitesh Sakaria, an Individual Investor. Please go ahead. As there is no response from the current participant, we will move to the next question. The next question is from the line of Neha Shah, an Individual Investor. Please go ahead.

Neha Shah: Good evening, sir. Sir, can you break down the performance about the verticals , like broking proprietary like how, which segments are contributing more to the top line and how is the margin expansion?

Management: Sachin ji, you'll take the call.

Sachin Gupta: This particular quarter, what we saw that, as I said, MTF interest income is getting stabilized or going up. Broking business has shown good growth and the major growth has come from the prop side. In the last quarter, when the numbers came down, so the commentary from our side was there was some notion al M2M losses which we need to book in the balance sheet. That number has recovered a bit.

So, putting everything together, some recovery from the investment side, our business getting good, you know, stabilized and MTF and broking side. All things have be en improving the margins and the numbers. Also, primary market activities have picked up in the last quarter. So, everything put together has contributed. Abhinav, if I have missed something, can you please add?

Abhinav Gupta: Sure, sir. So, thanks a lot f or your question, ma'am. So, as Sachin sir has explained, in the last couple of quarters, there has been a lot of flux in terms of the regulatory landscape changing. As continuously said in our con calls, we now see some sort of stability coming into the s ystem and as you can see, the broking numbers have started stabilizing and have seen some marginal growth as well.

Major improvement that has happened has happened in terms of the fact that the interest income by the virtue of MTF income has sort of starte d taking a leg up, which is a very healthy sign because in the long -term scenario, we believe the interest income would be a very major component of a broking component specifically. Also, by the virtue of the cost -cutting measures that we had done interna lly in the last quarter ha ve ensured that the cost element remains the same while the business has started recovering in this quarter.

And as Sachin sir said, along with it, some benefit of the interest or the investment benefits that were there in terms of losses last quarter has started coming up on the improvement side, which has led to a margin expansion both at the EBITDA level and PAT level.

Neha Shah: Okay. Thank you, sir. And s ir, I also wanted to know about the new client acquisition. Sir, any t argets you have set for this year and can you explain on , like what 's the strategy to scale further?

Abhinav Gupta: Ma'am, we have been very continuously talking about client acquisition and uTrade Algos has been a very beneficial product for us in terms of acquiring clients. While that product has been now in line for almost a year now, as discussed on this call, we believe there is a lot more space apart from just broking in terms of client acquisition. With Prabhakar ji on board, we believe that the wealth DIY and the wealth technology especially would be a game changer from the long-term scenario.
We are not trying to compete on a quarter -on-quarter basis with other broking houses on this regard. We believe building a sustainable new digital platform with much more capabilities beyond broking would be a game -changer and a better customer acquisition strategy in the longer run. Prabhakar ji, if you can just want to add some points. ..
Prabhakar Tiwari: I want to add something here. So, in terms of expanding o ur offline retail business, Share India has opened branches in the Tier 1 cities , like in Calcutta, Ahmedabad, Delhi itself and Patna. And w e are focusing on all these cities and opening our own branches. So, the intent is to serve the clients for the equi ty services and wealth products also. So, our base is expanding in terms of offering more wealth products , like mutual funds, FDs and debenture selling and also equity products.
And secondly, as I explained primary , I think we are also doing really good these days. So, the number of clients they are going up. Intent is also to expand our own base in the different parts of the country and in the offline side. So, we primarily focus on offering multiple products to the retail customers now.
Neha Shah: Okay. Thank you, sir. I'll get back in the queue. Thank you.
Moderator: The next question is from the line of Mayank Sharaf, an individual investor.
Mayank Sharaf: Yes. Hi. Good evening everyone. So, the first question was regarding your project drone. It was very well explained by Mr. Prabhakar . I just want to know if you have some growth plans if you could share some insights.
Prabhakar Tiwari: Yes. Sachinji, should I take it?
Sachin Gupta: Yes. Prabhakar, please go ahead.
Prabhakar Tiwari: Yes. No. Thank you, sir. I mean, that's the most relevant question. And I mean, with the kind of Share India setup that we are incubating this wealth tech venture, we believe this will play a large role in expanding not just the revenue top line for Share India, but also inc rease the margin expansion, which is required.
And we also believe that this will have a complementary and catalystic impact on other businesses of Share India. So, in terms of growth plan, I mean, I'm not in a position to share a specific number at this j uncture, but we will move very fast. And the reason for the same is that we are – we have assembled a very experienced team as a part of this startup venture of Share India, who are coming from a very mature scaled fintech experience.

And Share India alrea dy has a lot of expertise around trading, compliant DNA, regulatory know - how. So, I believe we'll hit the ground running. And I expect our MVP to be out in six months to nine months. And when I say M VP, mostly the minimum viable product, people look at two key features with minimal resources as they go to the market.
But our M VP will be very strong and we will be testing multiple revenue driving features, and customer acquisition features as we go to the market. And in my opinion, as we s tart progressing from M VP, you will see the impact of this venture both on the top line and bottom line of Share India very soon.
Mayank Sharaf: I have another question. So, like, what are you r views on the turnover at the exchange level, given the regula tions around derivative trading?

Prabhakar Tiwari: Yes. Sachin sir would like to take.
Sachin Gupta: Kamlesh sir, do you want or should I answer?
Kamlesh Shah: Yes. I mean, you can start and then if there is anything left, then I'll chime in.

Sachin Gupta: So, we have seen that exchanges volumes and overall market volumes are coming down because of the regulatory challenges and the spikes and we can see , so many things are happening in industry. So, as we see in the regulatory changes, believe that they are stabilizing a bit.
And regulatory is also of the view and now they have changed their view, changed -- and they're very accommodative in their stance and listening to the industry. So, going further, we believe exchanges will be more innovative in off ering more products. And like I said, people are in a mood that, again, they are trying their strategy because with the current regulatory environment.
So, not exactly the kind of volumes we were having like six months ago. But yes, volumes will not drop f rom here. And they will start going up in maybe a quarter or two. And -- but it's hard to commend that, when we can see the exact numbers were happening six months ago. But yes, things will be better from here. I think we have always touched the bottom fro m the volume side.
And the changes are very positive that in coming two to three quarters, exchanges volume will be far better from here on. Kamlesh sir. Yes.
Kamlesh Shah: Yes. Here, I would like to add two, three lines.
Mayank Sharaf: Yes.
Kamlesh Shah: We have emerged from the regulatory headwinds. We have used this difficult time to consolidate and to take new initiative. We have broadened our revenue stream so that, we are more sustainable and each vertical contributes revenue to the organization or on the consolidation basis.
We believe that the last leg of disruption, namely the tariff war, will also get resolved as government is proactively tackling this issue. And we are taking new initiatives, like, increasing our stake in metropolitan exchange. An d this is just not investment, but this will also provide us one more platform where we can expand our activity, we can get new products and this will add to our turnover.

So, I think, the difficult time should be behind us. And there will be stability in the turnover.
And going forward, we feel that this year could be better, as Sachinji has already pointed out, we will have decent growth this year.
Abhinav Gupta: Also - yes, also, I would just like to add, as explained by both Sachin sir and Kamlesh sir.
Mayank Sharaf: Yes.
Abhinav Gupta: Along with just the stability into the ecosystem, we believe the new innovative products being offered by different exchanges across the Board would be really helpful for broker licenses going forward.
Moderator: The nex t question is from the line of Kunal Choudhary, an individual investor.
Kunal Choudhary: Thank you for the opportunity and congratulations for the nice recovery. I have one question regarding the shareholding pattern. As I can see, like, in the last few ye ars, like, for so many years, there's a continuous reduction in the promoter shares. Okay, can I know the reason behind this?
Abhinav Gupta: I mean that's -- yes. So…
Sachin Gupta: Yes.
Abhinav Gupta: Thanks for your question. I think the reduction that yo u had been seeing across has been very marginal and that has to do with a couple of factors. Number one, the acquisition strategy that the company employed from 2017 to 2020, and specifically, because there was a right issue that was brought out in 2023, w hich was fully subscribed by the second half of 2024 or 2025 fiscal year.
I think because of that, there was some dilution. The promoters have not sold any shares, and I think, if you see fro m last couple of quarters, the shareholding pattern was a stabili ty factor. Just to answer your question in a more pointed way, the promoters have not sold shares. I think all the dilution has been because of either acquisitions or new capital being issued to new investors.

Kunal Choudhary: Okay. Thank you for the clari fication. And I have one more question regarding the cash flow statement. There are, like, last two financial years, like, March 2023 and 2024, there is a negative cash flow from operating activity. So, can I -- like, is there any, but this March 2025, the cash flow from the operating activity becomes positive and it becomes, like, INR6 crores.
Abhinav Gupta: Yes. So I think you are talking about the full years. You need to understand that ours is a financial company, and all the money invested into the FDs or any other investment product is also taken as an operating cash flow -- cash outflow. And hence, because of that, you might see a negative operating cash flow. But I think for a finance company, just looking at a pure -play, cash flow from operations wo uld not be a right message, because a lot of investment related are classified as operating activities and taken in a negative cash outflow. So, you need to look at that.

Kunal Choudhary: I agree. But before -- but if we compare like before 2023, it was a continuously positive side, like, INR400 crores, INR250 crores, INR68 crores. Okay, but since like March 2023, it was minus INR170 crores. Then March 2024, it was minus INR300 crores.
Abhinav Gupta: See, I think it is only because of some investments that might be there.
Sachin Gupta: Yes. Yes. Abhinav, I think that is because of the investments. Earlier, we never used to do any investments. So, we did some strategic investments in last two years, like Master, like Swastika, like MSCI. I think that is a pri mary reason.
Abhinav Gupta: Yes. But I think even…
Kunal Choudhary: Okay sir.
Abhinav Gupta: Those amounts would be smaller. I think it has to be a larger context. I think we can address it on a one -on-one at a later time. But as I said, cash outflow from operations for a financial company is not the right metric completely to look at.
Sachin Gupta: Second thing, here I would like to clarify that all the investments that we have made are all business investments. I mean, it is not pure investment. And these are all strategic investments, which will pay very rich dividend in terms of expansion of our business activity and getting like - minded brokers on board and to broaden our revenue streams.
And like MSCI, MasterShare, and Swastika, all are from the same in dustry. So, what we are focusing, and partly because of the merchant banking activity also, we need to invest something in the company that -- where we are merchant bankers to be market makers for the SME segment.
So, all the business -- all the investment s are related to business itself and these are going to be paying rich dividend in coming months.
Moderator: The next question is from the line of Prisha Shah, an individual investor.
Prisha Shah: Hello. Good evening, sir. I have a couple of questions. Fir st one being what steps are being taken to scale our insurance and mutual fund distribution business, especially in the Tier 2 and below cities?
Abhinav Gupta: Okay. You want to ask both or should we start the answer, ma'am, continue?
Prisha Shah: Maybe you can start. I can go on with other questions not related to the same business, so.
Abhinav Gupta: Yes. So, I think your question is around regarding the mutual fund business and the insurance business.
Prisha Shah: Yes.
Abhinav Gupta: As we said, as Sac hin sir has already said, we had opened branches. We are going both offline and online in both these products. Offline we are opening branches in the major epicenters of the businesses inc luding Kolkata, Patna, and Delhi branch itself, where we are just no t trying to cater to the broking part of it but go beyond broking and into the other part -- businesses including both insurance and mutual fund. Insurance business, we do a lot of cross synergy from our merchant banking business as well because we get a l ot of clientele from those businesses and are able to cross -sell a lot of other products by those virtues.

Also, in terms of insurance and mutual fund both as Prabhakar is there, we believe while we had different suits available with us in both in terms of mutual fund insurance and other product as well, I think that is what we are trying to accumulate into a single platform and offer to our clients in a digital version. So, the acquisition strategy is both physical and digital along with cross selling from the other synergies that we get from the other business divisions.
Prisha Shah: Okay. Understood. And so, my other question is on our institutional client base. Curren tly we are having it at around 140 or so. How are we planning to grow that institutional base beyond that?
Abhinav Gupta: Yes. So, ma'am, from an institutional clientele, you are absolutely right. We currently have an empowerment of 144 clients over there. I think we have seen a massive growth in this business in the last two years that we have started this business. And now, we see some sort of stability there.
But as you said, we currently see easily a growth by being a nascent player and being very tech enabled in terms of different product suits of in -house tech capabilities. We believe we will continue to acquire customer and gain market share in this. But being a different kind of nature, the clientele would be not as high what you would expect in a re tail business.
Prisha Shah: Yes.
Abhinav Gupta: But easily from -- even from current levels, we expect on every quarter to grow by 20%, 30% easily.
Kamlesh Shah: See here -- see, ma'am, here I would like to clarify. Don't, I mean, the client for institutio nal business is something different. These are all FI I, DII, mutual fund and domestic institutions. Their number will be like this only. In fact, this is a great achievement that within a year of operation, we could have 140 institutions working with u s. This cannot be compared with the retail clients. Retail client base is different. These are institutional clients. And to acquire 140 clients, I mean, institutions to work on our Insti platform, that itself is a credit and the Insti desk is performing v ery well.

Normally, it takes about 3 years for breakeven, but we have pleasure of getting breakeven in the first year itself. So, the institutional is doing extremely well. And it has opened up some opportunities and going forward, we will do even better. Thank you.

Moderator: The next question is from the line of Ashish Jindal, an Individual Investor.

Ashish Jindal: Good evening, sir. S ir, as of now, most of our revenue and profits come from proprietary trading, right? All other busine sses are quite small in comparison. So, I wanted to ask you, how should we see your business 5 years down the line? I'm assuming that the proprietary business will continue to generate good ROEs. But what to do with all of this cash now?

What businesses can you scale? Because I do not think that market will give good valuation to the proprietary desk part of the business. But what proportion of our PAT can we expect to come from other businesses 5 years down the line?

Kamlesh Shah: Sachin ji, you can start.

Management: Yes.

Abhinav Gupta : Sachin, sir, I just want to clarify a couple of points before you start. I'll handle it. So, sir, thanks a lot for your question. I think I'll clarify that not most of our revenue, I mean, it m igh t seem from a revenue perspective that most of our revenues come from proprietary trading. But at the bottom -line level, not more than 50 % or 55% of our profitability comes from proprietary trading. The rest of profitability comes from all the other segmen ts combined. So, just to clarify on that , but rest, Sachin sir, you can start and then we'll all follow up.

Sachin Gupta: Yes. So, the point you're making is see, you guys can easily see and it is very noticeable that since last 3 years, we are making very sincere efforts in different, different verticals to, to go away with -- to start revenues with the -- in B2B business into different verticals, like merchant banking business is one, NB FC business, institutional desk, insurance side of the business. So, all these things we are doing since last 3 years.

And every 6 months, we are trying to add some more verticals where we can enter into the retail side of the overall business side. So, like M TF business, we started 1.5 years back . Retail branches, now we are opening. Now, we have started distributing best products to the sub brokers also. So, all these things. So, if you can see last year, merchant banking division did really well.

Even in this year, merchant banking, first time we have two mandate of main Board IPOs. So, the quality of company is far, far better. So, we are growing in every vertical slowly and gradually. So, growth is in a very organic process. We need -- we cannot be very aggressive. It can backfire also. Every vertical is led by some professional, like we have a separate CEO for insurance. He has full independence to drive his own vertical. Abhinav is doing one.

Insti desk is led by Kalpesh Shah. So, different, different guys are having lots of experience behind them. So, diversifying into different verticals and leading that in their own verticals. So, that's why the earlier 3 years back, this rate with the bottom line was around 80 %-85%. Now, it has come down to 55% as Abhinav has explained. So, going furthe r, again, in this quarter only, we are starting PMS and the Project Drone is already, as explained by us, Prabhakar is sitting here.

If intent was not there, then Prabhakar and PMS, then Insti desk, all these things might not be happening. So, what we are doing, we are keeping a close control over our cash flows. The cash flows we are generating by our prop business; we are using those cash flows to diversify into other verticals where we are serving to the clients, maybe B2B and now B2C also.

So, I th ink this is the best -case scenario and best strategy and extreme , extreme rare case where you see a hardcore B2B company working into different verticals. And now, our goal is not that we are not only focusing on the -- growing our PA T number, growing our prop. Our focus is stabilization and participation into different aspects of this business.

So, that intent is clearly shown since last 3 years. And going further, we'll go deeper into it. And with the people like Prabhakar , the project drone , PMS, all th ese things. And now, AI F is also in our kitty. So, we are planning for it after 1-year maybe. So, continuously we are -- and you will not see any big names and big addition on prop side , correct?

So, all these things we are doing and intent is there. And also, use of this cash flow is a fabulous strategy I think our management has done. And going further, we are hopeful that revenue from the prop will -- overall revenue will grow. Even the revenue from prop will also grow. But the percentage of prop revenue should drop to 30 %-35% next 3 to 4 years. That's from my side.
Abhinav and Kamlesh , sir.
Kamlesh Shah: Sachin, can I add some few?
Sachin Gupta: Yes, sir. Yes, sir.
Kamlesh Shah: See, we have unique business model. We are focusing on algorithmic solutions and automatio ns.

And if you want a breakup of the revenue, out of 100 rupees that we earn on the consolidated basis, 25 %-30% comes from the subsidiaries. We have about 8 -10 subsidiaries which contribute positively to the consolidated revenue.
Out of the balance 70, 45 -50 is contributed currently by the prop desk and 20 %-25% is contributed by the investors. Now, we have net worth of INR2,400 crore as of June. And this also, the prop desk also gives us opportunity to earn money out of the surplus fund that we have.
And prop desk is a door to attract customers.
Whatever strategies we use for our business, we offer the same to the client. We offer the same platform to our clients. We also offer them strategies so that they get attracted a nd they get complete business solutions. And that is where the, lot many clients or the HNIs or the brokers are coming to us and joining our platform.
In addition to that, the new initiatives that we have taken on PM S side, on Insty side, and the recent o ne on the retail side by this Mr. Prabhakar Tiwari, all this will rightly, increase our revenue stream from the retail investment to a higher side, as Sachin Ji has already explained.
Thank you.
Ashish Jindal : Sir, just to add on that part, like all of our businesses are good cash generating businesses. So, can we like anticipate that 3 years down the line, 4 years down the line, the company can be a good dividend paying company?
Kamlesh Shah: We have restricted our dividend payout to 12% of that on a standalone basis. Because we need constantly funds for expanding our business activity and increase our foothold in the industry.
But, whenever we will have surplus fund, or whenever we feel that the funds are not generating more revenue than, the in dividual, our investors can earn . We will definitely reconsider our policy and increase the payout ratio.

But right now, as we've mentioned earlier also, that we are opening new stream, like MTF and other things, where we require more funds. And we have currently MTF book of around INR300 crores, which we may take it up to INR1,000 crores. So, this is a lot of investment.
This is a growing company. And we have a lot of business opportunity and with the kind of diversification and the business verticals that we have created, it gives very good opportunity for us to gainfully deploy the fund available with us. And that is why, we are l ittle conservative on the dividend payout policy. Thank you.
Ashish Jindal: Sir, just last question. We already have…
Moderator: Sorry to interrupt, sir. Sir, can you please rejoin the queue as there are several participants waiting in the question queue ?
Ashish Jindal: So, just waiting these questions. So, what will be a star vertical in the future?
Moderator: Sir, please rejoin the queue.
Ashish Jindal: Okay.
Moderator: The next question is from the line of Khyati Dewani from Aditya Birla Capital .
Khyat i Dewani: Yes. Hello. S ir, I wanted to ask one question. So, in the consolidated revenue, which we are seeing for Q1 FY '26, so there is a component for net gain on fair value changes, like which has spiked up a lot during the quarter from last quarter, wh ich is Q4 FY '25. So, sir, can you explain what is the reason for this increase, which we can see?
Abhinav Gupta: Sachin sir, you want to take or should I start?
Sachin Gupta: I will just start then, Abhinav , please take it. So, ma'am, the component you are seeing is a combination of two sides. One is the prop income and another is the change in the investment value of -- from the last quarter. So, as I explained earlier, because this quarter was good for overall prop business , the prop number has gone up . And as I explained, in the last quarter, there was a fair value loss of INR40 crores because of the drop in the market.
So, when that -- now that particu lar fair value is around INR16 crores. So, overall, it's a combination of two things, prop income an d change in the fair value. So, that's why the number has gone up. Abhinav, you can explain.

Abhinav Gupta: Yes. So, ma'am, thanks a lot for your question. I think the number, as you said, is the net gain in fair value changes and explained by Sachin sir is a combination of both these incomes, which is proprietary income and investment income. Proprietary income, we were doing around INR250 crores a quarter before all the regulations started happening and that number started dropping because of all the reg ulatory tightening that was happening.
And as explained on this call earlier that we have just come from the regulator headwinds. So, the proprietary income, essentially, because of the tightening in the derivative market, had dropped in the last quarter. Along with that, we also had a double impact because of the inventory loss on the investment that we had.

And as sir said, this quarter has been good in terms of both the growth of the derivative business, again, coming into the fore, where we see even at a consolidated exchange level, we now see the volumes being stable, giving some stability. And we, being pioneers in terms of the technology, are able to capture a better market share in the entire equation.
And also, we have recouped some of the inventor y losses that we had to take on the balance sheet last year. So, that's why from a quarter -on-quarter perspective, you see a very big jump.
But if you look at it from a year -on-year perspective, you would see stability into the system, essentially.
Khyati Dewani: Okay, got it. So, sir, out of this INR218 crores which is there, so how much would be for the fair value changes and how much would be for the top income?
Abhinav Gupta: Ma'am, as sir said, B2B -- yes, on a rough estimate basis, as Sachin sir said, in the last quarter, we took an impact of around INR40 crores in this line item. And of this INR40 crores, we have recouped around INR16 crores in this line item this quarter.
Khyati Dewani: Okay. So, INR16 crores would be the change -- fair value change and balance would be from prop income?
Abhinav Gupta: Yes.
Khyati Dewani: Okay. Yes. Thank you.
Moderator: Thank you. Ladies and gentlemen, this was the last question. I now hand the conference over to Mr. K amlesh Shah for the closing comments. Thank you and over to you, sir.

Kamlesh Shah: Thank you, Amit Ji. Good evening, dear investors and friends. It is my privilege to present the financial performance of our Company for s econd quarter and first half of the financial year 2025 -26. We began this financial year with focused strategy to drive disciplined growth, strengthen operational resilience and deepen customer engagement across our business. I am pleased to report that the results for Q2 and half yearly reflect solid progress on each of these fronts. Let me now walk through the detailed financial performance.
First, we shall discuss stand -alone results for Q2 25-26. The total revenue from operations stood at INR 265.20 Crores, reflecting 2.9% decline quarter -on-quarter basis. Profit before tax stands at INR 98.73 Crores and Profit after tax is INR 73.34 Crores, marking a significant increase of about 11% and 7%, respectively. Earnings per share for quarter stoo d at INR 0.35 based on face value of INR 2 per share.
Coming to half yearly performance for financial year 25-26, the revenue from operation s reached INR 538 Crores, representing 22% decline on a year -on-year basis. Profit before tax and profit after tax came in at INR 187.81 Crores and INR 142.07 Crores with year -on-year decline of about 15.8% and INR 16.65 Crores. Earnings per share for half year stood at INR 6.5 on face value of INR 2 per share, reflecting consistent value creation.

Coming to consolidated results , Quarter 2 year 2025 -26, total revenue from operations was INR 340.96 Crores, registering just 0.13% decline over the previous quarter. Conso lidated profit before tax and profit after tax stood at INR 126.46 Crores and INR 93.22 Crores, showing growth of approximately 14.24% and 10.48%, driven by performance across our group entities. Earnings per share for the quarter was INR 4.25 against -- again, based on a face value of INR 2 per share, demonstrating strong consolidated earnings.
Coming to half yearl y result for financial year 25-26, revenue from the operation reached INR 682.37 Crores, representing 21.29% decline year -on-year basis. Consolidated profit before tax and profit after tax were INR 237.16 Crores and INR 177.6 Crores, respectively, with decline of approximately 19.76% and 21.84% year -on-year basis.

If we compare with the last half year of year 2024 -25, the profit after tax was INR 100 Crores. We had earlier indicated that last 2 quarters of financial year 24-25, we will see decline in revenue and profit mainly because of regulatory changes, but we shall recover again in financial year 2026.
This has play ed to our satisfaction and profit after tax for first half of year 2025 -26 stands at INR 177 Crores, showing healthy growth of 77% over the half year -- second half of the previous year. Earnings per share for the half year came at INR 8.10 per share on a face value of INR 2. We also have declared second interim dividend of INR 0.40 per share of INR 2 each.
That comes to 20% dividend for the -- that is second interim dividend of 20% on the face value of INR 2 per share. Looking ahead, w e remain cautiously optimistic about the second half of the year, while the external environment continues to present both opportunities and challenges. We are well positioned to sustain our growth trajectory.

We will continue to focus on expanding our co re business with efficiency and discipline, accelerating digital and operational innovation, strengthening our product portfolio, deepening customer value through differentiated offering, preparing to start PMS, AIF and wealth management on priority basis.
Our strategic initiatives are progressing well, and we expect them to start delivering incremental gain in the coming quarters. In the closing, I would like to express my sincere appreciation to all the investors for their support and trust. We are confi dent in our ability to navigate the evolving business landscape and deliver on our commitments.
Our focus remains on driving long -term value creation for our shareholders, partners, employees and customers. With this, I would like to thank you all for par ticipating in this event. And now I hand over the proceeding to Mr. Sachin Ji, who will highlight the businesses of our Company. Thank you. Over to you Sachin Ji.
Sachin Gupta: Thank you, Kamlesh Sir, for the detailed presentation of the Q2 numbers. Good evening, everyone. As we all know, entire broking industry started this financial year on a very challenging note due to the lot of regulatory changes we observed and saw in the Q3 of the last financial year.

But nevertheless, we are extremely glad to see that first half of this financial year shown us consistent growth and the numbers are coming back and industry is overall stabilizing and adapting the new environment. What we h ave observed in 2 quarters that the kind of volumes which have gone down are now stabilizing. We are not seeing any reason that volumes should go further down from here. So volumes have stabilized. And we believe in coming quarters, more participation will come in and things will be much better what they were earlier.
But with this new environment, as Kamlesh Sir said, we see new opportunities, and w ill try to establish ourselves to grab those opportunities in the current environment. Like I just want t o highlight some points like MTF, we are talking since last 2 investor calls. So , MTF book by the end of quarter 2 was around INR 430-odd crores, which saw a growth of 35% to 40% quarter -on-quarter basis.
So that's another revenue stream, whi ch added to our portfolio and gave us more stability and help us in maintaining the overall numbers. MTF is a core reason that we saw that profit margin has gone up. PAT margin is now 27% in this quarter. So , MTF is primarily the reason of that. PMS, as explained in t he last investor call, PMS license was obtained from the SEBI.

And now the team has been hired, office is in place and everything is set. So , we are going to launch our first fund in November its elf. So that's a new venture from Share India side, like wealth is the new generation thing, PMS, AIF, all these things. So PMS is the first step towards our wealth products. So Share India is glad to enter into this area. And we believe in co ming years, PMS will also give good returns and more visibility and stability.
And on the broking side, our focus is more on the broking plus wealth. So we are focusing on quality research. Already a good research team is there, but still improving them and trying to engage with the delivery -based research, helping the investors to share the good ideas of investing in the market.
So research is the major thing where we are focusing and the focus is on selling the third -party wealth products with the broking products. So we have started opening some branches covering some areas like we have recently opened two offices, one in Indore, one in Bhopal . So Madhya Pradesh is our next goal where from these two offices, we'll try to cover the maximum area in Madhya Pradesh.
And another few states which -- where we are actually looking to open our offices is Maharashtra, Gujarat, Uttar Pradesh, especia lly Eastern Uttar Pradesh like Gorakhpur, Lucknow, Kanpur and Rajasthan. So these are the some states where we are planning to open our direct offices in next 1 year. And the broking and the third -party wealth products will be the core goal. So that will again help us in diversifying the overall revenue portfolio and giving us some more stability.
So future projections, as last investor call, we talked about Project Drone, Prabhakar joined us for the new WealthTech so we believe that the development on that side is tech team has been hired, product team has been hired. They are working on the project. So they are working on the MVP.

So first MVP should be launched in the quarter 4 of this financial year. A nd from next financial year, Project Drone will be up and running, and we'll see the complete online focus on broking and wealth products also via Project Drone and leading by the Prabhakar Tiwari. MTF, the goal is to reach minimum four figure, INR 1,000 Crores AUM by December '27. This is the core idea in mind.
So, this is how we are trying to getting into more NCDs and engaging with the more NBFCs so that this will help us in achieving the INR 1,000 Crores AUM in MTF. So quality research, opening new branches, all these things will help in getting to these numbers. So MTF, INR 1,000 Crores is a number we are targeting. This will give us major boost on the retail side.
Once we start MTF, it has many indirect revenue benefits also. AIF is also on cards. It may take some time. But yes, once the PMS will be launched, the next step is AIF, our own products will also be launched. Silverleaf, as we explained in the last investor call, SEBI approval was received. Now the file has been moved to NCLT.
So next financial year, Silverleaf will also be merged and the revenue will start coming from Silverleaf also. So these are the forthcoming projects, Project Drone, Silverleaf, AI F, Wealth and MTF. These are the new initiatives we are focusing, which will start showing some results from the next financial year itself.
And some initiatives we have taken and we got the Board approval for two things which I want to explain to the investors here. We got the Board approva l for the FCCB up to $50 million. So FCCB will primarily help us in working capital and managing our fund requirement and also the cost of FCCB will be much lower than what we are doing now. And that will help us in pushing our MTF proje cts as fast as possible.
And another is Share India Grey Hill. So as -- the whole thought process of the management is diversifying into the different verticals. So we see that on and off, we are trying to venture into the new projects like Project Drone, PMS, MTF, so many things we are doing since last 1.5 years.

But we were away from the debt markets and debt markets are growing great in India. This environment is very positive for debt markets like falling interest rates and growing SME industry. Overall SME is growing, interest rates are falling. This is a favorable market scenario for the debt players, but we are hardcore equity guys. We have just got the approval for Share India Grey Hill.
This Company will be primarily working for the debt products. And Keshav will be the pers on who will take this Company forward, focusing on all the bond market, debt market. This is all from my side.
Now I will hand over to Keshav. Keshav will explain about the plans of Share India and Grey Hill Company about the debt market. Thanks. Thank you very much. Keshav, over to you.

Keshav Goyal: Everyone. [I'm Keshav Goyal from Grey Hill Capi tal. I'd like to share what we are building together with Share India and why we are so excited about it. The idea is to expand Share India's footprint into the fast -growing fixed income space by building a scalable platform for credit products.
Over the las t decade, investor demand for high -yield investments have exploded, and we see a big opportunity to capture this in a structured way. The timing couldn't be better. Over the last decade, the market has tripled to over INR 226 Lakh Crores. Corporate bonds hit a new record of INR 9.9 Lakh Crores in the financial year 2025. But even with this growth, we are at only 20% of global averages, which leaves us with massive room for expansion.
For us, debt capital market isn't just another vertical. We see this as the next logical step in Share India's financial ecosystem. We will be combining origination, trading and distribution under one platform to offer a complete fixed income capability. Since the model is largely IFA -led, it naturally supports bond distribut ion and mutual product cross -sell.
It's a business that deepens retail engagement and expands the client base orga nically. And this is where GreyH ill Capital comes in. We bring in deep market expertise and proven track record, the perfect complement to Sh are India's brand strength and distribution reach. We bring connect experience and an ARR of INR 200 Crores, so we know what works and how to scale sustainably.
Looking ahead, we are targeting a top line of INR 800 Crores to INR 1,000 Crores strategically scaled over the next 3 to 4 years with net margins ranging from 1.5% to 2%. A big part of this margin boost will come in from in -house origination capability and a strong retail focus. On the risk side, we are being proactive by setting up in ternal committees, building a secondary desk to improve turnaround time and keeping our governance standards aligned with Share India.

Overall, this partnership is about bringing together Grey Hill's expertise and Share India's platform to ride a very big structural wave in the credit space. We genuinely believe this can become a highly scalable, steady growth business, one that is not only diversified Share India's revenue, but also places it right at the center of India's credit market evolution. Thank yo u. We can now open the floor for Q&A from the participants.
Moderator: Thank you very much. We will now begin with the question and answer session. The first question i s from the line of Rohan Mehta who is an Individual Investor . Please go ahead.
Rohan Mehta: Hi, Good evening! I just wanted to ask -- some color if you could give on how the volatility has been in the market and the share of retail participation in terms of our broking volumes, if you could give some c olor on that, please?

Kamlesh Shah: Yes, Sachin Ji.
Sachin Gupta: Yes. So you're asking about the overall retail participation in the industry or specifically ?
Rohan Mehta: Overall, how the volatility has impacted us and in terms of our broking volumes, how the retail participation has been?

Sachin Gupta: So I tell you, we are seeing the low falling volume market scenario. So derivative bets have gone down , dependence on the derivative revenues have gone down. So people have shifted their focus more on the in vestment side, maybe short -term investments using some leveraged facilities. And also , traction is more on the third -party wealth products also, especially on structured AIF.
So yes, it has impacted us. That's why the numbers are down from year -on-year basis. But as I said in my presentation that now we believe that whatever we were expecting has happened, we are not expecting much larger changes from the regulator in coming 2 quarters. So things have stabilized and think -- volum e should not go down from here. And focus is more on the cash market bets and better research and MTF.
Abhinav Gupta: And also, I would like to add within this that amongst the derivative as well, I think the drop has more or less stabilized at least for the options market. And the commodity market has been a real support. I think in the last couple of quarters, commodity market has come up real ly well Rohan Mehta: And Sir, do you see any threats down the line in terms of competition and consolidation in the market, especially for broking or fintech in general?
Abhinav Gupta: See, from -- Sir, I'll start on this. Sachin Sir, then you can add on to it.
Sachin Gupta: Yes.
Abhinav Gupta: See, from a threat perspective, as we have repeatedly said in our con calls and even in this call, from the regulator perspective, we believe that there is a lot of stability now. Whatever the regulations that were announced last year have more or less pla ced out and all the business models have readjusted themselves to the new reality.
And from a volatility perspective, I think it has more or less played out in terms of threats for that matter now. And coming to consolidation, see, consolidation is an ong oing activity in the entire competitive landscape such as broking in India. That has been the scenario for last 4, 5 years, and we believe that this feature will continue in the industry landscape as well.
Rohan Mehta: Okay. I see. Sir, speaking of regulat ory environment regulations pertaining to algo trading or norms around the margin, do you see that as a prospective pain point? Or are we comfortable on those basis?
Abhinav Gupta: I think market has adjusted to the new reality in th is matter. Whatever announcements were made starting from September last year and up to the first quarter of this financial year, I think mostly all the clients and the brokers have adjusted. And further on, we don't see any pain point arising from these m atters. At least that would be our internal opinion.
Rohan Mehta: Got it. Sir, just last couple of points, if you could share. In terms of technology -driven services, do you see increasing contribution from tech -enabled services for us over the next 3, 4 y ears?
And do we have a sort of a budget in terms of our investments in technology?

Sachin Gupta: Yes, we see that tech play will be there in coming years. Already tech is playing the larger role.
And Share India has a capability and the group companies within the group where the teams have the capacity and the capability to develop the tech in -house and customize as per the requirement of the company and the customers.

So we believe i n coming years, tech is going to play the larger role and WealthTech, that Project Drone where Prabhakar is workin g is completely based on the tech itself. And as far as budget is concerned, luckily, we already have three large tech companies as part of th e group and existing teams are helping and they are capable of delivering all these products.

And we believe we'll have edge over the industry that will have our own team delivering all the customized products for us and for the clients. So we are focusing more on the tech -enabled services for the clients in coming future.

Rohan Mehta: Got it, Sir. Fair enough. Just a last question from my end. In terms of all the recent acquisitions that we've done and the listing of our subsidiaries. So by when do you se e synergies completely flowing in from all of these initiatives? And if you could give even a ballpark guidance for the entire year, that would be great, Sir.

Sachin Gupta: Yes, Abhinav, do you want to start and I will.

Abhinav Gupta: Yes, I'll start, Sir, and then you can take it up. So in terms of recent acquisitions, the subsidiaries are including institutional equities or maybe investment banking, insurance b roking, NBFC and every other subsidiary is currently at a nascent stage. We believe that there is a lot of scope for growth in all these subsidiaries as of right now. Currently, there is no proposal in terms of any value unlocking that's there on the table.

So as far as synergies is concerned, we are already seeing some sort of benefits reaping in through because of being a holistic player where we can cater to clients in a 360 -degree way where we offer not only our investment banking services, but also offer our insurance broking services and possibly with the engagement of AIF, PMS services and a long with the tech -driven wealth management or NCD -related debt -related instruments coming in from Share India Grey Hill.

All these synergies will accrue to the bottom line that essentially has already started playing out. But having said that, all th ese processes work at their own pace. As of right now, the focus is to grow further into the retail area. As Sachin Sir said, in the last couple of quarters, we have really focused to make our presence felt in retail areas in special locations, inc luding Indore, Ko lkata and the trading hubs of innovation . And that process will continue and synergies will continue to accrue as and when they do.

Sachin Gupta: Also I want to add something here. See, as we explained in the presentation, Share India is becoming a full -fledged financial services company. So let us suppose there is a corporate. We are helping them with the merchant banking services. If they want to get list, we are helping them for the listing. We can offer the insurance to that the same co rporate. We can also help them with the debt raising like NCDs and debt from other sources.

So once the client is in, we have so many verticals with all the professionals -- running all these verticals, we can help them end -to-end financial requirement of the client. So we believe a lot of synergies are there because total focus -- we are not defocusing at all from our core. Total focus is on financial services. And like as I said, we have 3 tech companies in our kitty. So all these guys are helping us in providing all the possible solutions to the existing clients.

Rohan Mehta: Got it, Sir. That's very helpful, Sir. Would you like to give any guidance for the year in terms of top line and margins?

Sachin Gupta: Sir, again, highly confidential, but we believe we -- Abhinav, you continue.

Abhinav Gupta: Yes. So Sir, as stated in earlier calls as well, we believe that the margins should stabilize from current levels, given that what we are investing in terms of technology and human resource and the stabil ity that has come into the market, we believe that the margins should stabilize somewhere around near current levels. And we continue t o operate in an environment where we continue to seek further additional new opportunities as and when they arise .

Mod erator: The next question is from the line of Mayank Sara f who is an Individual Investor .

Mayank Saraf: So I heard your presentation regarding FCCBs. Could you explain it a bit further in a broad manner l ike what are we using it for?

Sachin Gupta: So, we are seeing a lot of growth on the client services side. For that, you need funds like we are spending money on branches. We need more working capital to fund the clients. We need funds for maybe MTF , maybe for derivative trading for the clients or so many things for bank guarantees and all.

So FCCBs will help us with the low -cost funding from the foreign institutions. And also, that kind of money, once it will come in, it will -- like it might be 10 years bond. So long -term fund at low cost will fuel -- will help us in taking our growth forward and especially on MTF and the retail projects.

And FCCB, we are also planning to reducing the debt cost, overall debt cost of funds to the company. If we get the funds , partial funds will be used for the growth and partial we might use to drop the cost of funding to the Company . So overall, it will help in improving the margin at the bottom line and also increasing the business. So we'll try to make such a balance between the better margins and the business growth.
Mayank Saraf: Okay. And the second question from my side is, like what are your future plans for next 2 to 3 years, like on the prop side, retail side, e tcetera?
Sachin Gupta: So future plans, as I explained in the presentation, on the prop side, Silverleaf, we believe we will get the NCLT approval maybe in the next 3 months or 4 months, depending on the NCLT. So once we get this Silverleaf profit will sta rt coming into our kitty. So that will enhance our profit numbers on the prop side.

But the larger focus is on now client services. So wealth, we are super bullish in the next 10 years. India will be moving, these Gen Z will be moving towards n ew wealth products, especially AIF, PMS. They are not looking for mutual funds. They are looking for the structured funds, maybe debt products, maybe ARC, maybe equity, AIF structured funds, start -up funds and all these things and also PMS.
So we are very bullish on the wealth products, our own products and third -party products, both. So there, you will see from next year, total focus will be on selling wealth products along with the broking. That's why we are spreading all these branches into the differen t states of the country. And second area is MTF. As I said, our target is minimum 4 figure, INR 1,000 Crores book by December '27, next 2 years.
So that's our core goal. If we'll be able to deliver all these things in the next 2 years, then Company will be very strong footed, diversified and margins will improve and then we'll be able to encash on the overall growth story of the country. So these are the three areas we are focusing on. And especially on the tech side, like Project Drone, I said, Project Drone will be totally online broking, online wealth.
That will be also like -- we are also going offline and online both parallelly. So we are very bullish on uTrade Algos where that is also kind of wealth product. We'll be using a lot of AI facilities, helping clients in their investment decisions, all these things. So you will see Company is in very advanced stage in terms of tech usage, in terms of product offering and other things. So wealth, MTF and online broking, Project Dr one will be the core focus areas in coming years.
Mayank Saraf: So how many clients do we have on uTrade Algos if you have a rough number?
Sachin Gupta: Abhinav?
Abhinav Gupta: So we would have around 2,000 -plus daily users on uTrade Algo s. Apart from that , most of our reta il people have started using uTrade Algos as well. We are also working behind the scene to make a combined structured -- combined app. And going forward, all the uTrade services would be offered within a single application as well. So tha t would enhance the number of users who are using it on a daily basis. And all the Share India broking clients will automatically become clients of uTrade as well.

Mayank Saraf: And the branches that we were talking about are opening in Madhya Pradesh, Maharashtra. So when can we see those opening like within the next year?
Sachin Gupta: Yes, Indore and Bhopal has already started operations. And in next 12 months, we'll be covering Maharashtra like Aurangabad, Pune and Nagpur, smaller parts of Maharashtr a and Gujarat, Surat, Rajkot, Baroda all the se parts of Gujarat, UP and Rajasthan. So next 12 months, you will see at least 12 b ranches coming in within these four states.
Moderator: The next question is from the line of Satvik from Jefferies.
Satvik: Cong ratulations on a good set of sequential results. Just starting on the MTF side, we are seeing discount brokers turning aggressive recently. And so just wanted to know, does this put pressure on our yields in any way? For instance, a couple of days back, on e of our peers, they dropped their yields substantially, and they have a similar book size to ours, and they have a similar target as well. So just wante d to know your thoughts on this?

Abhinav Gupta: Sachin Sir, you want to start or...
Sachin Gupta: So definitely, there will be pressure from the larger brokers , like they have started offering MTF at a better price. So that's why we moved for FCCB, and we are constantly looking to reduce our cost of funds. And we want to be cooperative in the market. We just don't want to sit idle and looking for the local options only. And that's why we presented to the Board yesterday to give us the approval and our Board just approved up to $50 million kind of fund raise from FCCB. So that's the primarily reason that, as I already said in one question that the partial funds will be used in reducing the cost and partially will be used to enhance the business. So we are on the toes and extremely aware about the competition and even ROI . So how we look at MTF business? It's not only about the interest we are creating,

It's also about the broking we are getting from the clients in the particular segment. So combining both, I think, we'll be able to match the IRR the other brokers are off ering. And if somehow we get FCCB funds, that will make us more competitive in the market. And we believe that going further, we are aware about the challenges and we'll be head on with them and that will not be a big deal for us.

Abhinav Gupt a: Yes. So I'll add on to it. Satvik, you're absolutely right that given that the industry is moving towards the lending side, there can be some sort of pressure in terms of the yield that comes across to the broker. But having said that, we are working on a 3-pronged strategy to counter that.

Number one, as Sachin Sir already explained, we are trying to constantly reduce our cost of funds, number one. Number two, we are trying to make our presence felt in the locations where we are currently not present a nd where we believe that the market is expanding very rapidly. And most of the brokers who might be offering at a lower rate would have a thin presence in those areas or are offering at a comparatively higher rate because they are going through a certain distribution channel, and hence, we are trying to expand into that area.

And third is what we are focusing is that we are trying to offer through a bouquet of services where we are not only focused on MTF, but trying to offer other consolidated services to the client as well, which add on to the IRR that we eventually generate as a compa ny from the client.

Given all these factors, and along with it, the kind of growth that we anticipate this industry to have in terms of especially MTF, w e believe that the market size will grow much larger than what the capital inflow would be. And hence, we believe that the IRR from current levels should not have any meaningful drop, and we should only be able to sustain or grow from these IRR levels curr ently.

Satvik : Got it. Very clear. Just on the regulatory front, are we in any ongoing conversations with the regulator around what that thought process is on weekly option expiries?

Sachin Gupta: Kamlesh, Sir, please, can you answer this? Kamlesh Sir, can you answer this?

Kamlesh Shah: See, on regulatory part, even yesterday's statement and today's statement, if you see, I mean, they will go through consultative process, and they are not very keen to see that we --- aggressively they implement something . So they also realize the liquidity requirement of the market. And to our opinion, it is more of a media hype than the regulatory action.

And in fact, there will be some changes, which will be good for the industry, and that will again leave scope for mor e product s to be developed and to be offered maybe on a weekly or fortnightly basis.

In addition to that, more exchanges are also coming up. They have got equity license. So there will be more products offering. And we will see better growth opportunity g oing forward. I don't see immediate threat of withdrawal of any of the weekly option contracts as of now. Sachin, you can add if you want to something.

Sachin Gupta: Sir, I think you have explained it really well. But as of now, there is no discussion on t he weekly side from the regulator point of view. This is purely media hype and regulator is constantly watching that volumes are going down, and they are watching that -- but they are not discussing anything with the brokers at all. So we cannot comment on it much or more than that.

Satvik: Got it. But there were some media reports also on the fact that brokers are recommending something like a product suitability framework. Do you think that route is something that could be?

Sachin Gupta: Yes. So our brokers association are saying that rather than reducing the expiries, so Bank Nifty was the darling of all the products. So Bank Nifty volumes have totally been down after being into monthly contracts. So people are saying, why don't you bring Bank Nifty back in?

And if SEBI is more concerned about the losses incurred by the small retailers, then they should bring in the product suitability or entry barrier where smaller people can be kept out of the derivative area and they should be motivated more to focus on investment side. If you look at the contract sizes in the larger markets in U.S., U.K. and others, their contract size is far, far bigger.

And even in Singapore, product suitability is there. They restrict smaller players to enter into the derivative market, but the derivative market is very much open so that people who have knowledge about the derivative market, they can trade. So brokers are urging SEBI, if you want to -- if you're con cerned about the losses by the small retailers, then bring in product suitability but open the market for the more innovative products and bring in back the Bank Nifty.

Abhinav Gupta: Satvik, to be honest, what Sachin says, this is an ongoing process where the regulators and the industry participants continue to engage. And as of right now, there is no clarity on this matter. As and when it arises, we'll be more than happy to share those with you.

Satvik: Sure, Sir. Makes sense. Just following up, are you seeing the regulator shift its focus on promoting the commodities market in particular? And do you see space

in this segment given as of now, it's just one that is dominant ?
Kamlesh Shah: Sachin, you can answer better.
Sachin Gupta: Sorry, sorry, there was some issue in my signal. Can you please come again?
Satvik: Sure, sure. So just following up on the regulatory front. Are you seeing the SEBI shift its focus on promoting the co mmodities market in particular o r do you s ee space for multiple exchanges in this segment, given right now, there's just one dominant exchange?
Sachin Gupta: See, SEBI again, Sir, this is question for the SEBI. So we can only give you a little insight. So SEBI's job is to develop the overall marke t, correct? And in India, commodities have not seen a major growth in the last so many years. But particularly from this financial year, we are seeing a lot of traction in the commodity side. MCX volumes are up.
Even from Share India perspective, our volu mes are up at least by 20% on a quarter -to-quarter basis. So that's giving much better opportunity for the market participants, brokers, investors to trade in the gold, silver and other commodities. And as NSE is also in for commodities now with crude and NG and other products.
So we believe commodity has a lot of scope of future growth. And with more exchanges coming in, yes, that's the case, always MCX is right now dominant exchange, but NSE is much larger exchange. So with their experience and their inf rastructure, once they are in, so business will be there for like NSE and MCX and maybe other exchanges also. But yes, we see good growth in commodity business in coming years.
Satvik : Sure, Sir. Very clear. Just the last one from my sid e. What is the progress on the MSE investment? Are there any near -term plans?
Sachin Gupta: For what, MSEI investment?
Satvik: Yes, Sir.
Sachin Gupta: You're asking for plans? What plans means?
Satvik: What are the near -term plans?
Sachin Gupta: For MSEI ?
Satvik: Yes.
Kamlesh Shah: Metropolitan Exchange.
Sachin Gupta: Okay. So see, we have limited to do on that part, that's just an investment. So we are waiting for them to launch their cash market, then derivatives and slowly gradually openi ng up the entire exchange for the entire market. So as per the last communication, they are working on the cash market side. But we all are waiting for the first launch from their side, like they have just changed their data center, now new tech is in plac e.

All other things, so many things are going on with them. So we believe soon -- very soon, they will bring the cash market for the entire market. Then let's see how things will progress at their end. They are a very competitive team and working very har d with all the brokers and we believe that MSE I should start working very soon.
Satvik : Great Sir.
Kamlesh Shah: I would like to add here is that with the second round of -- I mean, second round of divestment, they have covered almost all the big brokers. So participation is going to be better and that may also help them to develop the products that they are planning. Thank you.
Moderator: The next question is from the line of Prisha Shah, who is an Individual Investor .
Prisha Shah : Congratulations on the good set of numbers. So I do have a couple of questions. So specifically on the AI. I just want to know how are we leveraging the AI and automation within the trading and other operations related to the risk management scenario?
Sachin Gupta: Abhin av?
Abhinav Gupta: Yes, so I'll start on it, and then Sachin Sir and Kamlesh Sir can add on to it. So both these AI matter are in terms of trading and in terms of operational efficiencies are being led internally as we have very clearly said that we have 3 tech companies led by professionals graduated from reputed institutes in India. They are leading this initiative for us. In terms of trading -

- AI being used in trading, we have already initiated in uTrade Algos, a lot of AI -related products. And the p ipeline in terms of AI -related strategies for the retail clientele is very strong, and you will see continuous improvement over there. I think we are pioneers as and when it comes to AI - related strategies in terms of either screening or in terms of trading strategy by the virtue of uTrade Algos as being a complete in -house product.

In terms of operational efficiencies, it's a continuous process. There are certain operational points where we have started using -- or we have started enhancing our internal pr otocols, especially in terms of CRM or data mining or in terms of other operational efficiencies where we are using AI.

But that's a very gradual process because there's a lot of development that needs to be done in terms of tech stack over there. In term s of trading, we are super bullish when it comes to AI being there for the retail clientele to invest into the markets, and we have already launched products to that effect in the market.

Prisha Shah : Okay, Sir. Understood. Just one more on the competition and industry perspective. Just wanted to know what are your views on the evolving regulatory environment around the broking and specifically on the algo trading norms, which is taking place in the industry currently?

Sachin Gupta: So Abhinav, s hould I start?

Abhinav Gupta: Sure, Sir, Sir. Please go ahead.

Sachin Gupta: So Ma'am, as we said that regulatory challenges are there, but I think broadly stabilized. We all are waiting for the final guidelines from the SEBI for the algo trading. But as SEBI has already laid down the basic guidelines for the retailer to participat e in the algo trading. So we believe SEBI is very forward -looking regulator.

So once they will come up with the final guidelines, it will open an opportunity for people like us and our fellow brokers to offer the algo trading platform for the retailers. T hat will also enhance the volumes, and that will also ensure that people will not lose money recklessly in the market because of lack of the tech they can use.

So rest, as far as everyone is concerned in this industry, we have to adapt and change accordin g to the regulatory requirements. And with the kind of infra and knowledge and experience we have, we are quite capable of handling all these changes. But in the brighter view and the larger view, India is going to grow in next 10 years.

Obviously, behavi or will change, like if you go 20 years back, people were not keen to invest in mutual funds. Then the one generation came, they didn't invest in the FDs. So the flows started coming in the mutual funds. Now we know how our mutual fund industry has seen th e changes. Likewise, we believe next generation is more keen on AIF and PMS of the world. So yes, environment will change. India, -- we all are bullish on India. We have to go with the flow with the changing environment. But all the regulatory challenges, changes, I have personally believed are always positive in the longer run.

In shorter run, you might feel challenges because you are not used to certain things. But in longer run, they are useful and regulator core goal is the safety of the overall industry. So this is from my side on your question. Kamlesh Sir and Abhinav can add.

Abhinav Gupta : I think that sums up from our side as well, Sir. Kamlesh Sir, you want to add?

Kamlesh Shah: Sachin Sir has explained everything in a most professional way. In short, the AI and algo will be used for -- not only for trading but for co mpliance and for risk management and everything. And people are getting adopted to the technology. Share India is always pioneer in terms of algo trading and technology -based solutions. And we are taking all the steps to see that we remain effec tive and we provide t he best services to our client. And with the retail initiative, the initiative for MTF, PMS and Project Drone, we will have larger scope for expanding our operations. Thank you.

Prisha Shah : Okay. Thank you, Sir. That was all from my side and once again congratulations on the good set of numbers. Thank you so much.

Moderator: Thank you. A s there are no further questions from the participants, I now hand the conference over to Mr. Kamlesh Shah for closing commen ts.

Kamlesh Shah: I would like to thank all the participants. The questions asked were very relevant. This does help us also thinking about improvement in the functioning as well as thinking about new product and new ways of offering product to the clients. And we also would like to thank all the investors for the trust and support and we will make all the efforts to see that we come true to your expectation. And with this, I would like to thank again all the participants. Thank you very much.
Moderator: On behalf of Share India Securities Limited, that concludes this conference. Thank you for joining us and you may now disconnect your lines.
Sachin Gupta: Thank you very much. Thank you, everyone.
Abhinav Gupta: Thank you.
Sachin Gupta: Thank you .

Kamlesh Shah: Yes. Thank you, Hena madam. Good evening. It is my privilege to present Financial Performance of our Company for 3rd Quarter Financial Year 2 025- '26.
The Indian capital market outlook for year 2026 remain s cautiously optimistic despite under performance in year 2025 . And recent volatility with analyst

forecasting double -digit return driven by earning recovery and supportive policies. Benchmark indices like Nifty and Sensex are rebounding from the recent dips.

 Key forecast :
Supported by GDP growth estimate of 7.4% to 8.2% and robust domestic inflows, long -term model suggests even higher averages with upside potential and consolidation. Free Trade Agreement with EU and other countries will diversify exp ort initiative s. Union Budget may also provide momentum to the economy.
Policy support :
Reserve Bank of India's repo rate stands at 5.25% after 25 basis point cut in December 2025, providing liquidity and easing cost while maintaining a neutral stance. SEBI reforms are easing FPI assets and deepening market, along with RBI's push for domestic -led capital stability, reducing FPI dependence.
Market drivers :
Strong macro economy, tailwind include earning rebound in IT, consumer sector and credit growth, plus government initiatives l ike tax cut, domestic SIP and DII buying offsetting FII selling is bolstering resilience.
Risks ahead :
Short -term range -bound trading purchase due to global trade tensions, FI I outflow and muted IPO activity, inflation edging up may delay further rate cuts, capping upside for the near term.
We began this financial year with a focused strategy to drive disciplined growth, strengthen operational resilience and deepen customer engagement across all our businesses. I am pleased to report that the results for Quarter 3 reflect solid progress in our standalone performance, although consolidated results were comparatively lower for the quarter.
Now let me walk through the detailed financial performance.
First, we will discuss standalone results :
Quarter 3 Financial Year 2 025-'26:
The total revenue from operations stood at Rs. 305 crores, reflecting year -on-year increase of around 18%. Profit before tax was at Rs. 107 crores, and profit after tax was Rs. 81 crores , making significant increase of 34 % and 35%, respectively, on year -on-year basis. Earnings per share for the quarter on a standalone basis stood at Rs. 3.69 based on face value of Rs. 2 per share.
Now we shall come to consolidated results for Quarter 3 Financial Year 2025-26:
Total revenue from the operations was Rs. 372 crores, reflecting year -on-year increase of about 9%. Consolidated profit before tax and profit after tax stood at Rs. 122.35 crores and Rs. 89 crores, reflecting an increase of approximately 9.32% and 8%, resp ectively, on a year -on-year basis. Earnings per share for the quarter stood at Rs. 4.06 based on the face value of Rs. 2 per share. We have also declared a third interim dividend of Rs. 0.40 per share , that comes to around 20% on the face value.

Net worth on a consolidated basis stands at Rs. 2,600 crores plus. Debt equity ratio is comfortable at 0.24%. Current ratio is at 2.12x. Operating profit margin stands at 43% and net profit margin at 24%.
Looking ahead :
We remain cautiously optimistic about the 4th Quarter of the year. While external environment continues to present both opportunities and challenges, we are well positioned to sustain our growth trajectory. We shall continue to focus on foray into debt markets through our subsidiary, expanding commodity trading, expanding our core busin ess with efficiency and discipline, accelerating digital and operational innovation, strengthening our product portfolio by adding PMS, MTF and market making skills, focus on retail business and wealth management. Our strategic initiatives are progressing well, and we expect them to start delivering incremental gain in coming quarters.
In closing, I would like to express my sincere appreciation for your continued trust and support. We are confident in our ability to dedicate the evolving business landscape and deliver on our commitments.

Our focus remains on driving long -term value creation for our shareholders, partners, employees and customers. Thank you once again for attending this meet in large number.
Over to you, Sachin, for further commentary. Thank you.
Sachin Gupta: Thank you, Kamlesh sir, for the details you shared about the Q3 of this financial year and future prospects and where we are focusing.
I will just give a brief about the numbers in different departments and where we are focusing ahead and the new initiatives taken by the Company in this quarter. So, thank you, everyone, for joining us for Q3 FY '26 performance.
First of all, I would like to share my satisfaction that overall industry has stabilized, especially this sect or. And now after the brief downside we have seen in last quarter, especially last financial year, after that we have seen a steady growth or may be a stabilization in the industry, and that gives us more encouragement. Going further, it gives us more room to experiment and look for new verticals to grow.
So, market participation is also improving. Slowly volumes have started going up now. And we t hink that we have crossed the worst period and not up, but at least stabilization, we can definitely see. We are quite hopeful that we have seen good three quarters as industry -wise. We are hopeful that Quarter 4 should also be better than the previous three quarters or maybe we will do something good in Quarter 4 .
So, what numbers have changed in Quarter 3 , I will just explain those numbers.
So, MTF book has increased marginally by 3% quarter -to-quarter. It was Rs. 443 crores in Quarter 2 , which have gone up to Rs. 457 crores. I would say it's not only a marginal increase, but we have seen that market was very volatile and shaky, especially in the last quarter, especially small cap and mid -cap stocks have seen a lot of value erosion in this quarter.
But s till, our sales team, I should give credit to the sales team and the entire retail team that they have worked really hard to maintain the MTF numbers ; and rather maintaining, we have seen an increase of 3% on a quarter -to-quarter Page 4 of 11 basis even after the extre mely volatile market. And ADTO, average daily turnover, has gone up from Rs. 7,500 crores in Quarter 2 to Rs. 9,700 crores in Quarter 3 . That's really a big jump, Rs. 2,200 crores, ADTO's jump from Quarter 2 to Quarter 3 .
This is a 29% increase in ADTO i n Quarter 3 . That's what I was just mentioning that I believe that after the stabilization, volumes have started growing up, and we are hopeful that now the base has been set. And going further, we will see better time for this entire financial sector. And as Kamlesh sir explained, commodity has played a vital role in this ADTO and going further, we believe like the gold, silver and all the metals are volatile, retailers and the creditors interest in com modities have increased . And we believe that going further, commodity will also show good numbers. It will help in the growth of the overall business.
Coming back to the broking clients :
As we all know, as markets are volatile and dormant accounts are goi ng down and number of clients is not increasing at all. But net clientage has not decreased at least on a quarter -to-quarter basis. We have seen an 1% increase in the number of active clients in Share India overall equities from Quarter 2 to Quarter 3 . Again, I will give credit to the entire retail team that they have worked really hard to add a lot of new clients because clients who are stopping their accounts is more these days . But after so much effort on the ground, we were able to at least maintain, an d we are able to see a bit of growth in the number of active clients from Quarter 2 to Quarter 3 .

And on institutional client base side, I would say that's a really encouraging number. So, we have seen a 13% growth in active clients in the institutional side from 154 to 174, it's a growth of 20. More institutions have empaneled as their broker. And that's really encouraging. So, even after the operation of only two years in the IC desk, we have now 174 institutions active with us. This is a really fairly large number. And again, kudos to the entire institutional team led by Mr. Kalpesh Parek h. So, 13% increase in the active number of institutions from Quarter 2 to Quarter 3 basis. This is an overall view of the business in Quarter 3 , what challenges we have faced and on which side business has grown.

Now I just want to show some light on the future projects we are working on. And also , some initiatives we have just taken.

So, coming back to the future projects :

So, wealth, as we are explaining since last two quarters, wealth is a core area where we are extremely hopeful and we are working very hard to crack this. And I hope next financial year, all the planning has been done, recruitment is still in place, still some fairly midsized managers have been appointed and execution plan is on the table now. So, I believe from the Q1 of next financial year, we will see that the wealth management team will be on the ground. And next financial year we see good numbers coming from the distribution of third - party products.

And also on PMS side, yes, there is some delay in PMS because of some compliance issues. And PMS any time, next 10 to 15 days, PMS will be launched. And once that PMS part is done . AIF, we have applied for the license and the new Company formed called Share India Wealth Multiplier Solutions Private Limited. So , a new AIF license, it actually has been applied in Share India Wealth Multiplier Solutions P rivate Limited. This Company is a wholly owned subsidiary of Share India.

So, this Company will take care about , this is the first AIF we are launching. Going further, more will come. And so here we will manufacture all our products and distribution team will also distributing these products along with the third -party products. So, wealth management side distribution will kick start from next financial year . Even you can see AIF and also PMS , we will see some traction or some numbers coming from the AIF a nd PMS side also. This is for the wealth management side.

And one more Company has been formed. I explained in the last con call Share India Greyhill Partnership for the debt market. So , taking it forward, a Company has been formed , Company is called Shar e India Cred Capital Private Limited. It is a subsidiary of the Share India Securities. This Company has been incorporated on 6th January 2026. So, this will be a technology -driven fixed income investment distribution platform, led by the Goyal family. The y presented their part in the last con call. So, taking ahead the Greyhill partnership, so the Company has been formed. And again, this Company will be operational from the Q1 of the next financial year.

So, next year you will see a lot of new initiatives will start showing some ground like AIF, PMS, wealth distribution and Share India Cred Capital also will be operational from the next financia l year.

Going further , I would like to explain about Silverleaf :

So, Silverleaf, as I explained last quarter, SEBI approvals were received. And again, things are in NCLT. So, they are in advanced stage, so we believe NCLT approval should come by end of th is quarter. So, Silverleaf merger will happen next financial year, that will also add to the numbers of the Share India in next financial year. That is a big thing we all are looking forward. So, that will give us, again, more revenues from the different s treams by the highly professionally trained traders.

So, next financial year, we are hopeful that a lot of new initiatives will take place, and they will start showing results. Also, as I explained in last con call that we have plans of branch expansion.

Again, that branch expansion plan we are still working on and we will start with five pilot branches and locations we are in discussion. So , from April onwards we will start all these branches at five different locations, again, Q1 next financial year.

So, next financial year what initiatives primarily we are looking at, AIF, PMS, Wealth, Silverleaf, Share India Cred Capital , and Branch network expansion will start from the next financial year, primarily targeting the retailers in Tier-3 cities and looking for the possibilities to expand the MTF book with the distribution of wealth products.
So, these are the initiatives we are hav ing in mind . And going further, we believe a Company like Share India will be able to see new heights of growth in next financial year as a lot of new initiatives are coming in. And we are hopeful that Share India is keeping a great control on the current business. And everything is intact , team is doing really hard work and motivated. And we hope that numbers will start showing results on the positive side from the next financial year, especially from the Q1.
I think that's it from my side, sir.
Page 6 of 11 Moderator : Thank you very much. We will now begin the question -and-answer session.
The first question is from the line of Harsh, an individual investor.
Harsh: Thank you for the opportunity. So, I have a few questions on the NBFC vertical . So, what is the reason fo r continuous decline in NIMs over the last few years?
Abhinav Gupta: So, as we have been very continuously saying that initially we were doing a lot of unsecured lending in Tier 2, Tier 3 towns when we were growing that book in Fiscal Year ' 23, Fiscal Year ' 24. Within the span of Fiscal Year ' 24, we moved towards a secured boo k, which currently contributes around 40% of the book. And as the industry practice is, in secured book there is a comparatively lower amount of NIMs that we maintain. So, the blended NIMs that you would see, we will see a few more hundred basis points dow nward traction before they stabilize at that level.
Harsh: Okay. And also our client base and branch network is also reducing , so what is the reason for this ? And in the future, what's the strategy for the same?
Abhinav Gupta: So, as we continuously mainta in in terms of, we have sort of reduced our unsecured book which was given in Tier 2, Tier 3 towns. So, in terms of branch network we think we have mostly downsized whatever that we had to do. Of the Rs. 250-odd crores book that we have currently left, around Rs. 100 crores is only present in the unsecured nature. So , going forward, as earlier stated as well, we will continue to focus on the secured lending, which would be a lower ROE, but a much more secured product fo r the growth aspect of the Company .
Harsh: Okay. And my last question, what is the reason for increase in the NPA for Q3 versus Q2?
Abhinav Gupta: So, between Q3 and Q2, as we have said, in terms of unsecured book, we were already seeing a little bit of st ress that was there in the last year as well. And we were very conservative in our approach to sort of start producing it before the industry. So, hence, I think as we were sort of downsizing our unsecured book, there were sort of some defaults that we had to take on our book. But going forward, we should see th ese kind of NPAs going downward only. Plus as our secured book grow, the blended NPAs will go further down from those levels.
Harsh: Thank you, sir. That answers my questions. I will get back in the queue.
Moderator: Thank you. T he next question is from the line of Rohan, an individual Investor.
Please go ahead.
Rohan: Thank you so much for the opportunity, sir. I just wanted to understand more on the subsidiaries part. So, like we have uTrade, we hav e Algowire, and we have Silverleaf , so I understand it is in the algorithmic trading segment , so how is that? And what is the r evenue we are getting from there? And how is the growth going forward? And what is the run rate we expect from these verticals?

Sachin Gupta: So, like you said, three subsidiaries on the tech side. So, Algowire is a subsidiary which is focusing only on the low latency products, like high - frequency trading, maybe helping with FPGA technology and all. So , Algowire does not provide any service with any outside client s apart from Share India.
So, Share India is the only client because they are serving only to the parent Company and to our needs, right? So , Algowire is not the Company which has been created t o get more revenues from the industry, they are created to help the parent Company to grow, especially on low -latency side of the trading, one.
Page 7 of 11 Two, Silverleaf. Silverleaf is in a HFT -based trading Company . As I said, merger will be done next financial ye ar. So, we are expecting on the Silverleaf we will be expecting not less than, revenue side, I am talking about gross revenue , it should not be less than anywhere between the Rs. 50 crores to Rs. 60-odd crores.

So, Silverleaf, once the merger will be done , we are expecting top line of Rs. 50 crores to Rs. 60-odd crores, and that's the initial revenues . And we are very hopeful the kind of technology they are bringing in, going further, if a parent Company like Share India is there, and we just help with mor e risk appetite and more capital exposure to them, then these numbers can easily multiply by 2x to 3x in next one year or two years. So , this is Silverleaf .
And lastly, uTrade. So, uTrade is a Company who focus es more on the customer -facing products. And in the last one and a half years, probably two years, they are only developing products for Share India. Now they are all set and they have created a very fabulous products of algo trading based on AI for the reta ilers, and the product has been delivered to Share India. And now next financial year, the core management of uTrade is focusing on opening uTrade for the multi -broker. They will offer the product to the multi brokers, not only Share India. And we believe that uTrade numbers should also multiply by 2 x to 3x in next one or two years.
So, uTrade and Silverleaf should give us really good growth in next two years. Algowire is just a support Company , which is helping the parent Company . And as SEBI has opened u p for the retail algos , so demand is there in the industry . And the kind of organized and future -looking products they have developed that's one of its kind. And once the management will start meeting and start tying up with the larger brokers based on the retail side, we believe the revenue will definitely go up and people will like their product. And Silverleaf, as I said, again, they are good in trading side. Once the capital is provided to them, then their number will also go up. So , both companies shou ld show at least 2 x to 3x growth in revenue in the next two years.
Abhinav Gupta: Also, I would just like to clarify. As sir said, Algowire caters to the need of the parent Company , which are used by parent Company to grow their own retail business. So, Algowire sort of gives us the low latency solution, which are the bread and butter for Share India Securities . And hence used by them, or the clientele of Share India Securities and the charges to them is in the form of broking income. So, a lot of broking i ncome growth that we are expecting should be driven from those solutions, which are created by Algowire. And uTrade and Silverleaf has been clearly explained by sir very clearly in his statement. Just a note, Silverleaf is yet to merge . As explained by sir earlier. Silverleaf numbers will start showing for the first time from Fiscal Year ‘ 27 onwards.
Rohan: Okay, got it sir. Thank you so much. That gives a lot of clarity. Thank you so much.
Moderator: Thank you. T he next question is from the line of Sejal, an individual investor.

Please go ahead.
Sejal: Sir, thanks for the opportunity. I just wanted to ask a question regarding the insurance segment. So , what would be the reason for the decline in revenue from that segment?
Sachin Gupta: Abhinav, can you please check? Revenues have not shown any declin e. Revenues are up.
 Abhinav Gupta: Insurance, as you would appreciate, there's a little structural issue where a lot of business happens in the Q4 onwards. So, far an insurance Company , measuring only Q1 or Q2 or Q3 numbers would be inappropriate numbers. JFM quarter is a very strong quarter and the Company in the overall growth number should be on a growth trajectory. In terms of Q3 to Q3 comparison, if you look on a year-on-year basis, there might be a little drop. But I think that's a very minute drop in terms of numbers. The projections for the full year are on track for that.
Sachin Gupta: So, full year projection, we are expecting at least 20% to 25% growth year -on-year basis from April to March . Because as Abhinav said, JFM is very crucial , so a lot of business discussions are going on . And we hope that, that will convert into the real business. And we are expecting 20%, 25% growth in the overall business in the insurance side.
Sejal: Alright. An d also, sir, about the broking business, so what would be driving the growth in that segment?
Abhinav Gupta: Ma'am, if you look at the micro level analysis, the biggest contributor has been the MTF in the last couple of quarters , and especially in the last fiscal year. So, the interest income, which is driven by the cash market, as sir has already explained in his opening comments, the volumes have stabilized in this fiscal year. So, the cash market turnovers are more or less back on track what they were in the earlier levels. So, the interest income would be driving as a component of broking income . Plus the new age products that we are doing with uTrade Algo and Algowire, which will help us create a niche into the segmen t, will continue to bring more broking clientele into the fray.

Sachin Gupta: Also, I would like to add here, like as Abhinav said, MTF is one driving force and our algo -based platform, that's a really good forward -looking platform has been created by uTra de to see all the wealth -based distribution which we are starting. So, that will add a lot of value to the retailers . Like there is a lot of demand for AIF, structured AIF, PMS and debt -based investment, which right now Share India is not providing to the client. So, once all these things will be in kitty, as I said from Q1 of next financial year, so along with that we are opening so many branches on ground in Tier 3 cities. So, once all these products will be introduced, we believe that it will help Share India to grow the retail base on the ground.

Sejal: Alright. Thank you.

Moderator: Thank you. The next question is from the line of Nitin, an Individual Investor. Please go ahead.

Nitin: Actually, what are the growth plans of going retail broking in the se gment by Share India? Like Groww and Zerodha are expanding massively to capture the retail clientele , what are our plans to go to these segments and all? And what are the plans of getting MTF books to mass people of India? What are our plans?

Sachin Gupta: So, as sir you said, Groww and Zerodha, so everyone is struggling with the numbers. They are also focusing on MTFs and wealth products. So, you can see Groww has started MTF last year, Zerodha started MTF last year. So , MTF is one thing which is very sticky to the retailer, so Share India is also. So, a s per SEBI circular, there is a limitation that a broker cannot fund more than the 50% of the net worth in MTF. So, that gives a lot of scope for the business in Tier 3 ci ties. So , Share India is also focusing on MTFs, like they are creating ne , we are focusing on offline. Everyone is working on their strength. So, MTF is one thing.

And as I said, how to grow? Next two-year target is to double the book from Rs. 450-odd crores to anywhere between Rs. 900 crores to, four figures, to Rs. 1,000 crores is our aim. And how we will grow it? It's very simple. As I said, we are planning to start opening our branches on ground in Tier 3 cities where there's still a lot of scope. People who are associated with the brokers, whose net worth is not so much where they can offer good MTF line to the clients , so there is the scope of exiting the business. So, Tier 3 cities is our focus.

And g oing further, if we are successful in running these five pilot branches, we will then keep on increasing the branches on the ground. And also, we are focusing on adding more associates on the ground in central part of India and southern part of India, and also on the west side. So, right now we are mainly in the northern part of India. So, we will increase our base in terms of branches and more associates. And using all this network, we will try to increase our MTF book and target is four figures in next two years, nearly doubling the book from here.

I think that was your question. Is there anything else in your question? I just got disconnected.

Nitin: Actually, I want to know what Share India is going to reach the mass people? Like we are seeing daily advertisements are coming in the TV channels by every brokerage house, Zerodha, Groww, Kotak Bank , there are some more of them , they are continuously givi ng ads and all of MTF books, come and have an MTF with us. What we are doing to capture these clients or what we are doing digitally to capture these clients?

Sachin Gupta: Abhinav, do you want to answer this?

Abhinav Gupta: Sure, sir. So, you need to unde rstand when you say mass level, the re are different sort of business strategies that are involved in it. Comparing a Company like Share India directly with likes of Groww or Zerodha would be a very unfair assessment. We are more of a physical presence, bri ck-and-mortar kind of a player. Our strategy is more on the lines, as sir has explained already, in offering multiple products with high touch base point s. Also , in terms of being focused towards insurance and other wealth management products.

In terms of retail network, neither are we targeting being the biggest player in terms of the number of retail customers. So, when you say mass -mass, there is a different strategy that is involved. And as explained, we will be focused more on high -touch businesses wi th more physical presence rather than being focused more on branding or advertisement purposes.
Sachin Gupta: I just want to add two things. As you said, so Share India is also planning to digitally advertise the products like uTrade Algo and MTF another p roducts digitally marketing or branding. For the branding purpose also the Share India is planning to start that in -house, so earlier we were trying to deal it through the vendor, which was an unsuccessful attempt. So, Share India is trying to setting the base in -house. And we will start marketing our products online on all the digital platforms possible. And also, the TV ads and all these things, they are continuously coming on the different channels. And we will be marketing our products, as I said, MTF a nd other products. So , we are hopeful that by way of marketing and physical branches on the ground, it will help us to connect with the masses of the Tier 3 cities.
 Nitin: Okay , thank you. And one question more , how much Share India is having a stake in MSE I, the new exchange, which is going to launch on 1st of February?
Sachin Gupta: I think, Abhinav, we are holding 3% equity?
Abhinav Gupta: 3% plus, sir.
Sachin Gupta: 3% plus equity Share India is holding in MSEI.
Nitin: Okay. Thank you. That’s all.
Mod e rator: Thank you. T he next question is from the line of Rahul, an individual investor.

Please go ahead.
Rahul: Good evening, everyone. The turnover has shown a significant growth in the Quarter 3 , how should we interpret this trend and the management look out for this?
Abhinav Gupta: So, sir, the ADTO numbers that you referred to have seen some growth in Q3 specifically, which are contributed by the stability that has come in the cash market , and also the commodity market growth that has been there.
Commod ity market, especially in the last quarter has seen a really uptick , which we believe is a structural number and should continue at those similar levels.
Going forward, we continue to believe that our ADTO numbers should remain in the similar numbers with plus/minus 5% kind of a variation going forward.
As the cash m arket and the entire F&O market’s the entire downside has been priced in and has seen a lot of stability in the last couple of quarters. And commodity uptick, we believe will continue , or if no t even continue, will be standard at this level going forward, at least for a few more quarters.
Sachin Gupta: So, I want to add some points. So, I will tell you, sir, overall see how the market behaves and a lot of regulatory challenges were coming, chang es are coming.
So, people tend to stop, wait and watch and then plan their strategy. Then slowly and gradually they get stabilized in the market. So, I will give you very simple information. Even yesterday was Nifty ’s monthly expiry, right? And Nifty Optio ns has touched the highest volume in Nifty Options yesterday only , so that was more than Rs. 90,000 crores, correct.
So, this was the highest volume in Nifty Options when SEBI stopped Bank Nifty and five -day day expiries , so this was the highest volume in Nifty, especially on Tuesdays, correct? So, we can easily see participation has started going up slowly and gradually in all the products, like by the retailer s, by the trader s, by the speculators, by everyone. And secondly , volatility is high. So, when the volatility is high, so regular activity tends to go up. So , as I said in my early comments, we believe that at least stabilization is there. So , the earlier trend was going down, then we see a stability for two to three quarters. Now from Q3, we have started seeing some growth in the volumes, but all the segments.
And also, commodity has added a lot of numbers in ADTO. Again, thanks to the volatility, gold and silver prices, all the matters and everything. So, all these things put together, overall participation in the market by all segments is actually growing. So , as I shared the Nifty numbers of yesterday expiry , it was highest number in Nifty after they shifted to the Tuesday.
Rahul: Thank you, sir.
 Moderator: Thank yo u. Next question is from the line of Danish, an individual investor.
Please go ahead.
Danish: Good evening, sir. Sir, I have just one question. So, basically, merchant banking revenues appear to be lumpy , can you please provide some visibility on the curre nt IPO pipeline and your confidence in sustaining deal flow for this?

Kamlesh Shah: Sir, you are absolutely right that merchant banking numbers would continue to have some cyclical effect because of the market conditions. We have around six approvals in hand. Going forward, to give you a little bit more visibility, as said earlier, we would continue to focus more on main boards because the cyclicity has a far bigger impact in SME markets rather than the main board markets.

We have filed one main board IPO in September, which we are awaiting approval, which we should hopefully open in next quarter. We have also filed one more main board IPO in January this year. So , our strategy in terms of build pipeline would be to let the market stabilize a bit when we go ahead and complete the approvals that we have in hand for the S

ME market , and continue to focus on the main board IPOs , plus work on the new companies in the deal pipeline from next year onwards. We believe in terms of market conditions; next quarter would also be crucial before we start seeing some sort of a very significant uptick in the market sentiment and all.

Danish: Okay. Thank you, sir.

Moderator: Thank you. As there are no further questions from the participants, I now hand over t he conference to management for closing comments.

Abhinav Gupta: Kamlesh sir, do you want to kick it off? Kamlesh sir, are you there?

Sachin Gupta: Abhinav, you can take it.

Abhinav Gupta: Yes. So , on behalf of Share India, we would like to thank all the participants for giving us your valuable time. The last quarter has been a quarter where we have seen some product stability coming in into the entire ecosystem, which we believe with your support w ill continue for this quarter as well. At the end of it, thanks a lot for attending the call. Thank you.

Sachin Gupta: Thank you, everyone. Thank you.

Moderator: Thank you. On behalf of Share India Securities Limited, that concludes this conference. Thank you for joining us . And you may now disconnect your lines.

Thank you and over to you, Sir.

Kamlesh Shah: Thank you, Madam. Good evening, everyone. On behalf of the entire team, I welcome all investors, analysts, and stakeholders to this Investor Meet .

As a Managing Director of the Company, I would like to thank you for your continued trust and confidence in us.

I would like to briefly present the financial results of the Company for the period und

Despite a challenging business environment, the Company has continued to focus on operational stability, financial discipline, and growth opportunities.

The Management has taken necessary steps to maintain efficiency and strengthen overall performance.

First, we shall discuss global environment and market context :

The global economic environment during the year remained volatile, impacted by geopolitical tensions, global trade uncertainties, fluctuating energy prices, and inflationary pressure. We also witnessed continued selling by foreign institutional investors d ue to global risk reallocations, higher interest rates in the developed market, and currency movement, which created intermittent pressure on the emerging market, including India.

Despite these challenges, the Indian economy continued to demonstrate resili ence supported by strong domestic demand, policy stability, and infrastructure -led growth.

Amidst these global and domestic challenges, the company remained resilient due to its diversified business model, disciplined risk Management practice, and strong operational framework.

The Management continued to focus on client -centric growth, cost optimization, and maintaining financial stability, enabling the company to navigate market volatility effectively.

Outlook on the Indian capital markets :

Looking ahead, I remain optimistic about the Indian capital markets. India continues to stand out as one of the fastest -growing major economies globally. Increasing financialization of savings, rapid expansion of retail participation, digital adoption, and sustain ed economic reforms provide strong structural support to the capital markets.

Despite short -term global uncertainty and market volatility, India remains one of the fastest -growing major economies which is expected to support long -term growth in the financi al and capital markets sectors.

The Management remains optimistic about the future opportunities while continuing to maintain a balanced and risk -aware approach. Domestic institutional inflows and retail participation are increasingly balancing the externa l capital movements. We believe the coming years will offer significant opportunities for well -capitalized, diversified financial services organizations such as ours.

Coming to the financial performance :

First, we shall discuss standalone financial perform ance :

I am pleased to report strong growth in our standalone performance. For the quarter - ended March 2026, revenues stood at INR 383 crore compared with INR 188 crore in the corresponding quarter of last year. That shows a 103% increase in the revenue.

Profit after tax increased significantly to INR 75 crore as against INR 16 crore for the quarter ended March 2025. That shows an increase of 368%.

Earnings per share improved to INR 17.6 compared with INR 11.7 last year.

For the financial year -ended March 2026, revenue increased from INR 320 crore to INR 395 crore, a 23% increase in revenue. Profit after tax rose to INR 298 crore compared with INR 247 crore in the Financial Year 2025. That shows an increase of 20%.

These numbers reflect improved operational efficiency, expansion across business verticals, and disciplined execution of our strategies.

Now coming to the consolidated financial performance :
Our consolidated results were relatively subdued compared to the standalone performance, primarily due to weak market conditions and fair value adjustments relating to the investment held by group companies.
For the quarter -ended March 2026, total revenue increased to INR 416 crore compared with INR 239 crore last year. That is an increase of 74%. Profit after tax stood at INR 58 crore versus INR 18 crore in the corresponding quarter. That shows an increase of 220%.
Page 4 of 21 For the financial year ended March 2026, profit after tax on a consolidated basis stood at INR 324 crore com pared with INR 328 crore in the Financial Year 2025 . Total revenue marginally increased to INR 1,470 crore compared with INR 1,445 crore in the previous year. While profitability was impacted by valuation adjustments, the underlying operating business remained fundamentally strong.

New initiative and future plan :
Going forward, our strategic priorities remain clearly defined. Continued expansion of our retail business , leveraging technology and wider market penetration across regions.
Exploration of overseas opportunities :
To diversify revenue streams, we have expanded our global presence.
Strengthening Wealth Management :
Vertical following successful launch of PMS business along with plans to introduce Alternative Investment Fund to broaden investment offerings.
Development of commodity business, which the Management believes will emerge as a significant growth driver in coming years.
Continued emphasis on operation al efficiency, risk Management and digital transformation to support sustainable long -term growth and create value for the stakeholde rs.
Key challenges :
The industry continues to face certain structural constraints. High transaction costs and compliance costs impacting overall margins , frequent regulatory changes requiring continuous operational and system adoption and RBI restrictions and tighter norms impacting funding availability for proprietary business activities. Despite these challenges, the Company continues to remain focused on maintaining operational resilience, prudent risk management and identifying growth opportunities in evolving market conditions.
With strong net worth of INR 2,655 crore as of 31st March 2026, we are well capitalized and competitively positioned to navigate these challenges effectively.
Way Forward:
Page 5 of 21 With our diversified and sustainable business model, strong balance sheet and experienced leadership team, we are confident of benefiting from improving geopolitical conditions and India's long -term growth story. The Company is well - positioned to benefit from emerging opportunities across the financial services and capital market ecosystem. While continuing to focus on sustainable value creation for all the stakeholders.
Before we conclude, I would like to sincerely thank all our investors, analysts and stakeholders for their continued trust and support. Your confidence motivates us to continue strengthening our business and creating long -term value.
Despite evolving market conditions, we remain focused on the disciplined growth, technological advancement and strong governance and client -centric execution. We are confident that the Company is well positioned to capitalize on future opportunities in the financial sector.
Thank you once again for joining us today and for your valuable time. We look forward to your continued support and association. Wishing everyone a great day ahead.
Now I would like to hand over to Mr. Sachin Gupta for detailed presentation. Thank you.
Sachin Gupta: Thank you Kamlesh Sir for the detailed presentation of Q4 Results, standalone and consolidated. Good evening, everyone. First of all, I would like to tha nk everyone for joining this call.
As Kamlesh Sir explained, overall last financial year, overall industry was in consolidating mode. and as we saw that lot of geopolitical stress and regulatory reasons that industry is still into consolidation mode. But as Share India, we focus more on diversification and creating new streams of revenue.
So, I would like to highlight some of the new initiatives we have taken last year and what is the status and what we are planning for the coming y ear.
So, as we discussed in the last call, Kamlesh Sir also explained, the Wealth Management is one thing which we believe showing some growth in the overall scenario. We are offering new products and selling the third -party products also is a core we have in mind.

So,

in Wealth Management side, led by Mr. Vijendra Nagpal, Charu Se hgal has joined. She will be leading the third party product selling and she has already started hiring the team and the operations will start in first month of Q3. So, this year Wealth Page 6 of 21 Management team has joined and operations will start for the Wealth Management as promised earlier and this is for the third -party product distribution .
And PMS, as discussed in the la st call, PMS we have started in this quarter and already PMS has grossed assets of more than INR 100 crore rupees and PMS is led by Mr. Vikas Singh, who is the fund manager and the target of FY27 is INR 200 crores. So, PMS is one thing we were looking to offer to the clients and we are getting very good response for the PMS from all the sectors of the clients. And the retail network is helping us in a great manner to get the AUM , and the target is INR 200 crores by the end of this financial yea r. Already we are sitting at INR 100 crore.
AIF is another thing that we want to offer to the clients. So, AIF CAT -3 has been applied to the SEBI. We are expecting the approval by end of Q2 and by this financial year our goal is to start the operations of AIF.
So, by end of this financial year, Wealth Management team will start their operations by Q3. PMS already star ted and AIF target is start the operations in this financial year. These are the three things on the Wealth Management side.
And we informed in the last call that Share India has ventured into debt market. This is another thing where we are focusing.
And debt market is growing in India these days. Demand for the NCDs and other products is really high. People want to diversify from equity to other debt products. And Share India has started a new company called Share India Cred. So, this compan y has also started the operations in Q1 FY27. So, already we have closed six issues till now. And the target is to do at least INR 500 crore worth of issues by FY27. So, debt market will give us very smart diversification. Operations has already started.
And we are hopeful with Wealth and Debt products we will get the diversification and new revenue streams with us.
Next thing is uTrade and as uTrade is a flagship product and it's very tough to push the new product to the retailers.
But I believe uTrade team and Share India jointly have done a great job. And in FY26 we have crossed more than 5,000 clients for uTrade . Right now, we have 5,231 clients in uTrade . That's a big benchmark we have crossed. And going further we believe as the awareness about the algo trading is spreading and Share India is a leader in providing the algo trading platform for the retailers , we believe that going further uTrade will be very strong and good product. This is a USP especially. Nobody is Page 7 of 21 offering this product. And it is helping lot of retailers to trade from their offices, from their houses and work from home or whatever they are doing. And helping them to create very sensitive new strategies, complex strategies. And also we are offering some set of 20 odd strategies from the uTrade platform. So, this is one product which we believe will catch up really good in the coming year. And 5,000 clients is really mark that we were looking for. So, going further we believe uTrade will also be a good revenue stream for the uTrade and Share India both.
And on the retail side, which is again the major focus area in the last financial year was retail. So, MTF book, I just wa nt to explain that MTF book was INR 239 crores by FY25 which has grown to INR 424 crores in FY26. So, target for MTF book is INR 650 odd crores by FY27. So, MTF is one thing which these days is in demand. And in last one and half month demand for MTF has gone up. And companies like Share India who are having big network so MTF is a natural product for us to offer to the retailers. And we belie ve that going further this is a very smart diversification. And MTF will give us good revenue stream in coming financial year.

Especially in retail side now I would like to inform that we have already started 6 branches in in Tier-3 cities. I just want to name some cities. We started a new branch in Hyderabad, Indore, Bhopal , Varanasi, Agra, Raipur and Nagpur. All these branches are up and running.
Hyderabad is one showing very good results. These are the 7 branches and 6 more branches we are targeting by end of this financial year. Now when I say these branches these are Company owned branches where we offer not only broking services , but all the Wealth products, Third party products, PMS, Tech products, uTrade , MTF and everything. So, we have a good product spread to offer from these branches. So, our goal is to approach the maximum direct customers as much as possible in Tier-3 cities.

Where people are still struggling to get the right MTF deals. Where in Tier-1 cities lot of brokers are offering good deals. But Tier-3 cities there is still lot of demand and there is no supply.
So, we believe that there is a vacuum in that particular side. And going further all these branches will start giving us good footprints on the ground. And Share India will not stop here. In next 2 to 3 years , we will be opening at least 30 branches on ground. And the idea is to offer all the products to the direct customers in Tier-3 cities.
And on institutional side again a great work done by Mr. Kalpesh Parekh and Himani.
They both are leading this particular vertical. So, in institutional side total empanelment of different institutions ha ve gone up from 137 to 186. It is a 35% growth overall.
And brokerage and other services and fee-based services are showing good results. We are hopeful that going further institutional business will also be one thing where Share India can expect good revenues. And on trading side our goal is very simple to keeping a very strong grip on our current business that is cash cow. But the real growth is coming from the commodity. Last 6 months commodity has shown very good results like becaus e of the volatility in all the commodities like gold, silver, crude and all.
Because of the geopolitical reasons which have given very good returns and demand for the commodity products have gone up. Even all the retailers now want to trade in options in c rude and NG . So, this is also giving bit of hope that going further commodities will be one product where prop trading and retail both will give us good revenue.
And another thing is Silverleaf .
So, Silverleaf merger as last call we spoke still in NCLT we hope it is in last leg of the approval. So, we should get in a maximum quarter s' time. Once that is done then Silverleaf is one thing where we believe going further our revenues can also be from HFT trading and it will be another diversified scheme for us.
So, this is the overall overview from non -core business that from non -trading side all these efforts and new verticals we started showing good results. And going further we have plans to growth in retail, PMS, wealth distribution all these sides. So, debt market particularly Share India Cred. So, all these things going further we believe will give good revenue and diversified revenue. This will make Share India complete financial service Company. S o, for the next three years our focus will be to increase our business in all these verticals. Also, as Kamlesh Sir explained expanding our footprint in international market is another thing that we are targeting. So, we are hopeful that Share India will be able to handle all the regulatory challenges which currently we are facing. And also, the current geopolitical challenges we are facing that should also be one thing that Share India will be able to absorb very smartly and come out of it.
And going further we see tha t the future of Indian financial market is really big like we are experiencing the change in the att itude of the retailers. We just need to offer the products like earlier it was only mutual funds , now people are more receptive towards new ideas like PMS, AIF, Wealth Management product, debt product.

So, the kind of product spread we have we are hopeful that we will be able to be benefited from the retail participation at the India level. So, going further we are hopeful that Share India will do good and will keep you keep all the investors informed in the calls. And going further that we are hope ful that Share India will do good.
Thank you very much.
Moderator: Thank you. We will now begin the question -and-answer session. Ladies and Gentlemen, we will wait for a moment while the question queue assembles. The first question comes in the line of Rohan with Eternal Capital. Please go ahead.
Rohan: Yes. Hi. Thank you so much for the opportunity, Sir and congratulations on the good set of revenue. So, just first question is on the margin front. So, I see that the margins have fallen quite a lot and I also understand that this might be a seasonal effect. So, every March I have seen that the margins have taken a dip. We just wanted to understand what this is exactly and how is it going to be sustainable like this in every March quarter or how is it and what are your thoughts on this?
Abhinav Gupta: Sachin Sir, you want to take it? Should I start?
Sachin Gupta: Abhinav you start, I will join.
Abhinav Gupta: Sure. So, thanks a lot for your query. I think what you are looking at it from purely from a margin perspective is only from a Q4 perspective. It somehow happens in that both the last two years both Fiscal Year '25 and Fiscal Year '26 the Q4 has been little rough. Prior to that we u sually used to have a better market scenario in Q4 earlier. So, I think it is more prudent to look at it from an annual perspective. If you look at it from an annual perspective as guided by us earlier we have maintained an EBITDA of around 38% , (+/-2%) and a PAT margin of around 22% , (+/-2%) which I think has been the broader guideline from the Management from the very beginning essentially.

Sachin Gupta: So, as Abhinav said I don't think there is a certain any kind of certain thing that Q4 is always tough. It is not like that. Last year and this year because of geopolitical reasons markets were very volatile and because of which we were seeing certain pressure on the margin and the revenues. But I think that is some kind of scenario where we are seeing that particular volatility in Q4 only. Before last year Q4 used to be the best quarter for the brokering industry because lot of activities by the retailers happened in Q4. Like they opt for better more financi al products and more investment and so many things. But I don't think so that this scenario will continue. Going further the only thing in our mind is all geopolitical is a regulatory thing. This will keep on happening. This is part of our business. But to absorb all these challenges we need to diversify as much as possible so that we don't get stuck in a certain revenue stream. So, which you guys must be seeing that companies already pushing it very hard since last two years. And retail has started showing good results out of it and PMS and other things. So, going further our focus is to push all these products very hard and for next three years. And also as I said international trading is one thing also in our mind. So, our goal is to diversify as much as possible so that we can absorb any kind of challenges. So, the Company should be able to continue with the current margins. There is nothing like Q4 type of pressure on us.

Kamlesh Shah: If you see we have improved a lot compared to the March '25 results. The profit after tax on standalone basis increased to INR 75 cr ore against INR 16 c rore. Even on consolidated basis the profit after tax remained at INR 58 crore compared to INR 18 crore. This shows that the initiative taken by us has played good results. And going forward we hope that things will improve both on geopolitical front and on ca pital market front. So, let us hope for the best.

Moderator: Thank you sir. The current participants have left the queue. We will go on to the next question. It is from the line of Murtaza with PinpointX Capital. Please go ahead.

Murtaza: Hi Sir, Good evening. I just have two short questions. Firstly, regarding uTrade as we are planning to go multi -broker with uTrade . Have you signed any broker partnerships yet? What is the current monetization model as in the subscription per user or reven ue share or some metric just to understand better?

Sachin Gupta: So, first part I will answer. So, as we said in last call that uTrade is planning to go multi -broker. So, we were in close touch with Motilal and Dhan and some other brokers. But one circular came from SEBI that earlier what used to happen the software company was able to use the infrastructure of the broker to offer their product. So, like their service, their co -location and other things. So, recently SEBI came up with a circular where if you want to give any kind of services from a third -party vendor, then the vendor has to set up separately for every broker. So, that's kind of extremely costly for uTrade at this juncture. So, because Share India has also no broke r want to set up entirely new set up for the uTrade and all the vendors. So, everyone is struggling. So, only Share India which were earlier user and we were having the set up for the uTrade . So, now we are pushing like we are pushing uTrade for the retailers. So, the third party, so multi -broker set up still is there but it is facing some challenges because the recent circular by the SEBI . And what was your second question?

Murtaza: Yes, so the ot her question that I wanted to ask is regarding our MTF book. Like it seems to be our biggest growth lever but it's our biggest cost drive as well. So, I just want to understand at what MTF AUM level does this interest spread and become meaningfully packed? And like I need some commentary and to understand this part better.

 Sachin Gupta: Abhinav, can you start please?

Abhinav Gupta: Sure. So, I think that would be a very kind of an unfair st atement that the entire borrowing that has happened in the last year or so is for the purpose of MTF. It's just though that for the cost element what you are looking at that the entire borrowing has been in the books for full year. While it takes some time for us to accrue the book over the period of time. So, of course whatever borrowing that you see in the end of Fiscal Year '26 will contribute completely for the full year Fiscal Year '27 . So, that's number one. Number two, the strategy in order to de vise a higher margin from the MTF book would be two ways. One, we are in constantly working in new interest, new borrowing models which can be in terms of NCD or in terms of any other borrowing from third parties. Of course, as we mature into that space go ing forward the interest cost for each and every element will continue to come down. And we see significant margins accruing to that effect in this year Fiscal Year '27 . At least on the borrowings which could be in a very few hundred basis points. And we c ontinue to leverage our presence as the Management said by opening more branches to grow more robust and continue to grow at a higher rate. Than what we have currently been doing with the vision to get it to INR 650 odd crores by the Fiscal Year ‘28 .

Sachi n Gupta: So, I want to add something here on the strategy side. So, as you rightly said, what is the strategy? So, strategy is very simple, to bring the cost down. So, for that we constantly approaching the different NBFCs as Abhinav explained rightly. And to increase the revenue what we are doing, right now the major book is through sub brokers or through mediators. So, what we are doing, we are opening direct branches in Tier-3 cities. So, when we are funding a client in Delhi, Mumbai, Calcutta, in metro cities, because there is so much supply, client is not ready to pay higher interest. So, there we are more dependent on the churning from the client. But in Tier-3 cities , their competition is less and interest rate charged by the sub brokers are much higher. If you open a direct branch in Tier-3 cities , there you can directly contact the client, remove the mediator and you can charge better interest than in the metros. So, that is why we formulated a strategy to open the direct branches in Tier-3 cities where we see MTF demand is much higher. Like Calcutta, we opened two years back, amazing work done by Calcutta. But yes, there is a challenge of interest rate. But Hyderabad w e started better than Calcutta. Agra, interest rate again higher. Raipur interest rate is moderate. So, likewise when you go into smaller cities, you remove the mediators and you directly in touch with the customers, so your margin goes up. So, going furth er, that's why we decided to open the direct branches in the Tier-3 cities . So, this is the strategy we are going to adopt for better N IM in MTF broker.

Murtaza: Sure, sure. Very well explained. All the best for the future. Thank you very much.

Page 12 of 21 Moderator: Thank you. Thank you. The next question comes from the line of Abhijit Sakhare with Kotak Securities. Please go ahead.

Abhijit Sakhare: Hi, good evening, everyone. Sir, my first question is that when I look at the brokering and trading revenues for the 4th Quarter close to INR 400 crores, if you can break it up between what would be pure brokerage versus let's say prop trading income?

Abhinav Gupta: Sure. So, I will start with it. Sachin sir, you can add on to it. So, currently the prop income for full year contributes. So, I will answer this question in two ways. One is looking at it from a revenue perspective and one from a profitability perspective. From a revenue perspective, prop income contributes around 70% of the revenue. But from a profitability purpose, the usual number what it currently is around 50%. So, in Fiscal Year ‘26 , the entire contribution from prop business was 49% and that is on a consolidated basis. On a standalone basis, that number was around 52%.

Sachin Gupta: I also want to add one thing. So, that's very important information. So, because of all the efforts d one in the last two years, especially with the high net worth individuals who are very who are looking for algo trading and deploy their funds using sophisticated strategies and algos. So, Share India got good penetration and good reputation in that sense and we are getting good clients. So, what has happened, our first time our client turnover is consistently more than 53% and 47% is in proprietary. So, that means client business have taken over from the prop business. So, this has happened first time. So, we believe going further, this will further improve. This should go to 60% by end of the financial year. So, that will bring more service -based income to the Company. And these numbers, as Abhinav explained, will keep on improving. And further our focus is to increase the client base and service -based business. We believe that these numbers will be much better in coming years.

Abhijit Sakhare: Got it, sir. So, my second question is that, similarly, when I look at the ADTO, is it possible to share what would be, let's say, the contribution of options product in that number? I think for the 4th Quarter , the number is about INR 109 million .

Abhinav Gupta: Correct. Yes. So, your query is on the Options for the entire quarter, essential ly. So,

Options contributed for Q4 around 18% of that number?

Sachin Gupta: Yes. Abhinav, can you explain what is the difference between ADTO last quarter and this quarter , FY25 Q4 and Q4 FY26?

Abhinav Gupta: Okay. So, from a Q4 -to-Q4 perspective, we have seen a significant jump and the major contribution has been due to the commodities. That year, we did around 14 billion kind of an ADTO, which has increased to around 4,500 to 5,000 approximately in Q4. That has been the major incre ment. Along with it, there has been slight drop in terms of the Page 13 of 21 future turnover and the option turnover, which option turnover and future turnover we have sort of been able to manage in the times of the regulatory headwinds. Along with it, we have also see n a very significant increase in the cash ADTO as well, which used to be around - 1,500 in Q4, which has now increased to around 2,000 for Q4 FY26.

Abhijit Sakhare: Okay. Got it, sir. And then finally, any thoughts on what are your views on the impact of RBI regulations for the prop side of the business?

Kamlesh Shah: We are making presentation to RBI. We have already done two -three meetings with RBI, and we have explained in detail why prop desk turnover is necessary. We are basically a liquidit y provider, so that is very crucial for the market that we continue to have the similar facility that is given to the bank ers part . So, for liquidity provider purpose, we are seeking relief under market making or the liquidity provider category with the Reserve Bank of India. We have several meetings with SEBI also on this matter, and SEBI is comfortable. They need a framework for the market making, because currently market making is permitted only for illiquid stocks, whereas F&O and liquid stocks do not cover the market making definition. So, we are working, and it will take three - four months for SEBI to come out with the solution o r the framework, and this is actively taken with the Reserve Bank of India. We are hopeful that they would consider, otherwise you know the situation will go back to the market like Korea, where everything is dried up, and even today they have not been abl e to recover. So, liquidity provider is very important for the market. In the morning, if someone wants to sell 10 lakh shares of Reliance, they won't find matching bids. So, it is only the liquidity provider which gives multiple platforms where they c an provide quote in options, in futures, in cash market, everywhere. So, that is how we are taking up the matter with the regulator. Thank you

Sachin Gupta: But I want to add one thing. What will be the impact on Share India? I tell you, we are in constant touch with the banks, all the banks possible. So, we have been classified as a hybrid broker, where we qualify for the bank guarantees for the client purpose, and as I said, client turnover is already exceeding the prop turnover, and co nstant increase in the client business. So, banks are extending bank guarantees for the client business, which will help us a lot. So, intraday limits are gone, that's fair. But we believe we will be able to manage business with the bank guarantees , and so there will be around 20% impact on the overall deposit and limits used by us. But at the bottom -line level, we believe impact will not be much, because we also believe because so much liquidity will be taken out from the market, so per trade margin will i mprove, and 20% is not such a big number. So, we are hopeful that we will be able to continue with the same numbers, and going further, there will be no materialistic impact on Share India's bottom line. So, right now, because of our retail business, banks are helping us and extending limits, all banks are extending limits to Share India in terms of bank guarantees . So, only impact will be intraday, but we are converting intraday limits also to the bank guarantees . So, we are hopeful that we will be able to manage this crisis.

Kamlesh Shah: As Sachin Ji has already told, on clientele business, there will be no impact, because we will continue to get bank guarantees for the clientele work, and on prop side, we have net worth of INR 2655 crore on a consolidated basis. So, that will also help to achieve our targets in the prop desk side.

Moderator: Thank you. Sorry to interrupt, Mr. Abhijit . I would request you to please come back in the queue for further questions. Thank you. The next question comes from the line of Sanjeev Pandya with Lancers Impacts Pvt. Ltd. Please go ahead .

Sanjeev Pandya: Sir, you talked about some funding constraints from the RBI for prop books, some emerging constraints that are coming up for prop books. Could you give us some color on that? Because SEBI also, I thought, has mentioned, I don't know whether there is a circular, on putting a cap on prop book sizes after the Jan e Street scandal.

Sachin Gupta: Kamlesh sir, you want to start?

Kamlesh Shah: Yes, there is nothing like that. You know, there is no such cap. In fact, SEBI is with us on this particular issue that the liquidity has to be maintained, and for that as I mentioned earlier, they are trying to come up with a framework for liquidity provider. So, I don't think there is any such circular which restricts prop desk. And I think we are well positioned in the market compared to our competition for achieving goals on both these sides, on clientele front as well as on prop desk front.

Sachin Gupta: So, as I said, there is no such circular from the SEBI side to limit the prop business. So, if you have money, you can trade. Nobody can stop. But on RBI side, RBI has categorized the two main issues that RBI has brought, one, is that no bank limit should be extended for the prop trading. It should only be for the client -based trading. Because Share India is a hybrid model where we have clientage and prop both. So, intraday limits are gone from the system, so RBI has disallowed the banks to provide any intraday limits. That's fair. But RBI has allowed the banks to extend the bank guarantees for the client -based business. As we have a sizable client -based business, we have been classified as a one hybrid broker, and banks are already extending bank guarantees to us, and all bank guarantees will be renewed, rather than new bank guarantees have been off ered and we are already opting for that. So, we will convert some intraday limits into the bank guarantees , so that will minimize the impact of the RBI circular. So, RBI circular majorly impacting Share India is only intraday facilities, part of which we a re converting into the bank guarantees . So, hardly 20% impact in the overall limits will be there from the prop side, but on the bottom -line side, I don't think there will be much impact or there will be any impact, because per trade margin will improve. So, this is about the RBI circular.

Sanjeev Pandya: Thank you, sir.
Sachin Gupta: Thank you.
Moderator: Thank you. The next question comes fr om the line of Urmesh Shah with Money Wiser.
Urmesh Shah: Sir, my first question is on the revenue split. When we are saying that we will diversify into new initiatives, so what change in the revenue split can we expect in the next three years, once the new initiatives kick in and do well for us?
Sachin Gupta: Abhinav, can you please start?
Abhinav Gupta: So, essentially, how we do classify it is that the entire broking piece is calculated together. So, even if, let's say, for all the diversification, whether that be Wealth Management or Distribution business, or whether that, for that matter, be that MTF, all of it would combine into the share broking business. So, whatever drop we see in prop business, essentially a majority of that chunk will get into the share broking business. Internally, share broking busine ss diversification is a number that we don't share. Of course, as we go along, there would be other divisions, which are called segregated separately, which are namely NBFC, merchant banking, insurance and technology, which together, in Fiscal Year 2026, combined around 7% of the bottom line. Of cour se, that percentage should also increase, but the majority of the increment will go into the share broking business as a whole.

Urmesh Shah: Can you quantify that increase?
Sachin Gupta: We can give the ballpark figure, but exactly quantifying the future d iversification…
Urmesh Shah: Yes, I am just asking for a ballpark figure.
Sachin Gupta: I tell you, as Abhinav has explained earlier, that right now we have 52% on the bottom -line side, and the rest is from the allied services, including on the consolidated basis. So, as I explained just now, that first time we have crossed more than 50%. Consistently, we are doing more than 50% turnover by the client s. So, what we believe, going f urther, client's turnover at least will touch 60% by the end of this financial year, and the prop turnover will be 40%. And the target of this financial year is at least bottom -line side, because on revenue side, it's very difficult to go. And bottom -line side, net profit from the client business should be more than 50%, or 55% and 45% from the prop side. And because, as you said, for the three years, so I tell you one thing, where we are using our capital. We are using our capital on expanding our client business. Like MTF book, there we are using our capital, like opening new branches, extending new facilities to the client. So, this is what we are pushing from our side. So, because prop business is consolidating because of so many regulations and so many changes in the total regulatory system. But client side has consolidated a bit, but now showing some growth in recent past. So, we believe going for the next three years, Share India, our wish, our goal is 70% business is from client in next three years, a nd 30% from prop. This is what we are wishing, because entire capital and efforts have been put towards increasing our retail business.
Abhinav Gupta: Right. So, just to clarify, 52% of the profitability is on the standalone basis, on the consolidated basi s, it's 49% already. As Sachin sir said, the goal is to take the prop to around 30% in next three years, essentially, in terms of profitability.
Urmesh Shah: Right. So, next question on the MTF business, I know you explained it before in the previous question also, but when you say that MTF target is around INR 650 crores for FY27, have I got that figure right?
Sachin Gupta: Yes, yes, perfect.
Urmesh Shah: So, if that is the target, and obviously, if the geopolitical situation and the volatility plays out, have we factored that in?
Sachin Gupta: No, see, we cannot. We don't know. See, we don't know that. See, MTF growth is entirely dependent on market performance. As in last quarter, there was no demand in MTF, but since Q1 of this financial year, again the market s are showing upside, and recent article in newspaper was demand for MTF has gone up again. So, MTF definitely depends on the market performan ce, and whatever the external reasons are, if market is performing good, demand for MTF goes up. So, what we are considering, when we are saying INR 650 crores , our consideration is very simple, that outside scenario remains normal, and market remains good . So, India is one market which has not performed the last year. If you compare to any Asian market, India is the worst performer.
Urmesh Shah: Yes, that is why I asked.
Sachin Gupta: Yes, this year if geopolitical situation gets stabilized, and markets ar e normal. So, my understanding is the kind of network we are having now on ground , demand is high, and there we believe another INR 200 crore AUM in MTF is not tough. But we cannot assure that, as there is a caveat that it depends on the market performance overall. My assessment is only about the kind of network we are spreading , from there, INR 200 Page 17 of 21 crore is not a tough target. We hope we will achieve it if in market other things remain normal.

Abhinav Gupta: Okay. Also, I would like to add, as Sachin Sir already said, that this business has some sort of cyclicity attached to it. But we take a lot of pride in the fact that within the Q4, while the market was extremely volatile, we closed December number at INR 457 crores, kind of an MTF, which only reduc ed to INR 424 crores . In the absolute scenario where there was a lot of volatility, the MTF book has not seen a drop of more than...

Urmesh Shah: Yes, it has stabilized .

Abhinav Gupta: Yes, so it has stabilized . So, that gives us a lot of comfort in the fact that the kind of network that we have created, and we are sure that even with the cyclicity, the deviation will not be of a very significant nature in numbers. That's number one. Number two, even at a INR 650 odd crores kind of a book, we are not targ eting a very significant market share when it comes to the entire MTF book that is available in India. I think even if we continue to maintain the same kind of market share that we currently do, even then by the virtue of the growth of the retail participa tion that is happening and the leverage that is happening in the system, we should be able to achieve these kind of numbers that have been stated. Of course, in case there is a drop in the market sentiment, there might be some sort of low single digit kind of a deviation over there. And third, the network that we are building, as explained by the virtue of hub -and-spoke branches, the Wealth Management branches, we are absolutely confident that the branch has far much more capacity to absorb that kind of boo k. Whether that we achieve by the end of this fiscal year or might deviate by a quarter or two, that depends on market scenarios essentially.

Urmesh Shah: Right. So, one question on the NBFC front. Our NIMs are 17.64 % for FY26, and it was almost equal to F Y25. So, what is the hurdle that we are facing that the NIMs cannot go back to FY24, FY23 levels? You know, if you could just give some color on that.

Abhinav Gupta: Well, see, to be honest, speaking NIM is sort of a number that has to be looked in its entirety because a t 17% NIM is mostly because we have not taken too much of a leverage. This is a business that we don't see it in terms of NIMs specifically because most of the capital that is used for loan disbursement is secured internally from the net worth of that NBFC. So, essentially, from a NIM purpose, as we go more secure in nature, we lend towards more secured lending. I only believe that the NIMs will go down while we grow the book essentially in that sense.

Page 18 of 21 Urmesh Shah: Okay. So, one data point, could you give some color on the average revenue per branch, if that is possible?

Sachin Gupta: Okay. This is a subjective thing because average revenue for every branch depends on the location. Like if you have a branch in Calcutta, revenues can be much, much higher. But if you have a branch in Patna, then you cannot match the revenues. Very simple. So, the issue is, you cannot span it branch by branch . What the target is ? So, the target for the Tier 3 , every branch has to do at least 10 to 15 crore MTF in a year. Every branch. Correct? So, let us suppose if we have 30 branches on the ground. So, INR 300 crores to INR 500 crore s we are expecting in a year from these branches. Correct? So, what is happening once you go through tier 3 cities, your ticket size dr ops, your risk got spread, and your margins are better. Correct? So, what branches will do? Every branch has their own niche, own demand. Like some branches in Indore, they might do very good business in unlisted market trading, or they do good on debt side. But maybe branch in Calcutta, they are doing very good on algo side. So, I tell you, Calcutta is a very -very big market. People are doing lot of options trading. But till now, even with large deep pockets, people are not exposed to algo trading at all. So, their Share India is getting good response from the clients, and we are only focusing on provi ding algo trading facility to all these traders. We are not pushing MTF , not pushing all these products. Correct? Because they are hardcore equity traders. So, every area, you need to understand the geography, you need to understand the demand of that area , and according to that, you need to push the products. Right?

Abhinav Gupta: I get that, sir.

Sachin Gupta: Yes.

Abhinav Gupta: So, to be honest, it's not a metric that we look at it from that perspective, at least from a KPI perspective of our retail team.

Urmesh Shah: Okay. No, I get that, sir. I was just asking why, because as you said, Calcutta is a huge market. And just as you showed the example of Patna, Patna obviously won't generate that kind of revenue. So, in the future presentation, ju st as a suggestion, if you could just incorporate these numbers, at least if region -wise, or if that is possible.

Sachin Gupta: Point noted. Will do. For the confidence of the investors, will do. Sir, I just want to comment that since last two years, we ar e already commenting on uTrade , we are commenting on retail business, MTF, so many things. Right. But you all can relate that slowly and gradually; we are implementing everything. Like since two years, we are doing a lot of efforts with uTrade . First time uTrade crossed 5,000 clients. That's a big achievement for us. It is still not a big number in terms of revenue. Right now, revenue Page 19 of 21 is not the focus. The focus is participation by the retail ers in algo trading. So, that there we have a lead, correct? We are definitely thinking that in the next five years, it can be a Zerodha movement for algo trading for retail. Their Share India can take the lead. So, we are implementing each and everything slowly and gradually. So, like Wealth Management , like PMS, everything. So, we particularly believe that we just want to ensure to the investors that our focus is diversified revenues, risk -averted business, and catering to the retail side, maybe directly or through the mediators. So, point well taken, Abhinav. Please note down. We can also give you the better presentation about the different branches and the business they are doing.

Urmesh Shah: Sure, sir. Thank you so much. That helps. Thank you and all the best.

Sachin Gupta: Yes, thank you.

Moderator: Thank you. The next question comes from the line of Abhijit Sakhare with Kot ak Securities. Please go ahead.

Abhijit Sakhare: Thanks for the follow -up. Sir, I just wanted to double -check the number that you mentioned earlier. Because of this RBI regulation, if it goes through, I think the date when it becomes effective is July 1st. You are anticipating around 20%, 30% sort of an impact on the prop side of the business.

Abhinav Gupta: No. I think I will be very clear. So, number one, the number that has been stated in this call is around 20%. And that is the number that is we are seeing a drop in margin essentially because of that and not the business. As we said, because the margin imp act will impact the entire industry, we believe the margin per trade would have a better revenue. So, it's like the unit economics will take a different curve. And hence the impact would be, remains to be seen, but we anticipate it to be much lower than th at.

Abhijit Sakhare: Yes, you mentioned the spread will widen so the revenue impact could be lower than that.

Sachin Gupta: We are expecting, sir, around INR 40,000 to INR 50,000 crores worth of capital will be taken out from the market. So, that will definitely impr

Abhijit Sakhare: Got it, sir. And sir, you mentioned about the Market Maker regime. Sir, in your view, if indeed we have a new regime i ntroduced by SEBI, do you believe that will offset the impact that comes from the RBI regulation? I am not clear as to how the Market Maker regime will offset the impact of the RBI regulations. My next question was, you mentioned about the Market Maker potential.

Page 20 of 21 Sachin Gupta: I will explain. Kamlesh sir will join, I will explain. So, as you said, what will be the impact of, or whether there will be any impact of that regime. So, I will tell you the difference. So, RBI circular said that bank guarantees can be extended to the Market Maker s for the market making activity. So, what industry is saying, people who are doing prop trading, especially arbitrage strategies, we are acting as a liquidity provider for the market. So, rather than using mar ket making, it should be liquidity provider. So, people who are providing liquidity to the market, they should not be discouraged from the trading. Once they are discouraged, then the impact cost will be much wider and liquidity will be tough in the market . So, what industry is telling to the RBI, that rather than Market Maker s, because there is not as such Market Maker s in India market, you allow the liquidity providers to get the bank guarantees from the bank. What will be the impact? So, impact will be, people who are doing purely prop and doing arbitrage strategies, they will be able to extend the bank guarantees for the business. For them, the impact will be nothing for them. Like, Share India is a hybrid model, right? But the brokers who are not hybrid , they are only doing prop, but arbitrage strategies, they should be allowed to take the bank guarantees . The reason is that, if 50% is coll ateral, given by the broker for the bank guarantees and if the risk is less than 50%, why not they should be allowed to get the bank guarantees ? That's the whole argument. So, once that is done, RBI's circular impact will be much lesser and liquidity will be good in the market, unless there will be a challenge of higher impact cost and liquidity in the market. That's the whole concern. But as far as Share India is concerned, Share India has already been classified as a hybrid broker, so there will be no impact of that particular thing on us.

Kamlesh Shah: Second thing we have to keep in mind, that the existing bank guarantee will continue.

I mean, until the expiry. So, irrespective of that, the bank guarantee which we have up to 30th of June would be permitted to continue, so there will be lesser impact on this year's performance. And let us keep our fingers crossed on the RBI issue and probably when the next investor presentation happens after the June result, we will have clarity on the entire issue.

Abhijit Sakhare: Understood. Sir, one final clarification. Is it a possibility that you are able to renew the bank guarantees before the deadline and then you can continue to use that even though the regulation becomes effective?

Kamlesh Shah: Absolutely. I mean, that has been permitted and it is all official, so the re is absolutely nothing to worry. In fact, as Sachin Ji has rightly said, we are converting intraday facility into bank guarantees. So, our efforts are towards that, that the minimum impact should be there on this particular event. And with the network, kind of network, see, we are better placed than the competition. So, that way also, we should be able to do and as I told you, the bank guarantee would be allowed till the expiry. So, by up to March 2027, there will be minimum impact.

Moderator: Thank you, sir. Ladies and gentlemen, that was the last question for today. I now hand the conference call over to the Management for closing remarks.

Kamlesh Shah: Sachin, would you like to elaborate something on the Metropolitan Stock Exchange?

Sachin Gup ta: So, we have a sizable investment in MSCI as we have invested in the two rounds. So, MSCI has launched their cash market recently and it is already up and running. So, they are consistently doing more than INR 300 crores to INR 400 crore volume on cash market side on a daily basis. So, that's the one big thing from the chain perspective and from our investment perspective. Going further, MSCI has planned to launch their IP O side where all the companies who are getting listed, they will be listed parallelly to MSCI. That will give them one more push in the turnover. Also, they are planning to start their SME segment. So, SME companies who are engaging with NSE and BSE, there will be one more exchange who will be allowing SME companies to get listed on their platform. So, MSCI is one thing. And also, if they clear all the regulatory approvals they are planning to launch their derivative segment in FY27 only. So, if they go as per their planning, we believe MSCI can give us very good return. Going furthe r, we are very hopeful , the way exchange has planned their future. So, that is very bright and going further, Share India will be one of the beneficiary parties from this particular investment.

Abhinav Gupta: So, Sachin Sir, is there anything more to add or shall we conclude the call?

Sachin Gupta: Yes, no, I think I am done. So, Kamlesh sir can conclude.

Kamlesh Shah: No, no, that's it, you know. I mean, we wanted to highlight a new opportunity and new exchange whereby we get different product. Even o n unlisted space, there is a lot of activity. And we look forward to actively play a role in the unlisted segment also. So, we are exploring all the new possibilities to see that we have diversified and sustainable business model. Thank you.

Abhinav Gupta: So, on behalf of Share India , thanks a lot to all the participants. Operator, you now may take over.

Moderator: Thank you, sir. On behalf of Share India Securities Limited , that concludes this conference. Thank you for joining us. You may now discon nect your lines.

Without any delay, I request Mr. Kamlesh Shah to start with his opening remarks. Thank you and over to you, Sir.
Kamlesh Shah: Thank you, Purvangi Madam. Good afternoon, everyone. Thank you for joining us today for Share India's Earnings Presentation for the 1st Quarter of Financial Year 2026 -27. We appreciate your continued trust and interest in our Company.
The 1st Quarter was characterized by a rapidly evolving regulatory landscape, heightened geopolitical uncertainties and continued volati lity in the gl obal financial market. Domestically, while India's macroeconomic fundamentals remain strong, the capital market industry witnessed significant changes, including regulatory measures introduced by SEBI in derivative segment and tighter funding norms prescri bed by Reserve Bank of India for top -desk trading.

2 | P a g e
Despite this industry -wide headwinds, I am pleased to share that Share India has delivered its strongest quarterly financial performance to date. This demonstrates the resilience of our diversified busines s model, disciplined execution and continued focus on sustainable long -term growth.
Talking about the financial performance :
During the quarter, our standalone revenue from the operation increased by 28% year -on-year basis to Rs. 349 crores , while profit after tax grew by 32% to Rs. 90.85 crore.
On sequential basis, the standalone P AT increased by 21%, reflecting continued opera tional momentum.
As at the consolidated level, the performance was even more encouraging. Revenue from operation increased by 31% year -on-year basis to Rs. 448 crores , while profit after tax rose by 48% to Rs. 124.41 crore.
Compared to the previous quarter , consolidated P AT more than doubled, registering an impressive 114% sequential growth. Diversified Business Model , One of Share India 's key strengths continues to be its diversified business model.
Our presence across broking, market -making, merchant banking, wealth management, treasury operations, technology -driven business and other financial services enabled us to reduce dependence on any single revenue stream. Diversification has allowed us to re main resilient even during the period of regulatory transition and changing market dynamics. Our financial position continues to be robust.
As of 30th June 2026, our net worth stood at approximately Rs. 2760 crore on consolidated basis, providing us with a strong capital base to support business expansion while maintaining financial flexibility.
To further strengthen our funding profile, we have initiated a commercial paper program backed by the highest short -term rating of Crisil A1+.
In addition, we are p rogressing with the issuance of Non-Convertible Debenture program which will diversify our borrowing sources, optimize funding costs and support growth of our leading and capital market business.
Technology and innovation :
Technology remains central to our long -term growth strategy. We continue to invest in artificial intelligence, automation and digital capability to enhance customer experience, improve operational efficiency, strengthen compliances and support better risk management. These investments not only improve scalability but also position us to respond effectively to evolving customer expectation and regulatory requirements.
Growth initiative:
3 | P a g e
Looking ahead, we remain focused on expanding our high growth business. We see significant opportunit ies in margin training facility, wealth management, portfolio management services, alternative investment funds, family offices, merchant banking and institutional business. At the same time, we continue to strengthen our retail franchise through digital p latform and technology -led customer engagements.
Funding strategy :
Since Share India is launching CP s and NCDs, this will help us to counter the RBI measures which restricted top desk funding and we continue to grow our business in uninterrupted manner.

Diversified funding framework:

Current Sources - We have bank borrowing and retaining Company’s profit to deploy for effective use, commercial papers, listed NCDs, internal accruals and many more. The benefits are lower cost of borrowing, funding diversifi cation, liquidity, flexibility, supports MTF growth and efficient capital management.

Outlook:

Although the industry continues to face challenges arising from regulatory changes, funding costs and geop olitical uncertainties, we remain confident in the long-term growth prospect of the Indian capital markets. Supported by our diversified business model, strong balance sheet, technology -driven approach and experienced management team, we are well positioned to capitalize on emerging opportunities.

Subject to overall market condition, we remain confident of delivering around 20% growth during the current financial year.

Before I conclude, I would like to thank our shareholders, investors, customers, business partners, regulators, bankers and our dedicated em ployees for their continued confidence and support. We remain committed to delivering sustainable growth, maintaining the highest standard of governance and creating long -term value for all our stakeholders. Thank you for your time and continued support.

With these words, I would like to hand over proceedings to Mr. Sachin Gupta for detailed analysis and future growth strategy. Over to you, Sachin. Thank you.

Sachin Gupta: Thank you very much, Sir, for explaining the Q1 results in detail. And thank you everyone for joining the call today. Good afternoon.

So, as Kamlesh Sir explained that we are very confident despite all the challenges from the regulatory side, we are confident that we will keep on growing in this challenging environment. And as we all k now, our focus is always, since last 2 -3 years, our focus is to grow on the retail side and a lot of new products have been introduced and launched. And slowly and gradually, all these products are showing positive results for us.

I will just explain step by step where we stand in terms of all the offerings and what are our future plans.

So, Share India's core focus is into retail, now offline retail, and we are constantly opening our new branches in t ier 3 cities mainly. And the focus is to expand our MTF book and retail footprints into the cities and offering not only the broking, but all the wealth products to all the customers at the ground level.

So, recently we have opened six branches, mainly into Banaras, Indore, Bhopal, Raipur, Agra, and Nagpur. S o, Hyderabad also, seven branches we have recently opened. And it's a mix of South and, you know, focus is not on North only because we are already having a good presence in North.

So, we are hopeful that, you know, as we targeted 30 branches in next two y ears, seven are already operational. Once these branches start showing positive results, then we will again continue, you know, our journey with the branches on the retail side at the tier three cities. So, retail business is showing good results and as MT F book stands around Rs. 470-odd crores at the end of Q1.

So, despite the extreme volatility due to international factors, markets, especially mid -cap, small -cap stocks are extremely volatile. Still, we are able to hold on to our MTF numbers and they are showing mild growth. So, Rs. 470 crore is the number and by next two years our target is touch four figures, Rs. 1000 crore book we are targeting in next two years.

So, MTF is one thing where we are bullish and it gives us sustainable revenue. And with MTF, we are able to hold on to the clients and we get rub -off effect into the wealth products and the derivative side and everywhere. So, retail side MTF is at Rs. 470 crores.

We launched our PMS in Q1 and at the end of Q1 our PMS AUM and the direct PMS and advisory stands at Rs. 150 crores. That's a very decent numb er as the PMS was launched in Q1 only and our target by end of financial year anywhere around Rs. 250 odd crores. More under -code AUM in PMS this financial year.

So, PMS is another product which helps us, which gave us big motivation as Rs. 150 odd crores AUM in Q1 in first three months of the launch is a big boost for us. AIF still we are working with the regulatory things. We believe we will be able to launch our AIF in Q3.

So, that will be another product, wealth product from our side and there we also believe that results will be good and we will be able to get good clientele in AIF also. But on the institutional side, that institution team is constantly showing good growth. Every quarter they are able to grow around 15 % to 20%.

So, right now after the Q1 our institutional active clients stand at 212 versus 186 clients till Q4. So, that's a 15% growth overall into the institutional business. And uTrade subscriptions, uTrade is our algo strategy for retail.

There we have seen a 20% growth into the subscriptions between Q4 and Q1. So, uTrade is also one thing which is a unique product offering by Share India for our clients. And another business that new branch we started in Q1 was Share India Cred .
Share India Cred was a debt tradin g company. So, now this company is mainly into dealing debt market products especially NCDs and all. So, the great part is it started operations in Q1 only and it is led by Mr. Keshav Goyal. So, 1st Quarter they have done the sales of around Rs. 74 crores. They have underwrit ten Rs. 74 crores and they have done six issues and with EBITDA of Rs. 1.08 crores and PAT of Rs. 40 lakhs.
So, we started operations in Q1 and the company has done a decent sale and a positive number of Rs. 40 lakhs. That's a big encouragement for us.
So, all departments, all divisions which we started since last 2 -3 years have started showing good numbers now. And we are hopeful the way we are going will be able to offer wide ra nge of products to all the customers. So, that is what is helping us.
But another silver lining is GIFT City. GIFT City, we started some international trading desk. Recently, it was facing some challenges.
But Q1 showed very good returns. So, GIFT City num bers in Q1 were positive. So, around Rs. 2 odd crores. So, that's also a big encouragement for us wherever we were making some small losses and it turned out to be a very good quarter in GIFT City also. That's a big encouragement. So, there is no burden on a single company now. And on the merchant banking side, again merchant banking team is very boosted up. They are doing decent job in Q1.
We did one IPO which was an SME IPO, I think around Rs. 200 odd crores. So, that was a big boost for us.
And today when we are speaking, we have just finished our first main board IPO and we raised on Rs. 167 crores. And the overall subscription till now is more than 12 x into this challenging market. Although market is good today, but in last week market was very bad, very volatile.
Still, we did a very decent job and merchant banking team is doing very good job and we are hopeful that coming two, three quarters we will be able to show very good results from the merchant banking team also. So, all divisions wh ether it is retail, PMS, AI F wealth products and all the AC team and especially Share India Cred , GIFT City, they are the big boost for us in this quarter.
Merchant banking, they are doing decent job. So, we are hopeful, the grip is very strong, very diver sified and we are able to offer multiple products to the customers and with the footprints on the ground with the Tier-3 cities. So, we will be able to hold on to our numbers and as Kamlesh Sir has said, we are hopeful to achieve the growth target we are expecting.
So, Company is on very strong footing despite lot of regulatory challenges, we believe major challenges are over now and future seems to be very good for Share India. Every team is very motivated, extremely pulled up. On the wealth side, las t thing, last comment, on the wealth side, wealth distribution team they are already hiring, the team hiring is going on and we believe that we will be able to start our operations by Q3 of this financial year.

So, going for the next 2 to 3 years, we belie ve that we will be very solid in all the different revenue streams which is extremely diversified an d which gives most sustainability to us and we hope so that this business environment is good for us and going further, I am very hopeful, the way business is shared by Share India should do good in coming 2 to 3 years.

This is from my side, Sir. Thank you very much.
Management: Operator, you may please open for Q&A.
Moderator: Thank you very much. We will now begin the question -and-answer session. Anyone who wishes to ask a question , may press star & 1 on their touchtone telephone. If you wish to remove yourself from the question queue , you may press star & 2. Participants are requested to wait while asking questions. Ladies & gentleman, we will wait for a moment while the question queue assembles. Participants who wish to ask a question may please press star & 1 at this time. The first question is from the line of Shubhi from 3 Nidra Asset Mana gers. Please proceed.
Shubhi: Good afternoon, sir. So, my first question is that we have a goal of opening 30 branches in about Tier-3 cities over the next few years. So, what is the expected payback period for these branches given the ticket size and the revenue for branch would be lower in these regions?
Kamlesh Shah: Sachin, would you like to answer first?
Sachin Gupta: Sorry, I missed the last part of the question. So, I just heard that we are planning to open Tier-3 branches. So, what was the last part of the question?
Kamlesh Shah: What could be the period by which we could be profitable?
Shubhi: Payback period.
Sachin Gupta: So, I tell you, Ma'am, there is a very simple science with every branch. So, I can happily explain that. So, our goal is 8 months branch should be at par within 8 months.
And the mathematics for that is every b ranch needs to do at least 15 Cr. MTF book in the first 8 months. So, if the branch is able to achieve 15 Cr. MTF book, then branch automatically starts generating good revenues. So, first 8 months is a unit economics with every branch.

So, rather, in a sales pitch, we keep it 6 months. But we have seen that if the branch manager is good, if team is good, and they are able to hold on to the customer, so there is a vacuum on the ground that MTF in the Tier-3 cities and swing by the brokers is not much. Some brokers are definitely present, but they have very limited options in the Tier-3 cities, especially for MTF.
So, 8 months is a period for every single branch independently to get at par. And after 8 months, we start getting positive for every branch. So, that is how we have started to move ahead. Like 24 months, we are planning to ope n around 30 branches. So, we are going like 8 branches in one tranch e. So, once the 8 -month period is over, then again, we will go for the 8 branches. So, this is how we have spread our overall target to go for the branches. So, for the next 24 months, we were hopeful that we will be able to open around 30 branches, 25 to 30 branches. And every branch should be profitable. And if some branches are not profitable, even after 12 months, then there is a hard stop after 12 months. There is no looking back. We h ave to stop the branch, cut the loss -making branches and continue with the profit -making branches. So, every area, every geography has their own unique demand. Like you know if you go to Hyderabad, they do need MTF, but their quality they are asking is muc h different from Calcutta. Calcutta is highly derivative -based location where people are trading heavily into options. Their algo is not at all available. So, their pocket size is big.

They are trading into Rs. 100 crores of margin, but they are not introduced to algos at all. So, what we are doing, we are meeting people, high net worth individuals and providing them the best of tech we can do and there we are getting extremely good business. When we go to Hyderabad, there we need to be very careful w ith the MTF offerings, but their deriva

business is not that great. There we have to go with the good research; cash market m ake loss and offer the MTF book. So, every region has their own demand, own way of trading. Like if you go to Indore especially , there people are investing more into IPO s and the new companies. And the best part is Share India is able to take care broadly all the demands by the customers. So, if you put all products together, so we are hopeful that 8 months is a good enough period for a branch to get profitable now.
Shubhi: Okay, sir. Thank you. This is very helpful.
Moderator: Thank you. The next question is from the line of Pooja Patel from Rudra Capital. Please proceed.
Pooja Patel: Sir, I have one question regarding to our low PE and high growth, but the stock is not performing well in market.
Kamlesh Shah: Sachin, would you like to tell something on this?
Sachin Gupta: Sir, see, this is a little bit hypothetical question. So, we cannot comment on the stock price and the stock performance. So, it's a stock performance is a result of so many activities. It's beyond business sometimes. So, it is maybe, you know, our industry is going through extremely heavy regulatory changes. So, definitely growth ha s been challenged and people are taking more time. This is a consolidation period for the industry. And last two years, we are struggling with these things and entire industry is consolidating at some axis. And once the industry overall goes into a growth trajectory, then I think, you know, it can reflect into price. But price is a result of, you know, so many other factors which are beyond Company's control. So, we cannot comment much on that part. But yes, Company is very strong. Ground is strong. We were able to, you know, handle all the challenges that were coming for the industry. And we were able to diversify, use this period to diversify into different verticals like if you see 212 institutional clients, if you see gift city operations, merchant banki ng, first main board IPO, we completed today. And constantly we are upgrading our s cales , upgrading our business style, also expanding into different verticals. So, maintaining our MTF book .
Pooja Patel: When are you going to launch AIF?

Abhinav Gupta : So, we are planning to launch AIF as expected. This is Abhinav. As explained by Sachin sir earlier in his commentary, AIF is application under process. And we should be able to initiate our process in Q3 of current fiscal year.
Kamlesh Shah: See, there wer e many apprehensions regarding growth of stock holding entities, especially with respect to the regulatory changes that has happened and the tightening of F&O regulations. In addition to that, you know, RBI also came out with guideline for prop desk f undin g. Now, all this put together, you know, has created certain apprehension in the mind of investors.
But if you have seen the last quarter performance, though the entire period of three months was marked by geopolitical conflict, still this was one of the b est quarters for the company. See, we are very quick. Even for regulatory changes, we are prepared in advance. We have very high net worth, which accommodates us with more flexibility and room for expansion. Not many small brokers are facing difficulties to meet the additional capital requirement, whereas we have planned everything in advance, including issuance of NCDs and CPs, so that, you know, our business remains intact. If you see our performance compared to our peers, we have performed far, far better. And we are not dependent on one stream of revenue. We have diversified stream of revenue, so that is helping us also, you know. And going forward, we feel that things are getting settled. And, you know, we are getting benefit of all the ef forts that we have done, all the advance planning that we have made. And we are in a better position to, you know, the market.

We have also focused on the retail and we have unique advantage of algo trading. So, that is how, you know, with the inpu t of AI and automation, you know, we are well placed. So, we are confident the share price will get reflected automatically, you know, based on the performance and once the market gets settled.

Pooja Patel: Thank you. And, sir, last question. Sir, what is the purpose of acquiring a tech company from Bombay?

Pooja Patel: Yes.

Abhinav Gupta: Yes. So, Silverleaf acquisition was announced couple of years ago. This is a company led by Piyush , Dhananjay , both I IT Bombay graduates, along with Prakash.

They have been in the business for more than 12 years. And they bring into the table not only the technology stack, but the entire HST protocol into the Share India fold. And along with them, we are really hopeful f or our geographical expansion in third party countries apart from India as well.

So, it is a strategy in line with our global expansion plan, apart from just being focused on India - based products, along with strengthening our technology backbone and the ba ck stack of the current strategy.

Pooja Patel: Thank you Sir, thank you.

Moderator: The next question is from the line of Rohan from Eternal Capital. Please proceed. Mr. Rohan, your line has been unmuted. You may proceed.

Rohan: I think some of my questions might have been answered previously, but I wanted to just understand what were the key drivers for the good performance in the broking and trading segment despite, I think, the RBI policy and all those statement s? And can you provide a split between the prop trading and broking and the broking and trading segment in that?

Kamlesh Shah: Sachin, would you like to answer?

Sachin Gupta: Abhinav, start. I will follow up.

Abhinav Gupta: Yes, sure.

Abhinav Gupta: So, th anks a lot for this query, sir. I think as we have been continuously reporting, you know, even in this call we have said that there have been a certain amount of regulatory headwinds that have been in this industry for the last couple of years and specific ally for the last couple of quarters. And during this transformation, what we have been able to do, we have been able to diversify ourselves into multiple business streams. Along with the background, we have been able to change the basic drivers from prima rily being a transaction -based business to being more of a lending -based business. So, what I mean by that is now we have a very significant amount of MTF book, which is around 465 odd crores. So, there is a significant amount of interest income that comes through because of this on our income statement, which has a very significant and a direct impact on our bottom line. Along with it, all the transaction -based businesses, as we go and penetrate into Tier-3 branches, we open new branches, we engage with ne w customers, the above effect of multiple transaction -based businesses also keeps showing, which add on to our top line without multiple, without a very significant cost being associated with them. And as explained earlier, all the costs associated with th is expansion has already been included in the P&L. So, hence, the current impact of any revenue growth that we derive from these businesses is very significantly visible on the bottom line.

In order to, so this is what the drivers are essentially, the cash segment is doing really well in current segment, which is being driven by not only the transaction -based business, along with it, the MTF book. Also, the diversification into multiple products, whether that be PMS or mutual fund distributions or any third -party distribution or any other kind of product, are also adding on to the bottom line. In terms of distribution, our current prop to distribution is in what has been our average of around 52% is from prop and around 48% is from the broking business.

Sachin Gupta: Now, I would like to add here, if you look at the numbers, so all the subsidiaries have shown very good results, that not only the parent company, they are not depending on the parent company only. So, if you look at Share India Ang lo Plus, they have given the very good numbers. If you look at IFSC, again, that company was into losses, they have shown good results. Share India Fincap, their numbers have improved. Share India Capital Services, their number have gone up. So, all these subsidiaries, they have contributed really well. And even in Share India , parent company, retail per se, business revenues have gone up and like interest income has got stabilized and other things. So, putting all things together, so yes, definitely some i mpact of the valuation. In quarter 4, there was negative impact on the valuation, but still, valuation number was not that great, but some positive impact at least. So, putting all these things together, this quarter was very good for us and if we are able to hold on the same performance by the subsidiaries, it will be a great support for the parent company. And going further, we believe Share India will keep this flow maintained for the coming quarters.

Kamlesh Shah: I would like to add a few points here s o that it can benefit all the investors. The realization during the quarter has improved a lot. We are in a position to maintain the market share because of the advanced planning and preparedness to meet the requirements of the margin and funding. Commodit y business also is showing a lot of improvement and that also is adding to the profitability of the Company. We are very well positioned in the market compared to our peers. The smaller players would find it difficult to go and service their client. And with the kind of technology, background, use of AI and automation, that has given us edge compared to peers in the market. So, we have done, as I mentioned to you, even though the entire period was marked by geopolitical conflict, we could deliver the best result possible. And going forward also, we are confident that we should be able to do better this year compared to the last year. Thank you.

Moderator: Thank you. The next question is from the line of Chirag Sehgal from First Water Fund. Please proce ed.

Chirag Sehgal: Hi, Thanks for the opportunity. Just a question on this Enshrine acquisition that you have made. So, you have mentioned consideration of up to Rs. 45 crores. I didn't understand why up to Rs. 45 crores. Is it yet to be determined, the acquisition value? And secondly, if I look at the numbers, the last three years' turnover that's mentioned, it's Rs. 2 crores, Rs. 2.2 crores and Rs. 3 crores. So, can you explain how did you arrive at this Rs. 45 crores cost of acquisition for such a small company? What is the rationale?

Kamlesh Shah: See, they have property. See, the basic idea of acquiring this property was to get a new office in Mumbai. And this is located in interface 11, which is the prime ar ea.

And the value of property itself is more than Rs. 42 crore s. So, idea and this is, you know, this company is holding the property and that is the main reason for acquiring the company. This will give us, you know, office space of around 18,000 square f eet carpet area and it is in the prime location.

So, this will give us an advantage of consolidating all the offices in Mumbai and to have better visibility and, you know, better delivery plus the, you know, at one place, if you have all the people sitting , that will enhance the efficiency and productivity of our employees also. So, in fact, you know, the valuations are very, very reasonable. For 18,000 square feet area, carpet area in Mumbai, for Rs. 42 crores, you can work out what could be the cost per s quare feet. So, this will give us an advantage.

The entire idea was to acquire this company because this was done by Mr. K. R aheja. The development was done by K. Raheja and the way the offices were distributed was through companies. So, we have acquired this company. With this company, the property comes. I hope this will clarify your query.

Chirag Sehgal: Yes, that helps. Thanks for that. So, second question is on the, you know, the growth in the broking and trading segment. So, if I got it righ t, you mentioned that the Prop is 50-52%, correct?

Abhinav Gupta: Correct. Yes, okay. So, in terms of profitability.

Kamlesh Shah: In terms of profitability.

Abhinav Gupta: Yes, in terms of profitability, not in terms of revenue.

Kamlesh Shah: Yes, I mean, we are moving towards more of clientele business with the help of, you know, all the products that are available, including PMS, AIF, retail, algo trading, and more focus is on retail. So, we would, so currently the ratio is around 60% volume bei ng done by clientele business and 40% through PropDesk. Going forward, you know, we'll try to enhance our share of retail trade with the different offerings that we have. We have a complete product portfolio. So, we can offer everything to our customers an d we are well equipped. We have a very good team. So, we are taking new initiative to see that, you know, we can have our footprint in the wealth market also. So, these are the, you know, vision of the management and I believe, you know, this will further strengthen our sustainability of business. Sachin, you would like to add something here?

Sachin Gupta: I think Abhinav was saying something. Yes, yes.

Abhinav Gupta: So, I think as explained by Kamlesh sir, and as asked in the query , when we say 50 to 50% approximately has contributed the prop, it is in terms of the profitability. In terms of revenue, of course, those numbers can have a different point of view, given that prop business might have more turnover based transactions rather than pay -as-you-go service -based transactions.

Chirag Sehgal: How much is it as a percentage of revenues?

Abhinav Gupta: So, in terms of percentage of revenue, it would be approximately 60%. If I have to give a ballpark figure, it would be around 58 % to 60 % as well.

Chirag Sehgal: Okay. So, you know, when I look at, let's say, 8 -9 years ago split of prop and client business, and when I look at the prop share in the total revenue impact, it used to be, you know, 60% of the revenues and say 70 -75% of the PAT . So, definitely it has come down, but it has not come down. The dependency is still very high on the prop book as a percentage of a total top -level impact.

Abhinav Gupta: I'm sorry to cut you off on this. I'm not sure where you're getting your data from, b ut if I could speak about from 8, 8 and a half years, 8 -9 years ago, at that point of time, prop business used to contribute around 90% of our revenue and around 70 -75% of our profitability. It has never been…I mean, so even pre -COVID, business used to be 85% dependent on propriety in terms of revenue and around 70 -75% in terms of profitability. And as explained in our earlier calls as well, we have been constantly trying to reduce our dependence on propriety, not only because of trying to reduce our depend ence, but all the other businesses are going much faster than what proprietary businesses are doing.

Moderator: Thank you.

Sachin Gupta: And one more point here. Please also try to note that the size of the business has grown up multiple times since last 7 -8 years, especially after COVID. And even after that, we are able to increase our customer -based services here in revenue and start, like, drastically high. So, as Abhinav said, 8 years ago, it should be around 85 -90%, which is around 60%, even afte r the size has gone up, like, multiple times. So, that's because, you know, constant effort and new revenue stream . So , you can easily figure out the number of branches, 5 years back, number of branches now, no PMS, no wealth stream, no Share India Cred, N CD, no wealth management, so no merchant banking, nothing. Correct? So, all these efforts have been done in last 3 -4 years and they all are showing good results.

Kamlesh Shah: See, we have some unique advantage of algo trading. So, we have algo for the ret ail investors. In addition to that, you know, we have our own technology platform called Tech yon. So, on technology front, you know, we have managed very well. Even acquisition of Silverleaf, you know, which is HFT firm, has added our strength in terms of technology and delivery. So, we have certain unique advantages and, you know, we are basically strategy -based, you know, clientele -based. So, this attracts lots of, you know, clients who would like to do algo trading or automated trading and use our platfo rm. So, this all thing has given lot of advantage and that has made us, you know, unique business model compared to the other players in the market. Thank you.

Moderator: Thank you very much. Due to time constraints, that was the last question. I would now like to hand the call over to the Management for the closing comments. Over to you, Sir.

Kamlesh Shah: Thank you, you know, thank you all the stakeholders to have participated in this meeting. Indeed, you know, the questions that were asked during the session were very interesting and it has given us lot of opportunity to explain not only what we are doing right now, but also, you know, it has given opportunity to explain our future plan and the way we are likely to move ahead in the market and maintain our market share as well as, you know, competitiveness in the market. The numbers are already good. So, with the things getting settled, we hope for better future for the market. Any, you know, regulations may have short -term impact, but overall, you know , in long term, those who can adapt to the system efficiently will always get benefited. So, thank you again. Thank you all for attending this meeting and, you know, having your trust and support. Thank you.

Moderator: Thank you. On behalf of Valorem Advis ors, that concludes this conference. Thank you for joining us and you may now disconnect your lines.
